

50-

2665.

Wing

Extremely rare book

50c. 1344

B. Packray
May 2. 1861.

Wing
1344

1865
Wing

Collected & set forth by Richard Bancroft Doctor in Divinitie, then Lord Bishop of London & afterward Lord Archbishop of Canterbury.

50-

2665

CP

Extremely rare book

Dr Doctray
May 2. 1861.

This treatise seems to have been drawn up by Barnett as a sort of indictment against the Unitarian & Church reformers -

Wing
1340

DAVNGEROVS POSITIONS AND PROCEEDINGS, published and practised within this Iland of Brytaine, vnder pretence of Reformation, and for the Presbiteriall Discipline.

Δειρά τὰ ἔργα τυραννῶν λίμματα.

My sonne feare the Lord and the King : and meddle not with them that are seditious. Prov. 24. 21.
 They despise gouernement, and speake euill of them that are in authority. Iude.

By W. W.

LONDON
 Imprinted by Iohn Wolfe.

1593.

И О Д И О

Исторический музей

1922

An advertisement to the Reader.

THE Author of this Treatise was required by some persons of honor, who might dispose of him and his labours: to set downe by way of an historicall narration, what hee had obserued touching certaine positions holden, and some enterprises atchieued or vndertaken, for recommending, and bringing the Presbiteriall Discipline into this Island of Brittain, under pretence of reformation. The performance of which dutie, when hee had vndertaken and was entred into it: hee found the worke to grow farre greater vpon him, then at the first, he did imagine. In somuch as although in the beginning he verily supposed, that hee might easily haue contriued his matter into a few sheets of paper: so that as many coppies, as were to be disposed, might easily and in very short time haue bene written forth: yet by the necessary length of the Discourse, as it fell out, and through his manifold quotations, hee was constrained, (as the time required) to procure for the better dispatch, that some fewe copies might be printed. And albeit there is no meaning, that this Treatise (laboured but for the priuate satisfaction of some fewe especiall persons) should otherwise continue then as an unpublished Copie: yet the writer of it wished to haue it signified, that nothing is alleadged therein, which is not to be found either in Bookes and writings published to the view of the world, (such as he thinketh will not be disclaimed,) or in publike records, or else is to be shewed vnder those parties own hands that haue bene either the principall procurers, fauorers, or dealers in those things, whereof hee intreateth. Which asseueration of his thus made, he will be ready, (as he sayth) God assisting him, to iustifie at any time for the satisfaction of such, as shall make doubt of it. And doth further protest with all sinceritie: that he hath not (willingly) detorted any thing in this whole Discourse, to make either the cause it selfe, or the fauorers thereof more odious, then their owne wordes and deeds shall necessarily inferre, and enforce against them, with all indifferent and considerate Readers. Farewell in Christ.

The Contents of the first Booke.

- OF two sorts of men that especially disturbe the Church of England, and of the drifts of them both, by way of a Preface. Chap. 1. Fol. 1.
Of the course held at Geneua, for reformation of religion, and of the Doctrine which vpon that occasion hath bene broached. Chap. 2. Fol. 7.
Of the proceeding of some Scottish Ministers : according to the Geneuan rules of Reformation. Chap. 3. Fol. 9.
How the Geneuan Doctrine, or principle for Reformation, hath bene amplified, by certaine pretended Reformers in Scotland. Chap. 4. Fol. 14.
The obiections against the doctrine, reported of in the former chapter with the Consistorian answers vnto them. Chap. 5. Fol. 16.
The proceedings of certaine Scottish Ministers, according to the groundes mentioned in the two last chapters, for setting vp of the Consistorian Discipline, and of their vrging of our English Disciplinaries, to follow their steppes. Chap. 6. Fol. 18.

The Contents of the second Booke.

- The Doctrine of certaine English Ministers, which they learned at Geneua, and published of purpose to haue procured the like course for Reformation in England, to that which was in Scotland. Chap. 1. Fol. 34.
Our English Disciplinarians, doo imitate the Scottish, in their desire of the Consistoriall gouernement, sauing that they are more bewitched with a kind of dotage after it. Chap. 2. Fol. 41.
Our pretended English reformers doo imitate or rather exceede the Scottish Ministers in reuiling and rayling against all that doo encounter them. Chap. 3. Fol. 44.
The speeches of the said pretended reformers, concerning England: the State: the present reformation, and gouernement of the Church. Cha. 4. Fol. 47.
Some of their vndutifull and consistorian speeches concerning her Maiestie &c. Chap. 5. Fol. 48.
Some of their rayling speeches against the high court of Parliament, and all others generally that do maintain the present gouernment of the Church of England. Chap. 6. Fol. 50.
Some of their Disciplinarian speeches concerning the Lordes of her Maiesties most honourable priuy Councell. Chap. 7. Fol. 52.
Some of their rayling speeches against the Magistracy in England, the Iudges, Lawyers, and lawes both ciuill and ecclesiasticall. Chap. 8. Fol. 54.
Some of their consistoriall sayings, as touching our Religion, Communion booke, Sacraments and ceremonies. Chap. 9. Fol. 55.
How they doo charge the present gouernment with persecution. Chap. 10. Fol. 56.
Some

The Contents.

- Some of their consistorian speeches of the Clergy of England, assembled, as occasion hath required, in the Conuocation house, Chap. 11. Fol. 58.
Some of their presbiterial speeches of the Bishops of England professing the Gospel, Chap. 12. Fol. 58.
Some of their vncharitable wordes against all the Clergy in England, generally that mislike their designements, Chap. 13. Fol. 60.
Their especial drift in their said rayling speeches, as outrageously published as if they were meere Iesuites, and peraduenture to as dangerous a purpose, Chap. 14. Fol. 61.

The Contents of the third Booke.

- The practises of certaine English reformers for Discipline, from the yeare 1560. vntill the yeare, 1572, chap. 1. Fol. 65
The secret meetings for Discipline, and the matters handled in them here in England from 1572. till 1583. chap. 2. Fol. 67
A forme or booke of discipline is drawne, and a resolution agreed vpon, how far they might proceede for the practise of it, without breaking the peace of our Church, chap. 3. Fol. 69
About the yeare 1583. they fell againe to the practise of their discipline, and of a consistorian question, chap. 4. Fol. 73
Their Booke of Discipline is reuiewed: it was after sent abroad about 1587 it was put in practise, in Northamptonshire and many other places, cha. 5. Fol. 75.
A Synode is held at Coventry, 1588. many questions are resolued, the booke of discipline is subscribed vnto, chap. 6. Fol. 85
The booke of the pretended discipline is made perfect at Cambridge, certain Synods are kept, and of their estimation, chap. 7. Fol. 88
Vpon some detecting of the premisses some were called into question: they refuse to be examined: all they were charged, which is in effect confessed, chap. 8. Fol. 91
Cartwright is called for, by authority: a Synode is held in London: it is there resolued that he shall refuse to be examined vpon his oath, chap. 9. Fol. 93
Further prooffe for their practise of their discipline: collected out of the rules of their subscribed booke, chap. 10. fol. 94
Further prooffe for their practise of their discipline out of the articles they subscribed, cha. 11. fol. 98.
It is confessed that they agreed to put one point of their booke in practise without her Maiesties assent: what it is: and of strange names giuen to children, cha. 12. fol. 102
A second point of their booke confessed to be agreed vpon, for the practise of it, without her Maiesties assent, cha. 13. fol. 105
Mo points of their booke put in practise: facts: calling of ministers: presbiteries: censures, &c, cha. 14. fol. 112
They haue ioyned themselues into an association or brotherhood, and doo appropriate to their meetings the name of the church, cha. 15. fol. 120
A ridiculous pretence of lawes: with a capitulation of the summe of this third booke, cha. 16. fol. 125

The Contents of the fourth Booke.

- Some of them seem to grow desperate, & propound to themselves a strange example to follow, for the aduancing of their discipline, Cha. 1. Fol. 129
- Of their doctrine for making a reformation themselves, and how the people must be thrust into that action, Cha. 2. Fol. 133
- They would haue the Nobility and the inferior Magistrates to set v<sup>p</sup> their Discipline: and of their supplication with a hundred thousand handes, Cha. 3. Fol. 135
- Prefuming vppon some vnlawfull assistance, they vse very violent wordes, Cha. 4. Fol. 138
- Vpon Cartwrights comming to Prison: some strange attempts were looked Cha. 5. Fol. 141
- One Edmond Copinger took vpon him to work Cartwrights &c. deliuerance: hee pretendeth an extraordinary calling, and acquainteth diuers with it: one Gibson a Scot, P. Wentworth, Cartwright, Wigginton, Charke, Trauers, Egerton, &c. Cha. 6. Fol. 143
- How Copinger and Arthington came acquainted with Hacket: of their conference with Io. Throg, Copingers letter to Io. Throg. and his answere, Cha. 7 Fol. 152
- Copinger* to Hacket of an appearance in the Star-chamber: his letter to Vdall: Why Cartwright &c. refused to conferre with him: Cartwright resolued some questions of Copingers: Of eight Preachers that did fast and pray for Copingers successe, Cha. 8. Fol. 156
- Of Hackets first comming to Wigginton: of his gadding v<sup>p</sup> and downe: & of the designement to haue bene executed in the Starre chamber, cha. 9 Fol. 159
- A preparation towards the intended disloyalty: two of Copingers Letters to M. Charke, and to another: Cartwrights & Wiggintons commendation of Penries being then in London, Cha. 10. Fol. 161
- Of the trayterous intendments which were towards the Court, Cha. 11 Fol. 166
- That of long time, some such attempts as Hacket made for discipline: were of great likelihood purposed, Cha. 12. Fol. 168
- Briefe collections: whereby it may summarily appeare: that certaine Ministers in London did know what Copinger intended, Cha. 13 Fol. 171
- The cunning dealing of certaine M<sup>ai</sup>sters in London, how notwithstanding they wished Copingers plot to goe forward: yet they might be (if it were possible) without the compasse of Law, Cha. 14. Fol. 173
- If Hackets treasons had preuayled for the pretended Discipline, how they might haue bene defended by the Disciplinary doctrine, Cha. 15, Fol. 176

F I N I S .

T h o w

Thou shalt not rayle vpon the Iudges, neither speake euill of the Ruler of the people. Exod. 22. 28.

The Lord keepe mee from laying my hand on him. For hee is the Lordes annointed. 1. Kin g. 24.

Who can lay his handes vpon the Lordes annointed, and bee guiltlesse? 1. King. 26.

Speake not euill of the King: no, not in thy thought. Eccle. 20.

Let euery soule bee subiect to the higher powers: for there is no power but of God: and the powers that bee, are ordayned of God. Whosoever therefore resisteth the power, resisteth the ordainance of God: and they that resist shall receiue to themselues iudgement. Ye must be subiect, not because of wrath onely, but also for conscience sake. Paule to the Rom. 13.

We call vpon the euerlasting God for the health of our Emperors, alwaies beseeching Almighty God, to send euery of them long life, happy raigne, trustie seruantes, valiant souldiers, faithfull Councillors, orderly Subiectes, and the world quiet: and whatsoeuer people or Prince can wish for. Tertul. in Apologetico.

One night with a few firebrandes, would yeald vs reuenge sufficient, if it were lawfull with vs to requite euill with euill. But God forbid, that eyther they, which take part with God, should reuenge themselues with humaine fire, or bee grieued to suffer wherein they be tried. If wee would not practise secreete reuenge, but professe open enmity, could we lacke number of men or force of Armes? Are the Moores thinke you or the Parthians, or any one Nation whatsoeuer, mae in number then we, that are spread ouer the whole world? We are not of you, and yet wee haue filled all the places and roomes which you haue: your Cities, Islandes, Castles, Townes, Assemblies, your Tentes, Tribes, and Wardes, ye the very Palace, Senate, and Iudgement seats, For what war warre were wee not able and readie, though wee were fewer in number then you, that go to our deathes so gladly, if it were not more lawfull in our religion to be slaine then to slay? We could without armes neuer rebelling, but onely diuiding our selues from you, haue done you spight inough with that seperation. For if so greate a multitude as we are, should haue broken from you, into some corner of the world, the losse of so many Citizens would haue both shamed you, and punished you. Belieue me, you would haue been afraide, to see your selues alone and amazed as amongst the dead, to see silence and desolation euery where, you would haue had moe enemies, then inhabitantes, where now you haue fewer ennemies, by reason of the multitude of your Citizens, that are almost all Christians.

August. con.
.lit. Petil. lib. 2
cap. 48.

Saul had not innocencie, and yet hee had holynes, not of life, but of vnction.

Chriost. de verb. Esa. vidi dominum.

After the Priest had reprov'd the attempt, and the king would not yeeld, but offred Armes, shieldes, and speares, and vsed his power: then the Priest turning himselfe to God: I haue done (saith he) my duty to warne him, I can goe no further. For it is the Priests part onely to reprove, & freely to admonish (with words,) not to assaile with arms, not to use targets, not to handle speares, not to bend bowes, nor to cast dartes, but onely to reprove and freely to warne.

Mir. lib. 2. adu.
Iouinianum.

Pateat quod noxium est, vt possit conteri cum patuerit.

THE

I

THE FIRST BOOKE OF DISCIPLINARY GROUNDES
and Practises.

---

C H A P. I.

Of two sortes of men that especially disturbe the Church of England, and of the drifts of them both, by way of a Preface.

It is said of Caiphas, when hee tolde his companions the Pharisees and the rest, that it was expedient for them, that one man should die for the people, Hoc a seipso non dixit, sed prophetauit, &c. so in mine opinion it may well be said of the Pope, when he gaue to the Kings & Queenes of England this Title, to bee called Defenders of the faith: he spake not this of himselfe, but prophecied. For if any Christian King or Queene might euer bee truely so tearmed, (as in deed it is a stile that containeth a great and the most royall part of all their kingly offices,) surely of all the Princes that since that time haue raigned, it is verified most properly in her most excellent Maiestie: Whether you respect the Reformation of Religion, which her Highnesse hath made in this Church of England (according to the noble examples of Moses, Iosua, Dauid, Salomon, Iosaphat, Ezechias, Iosias, &c.) or whether you respect, not onely the reliefe, which strangers persecuted at home for the profession of the Gospell haue here receiued: or her Maiesties great and vnspeakeable charges, for the ayding and assisting of other Christian States, Princes, and countries: that for their profession of the same right Religion, are mightily afflicted, by certaine Gyantes of the earth,

* B

the

the souldiers and members of that Antichrist of Rome.

So as in these and many other respects (which do concurre with them) I neither doubt that her Maiesty (whom the Lord protect with his mighty hande long to raigne ouer vs) shall bee for euer renowned amongst the most famous Queenes, that euer liued in the worlde: or that the Church of England, so reformed by her Highnesse, is presently at this day the most Apostolike and flourishing Church, simply, that is in all Christendome. Howbeit let a Church be as richly planted as euer any was, before, or in the Apostles times: Let either Moses with his Aaron, or Dauid with all his Councillors, gouerne both the Church and Common-wealth, as godly as euer any was governed: yet such is, and euer hath been, the malice and cunning of Sathan: as that he wanteth not at any time, either will or meanes, to slander, to depraue, and to endanger the same. He hath his Core, Dathan, and Abiram, that if need bee, dare presume to tell both Moses and Aaron, they take too much vpon them. Hee is able to set the children of one father, the seruants of one master, the subiects of one Prince, and the members of one Church; at dissention, at deadly hatred amongst themselues. As occasion serueth, hee hath his Shemeis to curle King Dauid, also his murmurers, complainers, mockers, makers of sectes, such as despise gouernement, which are presumptuous: men that stand in their lewde conceits: such as feare not to speak euill of those things they know not, and of them that are in dignity, that is, of Princes and great men, be they neuer so high in authority.

The experience which wee haue herof at this day in the Church of England, is more then pregnant: partly through the diuelish and traiterous practises of the Seminary Priests and Iesuites: and partly by reason of the lewd
 and

Numb. 16

2, Sam. 16

Jude
 2, Pet. 2

and obstinate course, held by our pretended refoormers, the Consistorian Puritanes: both of them labouring with all their might, by rayling, libelling, and lying, to steale away the peoples harts from their gouernours, to bringe them to a dislike of the present state of our Church, and to drawethem into parts-taking: the one sort, for the embracing of such directiōs, as should come vnto them from Rome: the other for the establishing of that counterfeit and false Hierarchie, which they would obrude vpon vs by the countenance and name of the Church at Geneua.

The which proceedings of both the sorts of disturbers, are so much the more dangerous, in that they deale so secretly, and haue combined themselues, together with their Profelites, into such a league and confederacy; as get out what you can your selfe by meere chance (as they say) for the discouery of their actions; and attempts; you shall bee sure that neither the one sort nor the other will detect anything. Nay matters beeing detected in some sort to their handes, they will vterly refuse to bee examined, as law prescribeth: or if they take any oathe, it is as good neuer a whit as neuer the better; they dally so exceedingly with it.

For vnder pretence of not accusing themselues, if they finde any thing to be come to light, which may any waies touch them, they will vterly refuse for the most part to answere it, either vpon oath or without oath: saying, that neither by the Lawes of God, nor man, they are bound so to answere. Vnder colour whereof they exempt themselues from the ordinary course helde in iustice, for criminall causes, throughout all the world: which is, that before witnesss be produced against any supposed offender, the party accused shall first answere to the accusation, yea, or nay, &c. as wee vse in England, and that in matters of life and death (but in these without an oathe) hee must first pleade guilty or not guilty.

And as they deale for themselues, so doo they for their confederates, their fauourers, relieuers, abettors, and recei-uers: affirming it to be against the rules of charity, to bring their Christian brethren and frends into any daunger, for doing of those things, which both the sorts of these sedu-cers haue drawne them into, and doo themselues iudge to be religious and iust.

From these points all the Iudges of the land, and diuers Diuines that haue dealt with them, as yet cannot bringe them: both the sorts are so setled in this seditious doctrine of Rhemes, which is as followeth, vz. If thou be put to an oath, to accuse Catholikes for seruing God as they ought to doo, or to vt-
ter any innocent man, to Gods enemies and his; thou oughtest first to refuse such unlawfull oathes: but if thou haue not constancie, and courage so to doo, yet know thou that such oathes binde not at all in conscience and law of God, but may and must be broken vn-
der paine of damnation.

Annotat.
Rhemish vp= pon the 23. of the Actes of the Apostles.

Now in these confederacies, what course should be taken for the preuenting of such daungers, as may thereby ensue, I referre it to be thoroughly considered by those that haue the gouernement both of the Church and Common-weale committed vnto them. But before they can be prevented they must be vnderstood. Concerning the Seminary Priests and Iesuites: their very comming into the land doth declare their traiterous intentions. What alleageance and loue soeuer they pretend (vpon their apprehension)
to her Maiesty and their countrey, it is very well knowne, they doo it but for the time, rebus sic stantibus, & that their comming hether, is to no other purpose, but to make a way for the Pope and the Spaniards; the sworne and mortall enemies, both to this state, and to all other that

that doo professe the right reformed religion of Christ. But for the other sort of practitioners, their proceedings and designements, are not so well, as yet discovered. Their pretences doo carry a greater shew of good meanings: & many (that are indeede truely zealous, little suspecting what hookes doo lie hidde vnder such faire baites) are dayly carried (as we see) headlong with them. In respect whereof, you are to be aduertised, that as it is an easie matter by looking to the said Popish and Spanish practises, to knowe in generality, their Seminaries dealinges here amongst vs, be they in particularity neuer so secrete: so are there certaine men in other countries, of the same humors with our pretended reformers, whose courses and proceedings, as wel for the matters they desire, as for the manner of attaining of them, they propound to themselves, as the fittest patternes for them to followe: and namely the Ministers of Genewa, but more especially some of the Ministers of Scotland: as may hereby appeare.

As we haue beene an example, to the Churches of France and Scotland (sayth M. Cartwright) to followe vs, so the Lorde would haue vs also to profite, and be prouoked by their example.

An other also in this sort. Nobiles quidam precipui huius regni mecum egerunt, ut auctor essem regi meo de tallendis omnino Episcopatibus, ut exemplum postea posset manare in vicinam Angliam. Certasne of the chiefe Noble men of England (who I thinke nowe are gone,) dealt with mee (by the instigation no doubt of some of our Ministers, Anno, 1583.) to perswade the King of Scotland my maister, to overthrowe all the Bishoprickes in his country, that his proceedinges therein might bee an example for England adioyning.

A Letter
of P.A.

Vpon a certaine repaire of tenne thousand in armes to the King of Scots at Sterling, Anno, 1585. whereupon the Bishoprickes were indeed suppressed, Knewstubbe a Con-

Knewstubbe;

istorian Minister of Suffolke, did write thus to Fields: I would bee glad to heare somewhat of the estate of Scotland: it doth more trouble me then our owne: For I am conceiuing some hope vpon the change of their former proceeding.

It also appeareth that there is great and ordinary intelligence, betwixt their and our especiall presbyterie ministers, for the better, and more ready compassing of such deuises and platformes, as are sought for, by our said ministers so busily amongst vs. The best of our Ministerie (sayth James Gibson a minister of Scotland to a brother in England) are most carefull of your estate, and had sent for that effect, a Preacher of our Church this last summer (1596.) of purpose, to conferre with the best affected Ministers of your Church, to laye downe a plot, how our Church might best trauell for your reliefe. And againe: The Lord knows what care we haue of your Church bo: hin our publike and priuate prayers, &c. For as feeling members of one bodie, we reckon the affliction of your Church to be our owne.

One Dauison in like manner (an other minister of that countrey) taketh vpon him to iustifie the proceedings of our malecontent ministers here: (as it shall herafter more plainly appeare) and for the better encouraging of them in their peeuishnes; hee telleth them, that the iust defence of their holic cause of Discipline must not be left, which hath no lesse warrant to bee continued perpetuallie within the Church, vnder this precept; Feede my sheepe: then hath the preaching of the word and ministracion of the Sacraments. Hee doth also publish it, so as the world might take notice of it: that the good brethren of England, are of the same minde with them of Scotland: & that both their causes, are most neere lie linked together.

Lastly there is almost nothing more ordinary in all the Consistorian discourtes and libels of our owne countrey-men, whether they bee printed here or in Scotland, then to presse

Gibson to
Ed. Cop.

Dauison against R. B.

Page 29.

Page 29.
Page 20.

preſſe vs with the examples of Geneua and Scotland, and to inueigle the people of England, with (I knowe nor what) great commendation of the proceedings and platformes of ſome of the miniſters in both thoſe places.

Which points conſidered, & being required by thoſe that might command me, that whereas certaine writings, and letters were come to my handes, concerning ſome courſes taken by our ſaide more friendly diſturbers, then the Ieſuites are, but yet very great diſturbers; I ſhould make the ſame in ſome ſorte knowne: I thought it my beſt way, for the diſcharging of my duety therein, firſt to lay downe before you, the examples, patternes, & proceedings of thoſe Miniſters and Churches, which thoſe our factious crew, propound to themſelues to follow: & ſecondly (that I may not bee enforced to paſſe by them, * Reſor. no. enemie. B. 2) as * one ſaith, D. B. was in his ſermon at Paules croſſe) to make it moſt apparant vnto you, how artificially and effectually, they haue already by imitation expreſſed them. Whereby you ſhall perceiue, that although by reaſon of their ſaid combination and ſecretheſſe vſed, many things lie hid from thoſe in authority, which they haue done already, in the ſetting forward of their pretended diſcipline: yet there will fall out ſo much to bee diſcloſed, as laying it to their patternes, you may eaſily diſcerne (notwithſtanding all their goodly pretences) what to iudge of their proceedings, and whereat in truth they doo ayme.

C H A P. I I.

Of the courſe held at Geneua, for reformation of religion, & of the doctrine which vpon that occaſion hath bene braached.

I ſeemeth, that when the Goſpell began firſt to be preached by Farellus, Viretus, and others at Geneua, they could haue bene well content with with the gouernement of the Bishop there, if hee would willingly haue reiected the Pope, and ioyned with them for the reformation of Religion. This appeareth by M. Caluins wordes to Cardinall Sadolete. Talem nobis Hierarchiam si exhibeant, in qua sic emineant Episcopi, vt Christo subesse recusent, vt ab illo tanquam vnico capite pendeant, & ad ipsum referantur: in qua, sic inter se fraternam societatem colant, vt non alio modo, quam eius veritate, sint colligati: tum vero nullo non anathemate dignos fatear, si qui erunt qui non eam reuenter summaq; obedientia obseruent. If they doo bring vnto vs such an Hierarchie or priestlie gouernement, wherein the Bishops shall so rule, as that they refuse not to submit themselues to Christ, that they also depend vpon him, as their onely heade, and can be content to referre themselues to him: in which priestlie gouernment they doo so keepe brotherlie societie amongst themselues that they bee knit together by no other knot, then by the truth: thou surelie if there shall be anie, that shall not submit themselues to that Hierarchie or priestlie gouernement, reuerentlie and with the greatest obedience that may be, I confesse there is no kinde of Anathema, or curse, or casting to the diuell, whereof they are not worthie.

Thus farre then, it must needes be thought, that the Bishoppe was offered by suche as soughte to reforme that Church: which offer he refusing (as I gesse) to accept of, they dealt (as it appeareth by the issue) with the inferiour magistrates and people, to make such a reformation themselves, as they required of them. Whereupon the Bishop being Lord of the City, and hauing aswell in his handes, the Soueraigne ciuill Iurisdiction ouer it, or (as M. Calvin speaketh) Ius gladij & alias ciuilibus iurisdictionis partes, &c. as the Ecclesiasticall; they saide, He was a thiefe and an vsurper; and so of themselues, with such assistance as was procured, did thrust him from both those authorities. Euen like (in my opinion) as if a Christian Prince, being possessed with- in his dominions of the supream Jurisdiction, as well in Ecclesiasticall as in ciuill causes, might vpon the like occasion be serued in the same maner: or, to preuent all excep- tion, as if some Prince of some perticular state or City in Germanie, taking vpon him, together with his principality, the calling of a Preacher, Bishop, Superintendent or Ruler of many perticular Churches, (as George the Prince An- hault did) should in such a case (as the Bishoppe of Geneua was) be deprivied of both.
my

Ioach. Came-
rarius.
Phil. MeJa.
Georg. Maior
de vita ciuis.

The means which was vsed, for such their abandoning of their Bishop, was this. When they perceiued that the Bishop sought, by force to encounter their proceedings, and that (as Sleydan noteth) hee had excited the Duke of Sauoy, to that ende, to assist him: they ioyned themselues into a more neere amity with Berne. So as the Duke and the Bishop comming together to besiege the City; they were both repulsed, Bernatibus illis auxilium ferentibus, The force of Berne assisting the Genevians. Since which time (as I suppose) it hath been a principle, with some of the chief Ministers of Geneua, (but contrary to the iudgement of all other reformed Churches, for ought I know, which haue not addicted themselues to followe Geneua) that if Kinges and Princes refused to reforme Religion, the inferior magistrates or people, by direction of the ministerie, might lawfullie, & ought (if need required) euen by force & armes, to reform it themselues.

Whittingham
in his Preface
to Goodmans
booke.
Kaox.

C H A P. I I I.

Of the proceeding of some Scottish Ministers: according to the Genevian rules of Reformation.

ACcording to the reourming rule, mentioned in the ende of the former Chapter, (to omit some other examples)
* C

Knox in his
hif. of the church of Scot land, pag 213

amples) certaine Ministers in Scotlande with their adherents (being meere subiects) haue taken vpon them of later yeares, by a violent and forcible courfe to reforme Religion.

a Knox pag.
213. ibid.

In which courfe M. Knox a man trayned vp at Geneua, in the time of Mary Queene of England, and very well instructed for fuch a worke, did fhew himfelfe to bee a moft efpeciall instrument, as it appeareth by a very ftrange letter, written by him from Diepe, Anno <sup>a</sup> 1557. Wherein hee fheweth, that his opinion and motion of that matter, was not grounded, onely vpon his owne conceit, but vpon the graue counfailes, and iudgement of the moft godly and learned, that then liued in Europe. (He meaneth the Geneuizans, Caluin, and the reft there.) Vpon this Letter and some other, to and from the fayd Knox, An<sup>b</sup> oath of confederacie was taken amongst his followers, in Scotland; and a teftification was made of their intents by a kind of fubfcription.

b Knox p. 217

Immediately after, they prefcribed alfo <sup>c</sup> Orders for Reformation, to be obferued through all that whole Realme, Anno, 1558. and writ a <sup>d</sup> memorable letter to the Religious houfes, in the name of the people, that they fhould either remoue thence by fuch a day, or elfe they woulde then eiecte them by force.

d Knox p. 234

e Knox p. 256

Shortly after (a Parliament being there holden by the Queene Regent) they <sup>e</sup> protefted to the fame, that except they had their defires, &c. they would proceed in their courfe: that neither they nor any that ioined with them, fhould incurre therefore any danger in life, or landes, or other politicall paines: and that if any violence happened in purfuite of thofe matters, they fhould thanke themfelues. Afterward, (the Queene Regent, feeing all the diforder, that was then, proceeded from fuch of the minifters) ſhee <sup>f</sup> ſummoned them to haue appeared at Striucling: which they refuſing to doo, were therevpon

f Knox p. 258.

by:

by the Queenes commaundement (as it is there tearmed) put to the g Horne: and all men (vnder paine of rebellion) were inhibited to assist them. But all this notwithstanding, g Knox, pa. 266 their friends did sticke vnto them. And presently after, vpon a Sermon to that purpose, preached by M. Knox, in Saint<sup>h</sup> Iohnstowne, for the ouerthrowing of Religious houses: they fell the same day to their worke: and within two dayes had quite destroyed and <sup>l</sup> rased in that towne, the houses of the Blacke Fryars, of the Grey Fryars, and Charterhouse Monokes, downe to the ground. And so they <sup>k</sup> proceeded, breaking downe images and altars, in Fife, Angus, Meruis, and other parts adioyning. h Hollindshed pag. 366.
Knox 262
i Knox. p. 263
k Thynne pag. 366.
Buchanan.

This course beeing knowne, and therevpon the sayde Queene threatning to destroy Saint Iohnstowne, they <sup>l</sup> writt vnto her, affirming that except shee stayed from that crueltie, they should be compelled to take the sword of iust defence, and protested, that, without the Reformation, which they desired, they would neuer be subiect to anie mortall man. Then they <sup>m</sup> writte to all their brethren, to repaire vnto them: likewise to the Nobilitie, vpon paine of <sup>n</sup> Excommunication, to ioyne with them: saying, that it was their duety to bridle the furie and rage of wicked men, were it of Princes, or Emperours, l Knox p. 265
m Knox p. 268
n Knox p. 272 Knox pag. 269.

Vpon these letters, diuers <sup>o</sup> repaired to Saint Iohnstowne, from sundry places: in so much as when Lyon Herault in his coat armor, commaunded all men, vnder paine of Treason, to returue to their houses, by publike sound of Trumpet, in Glasco; neuer a man obeyed that charge, but went forward to their associats. o Knox p. 274 They <sup>p</sup> writte in like manner to the Bishops and Clergie, that except they desisted from dealing against them, they would with all force and power, execute iust vengeance and punishment vpon them: and that they would begin that same warre, which God commanded Israell, to execute, against the Cananites. p Knox p. 275

¶ Knox p. 276 This manner of proceeding, they tearmed to be, the resting of the enemy. After (vpon conditions with the Queene) this great assembly at Saint Iohnstowne, departed thence. But before the seuering of themselves, they entred into a ¶ Knox p. 283 league by Oath, that if any one member of their congregation, should be troubled, they should all concurrre, assist, & conuene againe together, for the defence of the same.

Presently after (vpon a new quarrel against the Queenes dealing) an other concourse was made of these reformers.
 ¶ Knox p. 288 at Saint Androes: where, by M Knox perswasions in his Sermon, they made the like hauocke, that was before at Saint Iohnstowne, and did cast downe, spoyle, and destroy, both the houses of the Fryers, and the Abbayes in that towne. So dealt they also within a very short time, with the Abbay of Scone, the Fryars at Striueling, at Lithquo, & at Edenburgh, the Queene being fled thence for feare. They kept the field <sup>x</sup> two moneths, and tooke away to themselves the <sup>y</sup> coyning Irons, (beeing as the Queene alleaged, a portion of the patrimonie of the crowne.) and <sup>z</sup> iustified the same.
 ¶ Knox p. 317. They <sup>a</sup> entred into a League, that though the Queene sent for them, they would neuer come to her after that time: without the consent of their company.

¶ Knox p. 330 After, the <sup>b</sup> Queene Regent made a Proclamation of her desire of peace, and that the state of the Realme, might at ¶ Knox p. 333. the last be at quiet: but they <sup>c</sup> confuted it: & did animate those of their faction (with all their might) to bee alwaies ready, & to stand vpon their guard. They gaue the Queen
 ¶ Knox p. 362 the * lie diuers times, and vsed her with most despightfull speeches. And at the length they came to that boldnes, as ¶ Knox p. 364 that they tearmed the Queenes part <sup>d</sup> a faction: and renouncing their obedience vnto her, protested, that whosoever should take her part, should be punished as Traytors, when so ever God should put the sword of iustice, into their hands.

Within

Within a while<sup>e</sup> after, they consulted with their Mini-<sup>e</sup> Knox p. 372
sters, especially M. Wilcocke, and M. Knox, for the deposing of the Queene Regent, from her gouernment: who assuring the rest, that it was lawfull for them so to doo, proceffe was made, sentence was giuen, and shee was<sup>f</sup> depriued from<sup>f</sup> Knox p. 373 all her regiment, by a formall acte, which is set downe in the same storie, penned by Knox, and in some part printed after in England.

Not long after this: the Queene Regent dyeth. And then they had a Parliament by the consent of the french King, and their Queene his wife. In that 3<sup>d</sup> Parliament, held An-<sup>g</sup> Knox p. 468
no, 1560. they reformed Religion, and set out a Confession of the Christian faith: but the said King and<sup>h</sup> Queene denied, to<sup>h</sup> Knox p. 500
confirme, or to ratifie the actes thereof, when they were moued thereunto. Which thing, (said the confederates, vpon intelligence giuen them) we little regarded: or yet doo regarde: for all that we did, was rather to shew our ductifull obedience, then to begge of them any strength to our Religion. And whereas it was objected, that it could not bee a lawfull Parliament, where there was neither Scepter, Crowne, nor Sworde borne: they made light of it: <sup>i</sup> saying, that those were rather,
but pompeous and glorious vaine ceremonies, then anie substan-<sup>i</sup> Knox p. 502 tiall points, of necessity required to a lawfull Parliament. I might proceed much further, in the ripping vp of these and such like practises, for reformation of Religion. But because some peraduenture, will labour to excuse these manner of proceedings, and to colour the same, with some pretence of zeale, and great desire they had, to bee deliuered from Popish Idolatry and Superstition: I haue rather thought it conuenient to let you vnderstande, howe farre they are,
from making any such pretences in their owne behalf, and with what new Diuinity-positions, M. Knox and M. Bucha- nan haue amplified the Geneus resolution (before mentio-

14 Scottish Geneueating for Reformation. The 1. Booke.
ned,) to the iustification not only of all their said attempts and actions, but of many other of the like nature, which (since those times) haue beene there also practised.

C H A P. I I I I.

How the Geneueian Doctrin, or principle for Reformation, hath been amplified, by certaine pretended Reformers in Scotland.

k Knox p. 216
Knox appel.
fol. 28.
l Knox app. 25
m Knox to the Commi-
nalty f. 49. 50

Reformation<sup>k</sup> of Religion, doth belonge to more, then the Clergie and the King.

Noble men<sup>l</sup> ought to reforme Religion,
if the King will not.

Reformation<sup>m</sup> of Religion, belongeth to the Comminaltie.

n; ibid, fol. 47

The Comminaltie,<sup>n</sup> concurring with the Nobilitie, may com-pell the Bishops to cease from their tirrannie.

o; ibid, fol. 55

The<sup>o</sup> Comminaltie by their power, may bridle the cruell beasts (the Priests.)

p; ibid, fol. 55

The<sup>p</sup> Comminaltie, may lawfullie require of their King, to haue true Preachers: and if he be negligent, they iustlie may themselues provide them, maintaine them, defende them, against all that doo persecute them, and may detain the profits of the Church liuings, from the other sort.

q Knox histo.
pag. 343.

God hath<sup>q</sup> appointed the Nobilitie, to bridle the inordinate appetites of Princes, and in so doing, they cannot be accused, as resisters of authoritie.

r Knox appel,
fol. 33.

It is their<sup>r</sup> dutie, to repress the rage and insolencie of Princes.

s Knox appel.
fo. 28. 30, &c.

The<sup>s</sup> Nobilitie and Comminaltie, ought to reforme Religion, and in that case, may remoue from honours, and may punish such,
as God hath cōdemmed, Deu. 12. (he meaneth Idolaters, &c.)
of what estate, condition, or honour soeuer.

t Knox appel;
fol. 30

The<sup>t</sup> punishment of such crimes, as touch the Maiestie of God, doth not appertaine to Kinges and chiefe rulers onelie, but also to the whole bodie of the people, and to euerie member of the same, as occasion, vocation, and abilitie shall serue, to reuenge the iniurie done against God.
the

The people<sup>u</sup> are bound by oath to God, to reuenge (to the utmost of their power) the iniurie, done against his Maestie, u Knox appell. fol 35.

The cruell murthuring of the Archbischoppe of Saint Andrews, in his bed-chamber, 1545. by three priuate gentlemen, because (as they told him,) he had beene, and so remained an obstinate enemie to the Gospel, is sought to be iustified lately in print, to bee a godly acte: & encouragement is giuen for others, in the like case to commit the like outrage. Historie of the Church of Scotl. pa. 187.

Princes, for* iust causes may be deposed. * Knox histor. Pag. 372.

It is not<sup>a</sup> birthright onely, nor propinquity of bloud, that maketh a King, lawfullie to raigne about a people, professing Christ Iesus. a Knox to England and Scot. fol. 77.

If Princes<sup>b</sup> be tyrants, against God and his truth, their subiects are freed from their oaths of obedience. b Knox ibid. folio 78.

Populus rege<sup>c</sup> est praestantior & melior: the people are better then the King, and of greater authoritie. c Buch. de iure regni page. 61.

Populo<sup>d</sup> ius est, vt imperium cui velit deferat: the people haue right, to bestow the Crowne at their pleasure. d Ibid pa' 13.

Penes<sup>e</sup> populum est, vt leges ferat: sunt reges veluti tabulariorum custodes. The making of lawes; doth belong to the people: and Kings are but as the Masters of the Rolles. e ibid pag. 25

The people,<sup>f</sup> haue the same power, ouer the King: that the King hath ouer any one person. f ibid pag. 58.

It were good, that rewardes were appointed by the people, for such as should kill tyrants: as commonly there is, for those, qui lupos aut vrsos occiderunt, aut catulos eorum deprehenderunt: that haue killed either wolues or beares, or taken their whelpes. g ibid pag. 40.

The<sup>h</sup> people may arraigne their Prince. h ibid pag 62.

ibid pag. 70 The<sup>i</sup> Ministers may excommunicate him.

k ibid pag. 70 He, that<sup>k</sup> by excommunication, is cast into hell; is not worthy to enjoy any life upon earth.

And wheras there are sufficient, and sound obiections, made, by such as haue truely reprooued these dangerous assertions: Behold I pray you, their answers, worthy to be known and remembered, to the euerlasting discredit of the authors, framers, and partakers with them.

C H A P. V.

The obiections against the doctrine, reported of in the former chapter, with the Consistorian answers vnto them.

Obiection. C Vstome, <sup>l</sup> is against such dealing with Princes.

Buc. de iur.
egni. pag 49.

Answer. There is nothing more daungerous to bee followed (publica via) then custome.

m Knox appe.
fol. 26.

Ob. We must<sup>m</sup> obey Kings, be they good or bad.

n Buch. de
iure regni.
pag. 53.

Ans. It is blasphemie to say so.

Ob. Ieremie<sup>n</sup> commaunded obedience to Nabuchodonozzer.

Ans. The example is but singular.

o ibid. pag. 57

Ob. God placeth<sup>o</sup> tyrants sometimes for the punishment of his people.

Ans. So doth he priuate men sometimes to kill them.

p ibid. pag. 57

Ob. The<sup>p</sup> Iewes dealt not so with their Kings.

Ans. Their Kinges were not first elected by the people; and therefore they might not: but ours haue nothing but from the people.

q ibid. pag. 57

Ob. Shew an<sup>q</sup> example out of the Scriptures, that subiects may vse their gouernours in this sort.

Ans. The argument is not good: it cannot bee shewed in the Scriptures, therefore it is vnlawfull. Possum apud multas nationes, tiones, plurimas & saluberrimas recensere leges, quarum in sacris litteris nullum est exemplum. I can shewe sundrie good and wholesome lawes, in diuers countries, of the which lawes there is no example in the Scriptures.

Ob. Saint Paul<sup>r</sup> doth commaund vs to pray for Prin- r ibid pag. 50
ces. 1. Tim. 2.

Ans. Wee may punish theeues, and yet wee ought to pray for them.

Ob. Saint Paule<sup>s</sup> doth command vs to be subiect and s ibid p. 50. 55 obedient to Princes. Tit. 3.

Ans. Paule writt this in the infancie of the Church. There were but fewe Christians then, and not many of them rich, or of abilitie, so as they were not ripe for such a purpose.

As if<sup>r</sup> a man should write to such Christians as are vnder the t ibid. pag. 56
Turke, in substance poore, in courage feeble, in strength unarmed, in number fewe, and generallie subiect to all kinde of iniuries: would he not write as Paul did? So as the Apostle, did respect the men he writt vnto: and his wordes are not to be extended, to the body or people of a common wealth, or whole Citie. Note this Diuinit y

For imagine (sayth<sup>u</sup> hee) that Paul were now aliuie, where u ibi. p. 56. 57
both the King and people do professe Christianity, and that there were such Kings, as would haue their becks to stand for lawes: as cared neither for God nor man: as bestowed the Church reuenues scurris & balatronibus upon iesters and rascalls, and such as gibed at those that did embrace the more sincere Religion: what would he write of such to the Church? Surely except he would dissent from himself, he would say, that he accounted no such for Magistrates: hee would forbidde all men for speaking vnto them, and from keeping them companie: he would leaue them to their subiects to be punished: neither would he blame them, if they accounted no longer such for their Kings, as by the law of God, they could haue no societie withall. And thus farre the answerer.

There are diuers other obiections against those reformers: which receiue almost as desperate answers. But I will not at this time trouble you with them, especially if you will giue me leaue to aduertise you, that this new Diuinity of dealing thus with Princes, is not onely helde by Knox and Buchanan, but generally (for ought I can learne) by most of the Consistorians of chiefe name beyonde the Seas, who (being of the Geneua humor) doo endeouour by most vniust & disloyall meanes, to subiect to their forged presbyteries, the scepters and swordes of Kings and Princes: as Caluin, Beza, Hotoman, Vrsinus, (as he commeth out from Newstadt) Vindicia contra tyrannos, Eusebius Philadelphus, &c. For the further fruit of which Consistorian Diuinitie, (besides that which is sayd by some of the Ministers of Scotland) I referre you to the consideration of such stirres, as haue hapned of late yeares, in some other countries. And thus farre concerning the iustification, which is made of the Scottish reformation. Now I will leade you backe againe, where I left: vz. to certaine of the Ministers further proceedings there; vppon these aforesaide maine grounds and principles.

---

C H A P. VI.

The proceedings of certaine Scottish Ministers, according to the grounds mentioned in the two last chapters, for setting vp of the Consistorian Discipline, and of their wrging of our English Disciplinaries, to follow their steppes.

He Parliament<sup>t</sup> of Scotland before mentioned Chap 3, of An. 1560. being dissolved there was then a booke of Discipline, or neweking dome of Christ (by their severall presbyteries) drawne and compiled after the Geneua fashion, by M. Knox and others. Which booke, vppon the offering of it to their associates and fauorites, rites, to be allowed, receiued, and publicly practised, was by them reiected, and tearmed to bee in truth, but a deuout imagination. Whereupon now riseth, an occasion of a new historie, how (after they had obtained reformation of religion, as touching the true preaching of the worde, and administration of the Sacraments) they also dealt and preuailed in the ende, for the establishing of their Discipline and Consistoriall gouernement.

It <sup>u</sup> appareth, that in the foresaide spoyles of Abbayes, Fryeries, and Cathedrall Churches, &c. euery man almost did seeke his priuate commoditie. Which beeing espied before by the saide Ministers, they misliked it: (as finding the pray taken out of their teeth:) but yet they were gone so far belike, as that there was no remedie. They told them of it in their sermons in some sort then, as it should appear. Marry nowe, when they came to the ende of their trauaile, the hope of their glory, the cresting of their gouernement, and their raigne ouer all, and doo finde themselues crossed therein: blame them not, though they were not a little angry. Then * they gaue it out against their owne fauourers afore, that some were licentious: some had greedilie griped the possessions of the Church: others thought they would not lacke their part of Christs coate, yea, and that before that euer he was hanged.

<sup>u</sup> Knox hist. pag. 468.

* Knox hist. pag. 503.

Of a Noble man, that refused to subscribe to their Discipline, (as they call it) they writ thus. He had a very euill woman to his wife: if the poore, the schooles, and the ministerie of the Church, had their owne, his Kitchen would lacke two parts and more, of that, which he vniustlie now possesseth. And generally to the like effect: there were none within this Realme, more vnmercifull to the poore Ministers, then were they, which had greatest rents of the Church. But in that we haue perceiued the old proverbe to be true: nothing can suffice a wretch. And a.

Ibidem.

y In the conclusion of their booke of Discipline.

gaine, the bellie, hath no cares. They<sup>y</sup> threatned the greatest men of the lande, with Gods heauy punishments, if they should reiect that Discipline, ascribing it to their blind affection, to their respect of carnal friends, to their corrupt iudgement, and to their former iniquities, and present ingratitude. But<sup>a</sup> (notwithstar<sup>d</sup>ing, that some refused to subscribe to this booke, which made the Ministers so angry:) yet by sundry cunning deuises, raylings, threatnings, &c. many yeelded thereunto, and did promise, thereby to set the same forward, to the uttermost of their powers.

a Knox histo. pag. 504.

This subscription thus in sort obtained, they began to put the same in practise. They<sup>b</sup> appointed to haue their assemblies both particular and generall. They<sup>c</sup> exercised iurisdiction, and appointed one Saunderson to be carted for adulterie: but he was rescued. A great<sup>d</sup> vprore arising in Edenburgh, about the making of a Robinhood, they of the Consistorie did excommunicate the whole multitude. The Bishops<sup>e</sup> seeking to encounter and repress them in their practises, they professed that they would not suffer their pride and Idolatrie. They<sup>f</sup> caused diuers places (as they tearmed them) of superstition, to be burnt: I thinke they meane some Bishops houles) as g Palsay, the Bishop also narrowly escaping them.

b Declaration B. 1. 2.

c Knox histo. pag. 523.

d ibid. pa. 527

e ibid. pa. 531.

f ibid. pa. 334

g Knox Iust. 534.

The Bishops hauing embraced the Gospel, it was at first agreed euen by the brethren, with the consent of the Regent, that the Bishops estate should be * maintained and authorised. This endured for sundry yeares: but then there was no remedie, the calling it selfe of Bishops was at last become Antichristian, and downe they must of necessitie. Wherevpon<sup>h</sup> they commanded the Bishops (by their owne authoritie) to leaue their Offices and their Iurisdctions.

* Declaration B. 2.

h ibid B. 2.

i ibid. B. 2.

They<sup>i</sup> decreed in their assemblies, that Bishops shoulde haue no voices in Parliament: and that done, they desired of the King, that such Commissioners (as they should sende to the Parliament and Councell) might from thence forth be authorized in the Bishops places, for the estate. They also directed their Commissioners to the Kings Maiestie : commanding him and the Councell, vnder paine of the censures of the Church (meaning excommunication) to appoint no Bishops in time to come, because they (the brethren) had concluded, that state to be unlawfull.

Hereof as it seemeth they writt to Geneua, their newe Rome, or Metropolitane City. From whence they were greatly animated, and earnestly perswaded, to continue in that course. Beza<sup>k</sup> the Conistorian Patriarche, assureth them that they had done well, and mooueth them, ne unquam illam pestem admittant, quamuis unitatis retinenda specie blandiatur: that they would neuer admit againe that plague, (meaning the calling of Bishoppes) although it might allure them, with colour of keeping vntie.

After they had discharged the Bishops, (as it hath beene noted) they agreed amongst themselues, to haue their<sup>l</sup> Superintendents. But that deuise continued not long: for in the ende it was determined, that needes all Ministers of the word, must be equall. And then (especially) their Presbyteries began to flourish. They tooke vpon<sup>m</sup> them (with their adherents) to vsurpe the whole Ecclesiasticall Iurisdiction. They altered the lawes after their owne appetite. They assembled<sup>n</sup> the Kings subiects, and enioyed Ecclesiasticall paines vnto them. They made Decrees, and put the same in execution. They vsed<sup>o</sup> very trayterous, seditious, and contumelious words, in the pulpits, schooles, and otherwise, to the disdain and reproch of the King, and being called to answer the same, they utterlie disclaimed the Kings authoritie: saying, he<sup>p</sup> was an incompetent Iudge, and that matters of the Pulpit ought to be exempted from the iudgement & correction of Princes. They<sup>q</sup> prescribed lawes to the King and State. They appointed<sup>r</sup> Fasts throughout k Epistola 79.

l Declaration B.3.

m Declaration on B.1.

n Act of Parliament ca.4.

o Ibid. cap.2.

p Decl. A.3.

q Decl. B.3.

r Decl. B.3.

the whole Realme, especially when some of their faction wereto mooue any great enterprife.

With these manner of proceedings, the King there, and the State, finding great cause of iust discontentment and danger: after diuers consultations and good deliberation, order was taken about the yeare, 1582. for the checking & redressing of them. His Maesty began to take vpon him his lawfull authoritie, belonging to all Christian Princes, in causes Ecclesiasticall. Wherupon he caused the foresaid courses, held by the Ministers, to be examined and looked into. And they were found to be such, as that some of them were remoued from their charges, some were imprisoned, & some indighted. Commaundement was also giuen, that they should not proceede, in the execution of their Ecclesiasticall censures, as they had done. A Proclamation was made in diuers of the chiefest places in the Realme, for discharging the Ministers of their foresaid conuersions and assemblies, vnder paine, to bee punished as Rebels. They were published in that Proclamation, to be vnnaturall subiects, seditious persons, troublesome and vnquiet spirites, members of Sathan, enemies to the King, and the Common-wealth of their native country: and were charged to desist from preaching, in such sort as they did, amongst other matters against the authoritie in Church causes, against the calling of Bishops, & for the maintenance of their former proceedings.

But the issue of the Kinges good intention to haue reformed these disorders, was this: In August 1582. his Highnesse being drawn vnto a certain Noble mans house to be feasted in Rutheuen: there he was surprisid & restrained. Which attempt was qualified and tearmed (in a Declaration set out, 1582. to iustifie the same) to be onely a repaire of the Kings faithfull subiects, to his Highnesse presence, and to remaine with him, for resisting of the present dangers appearing to Gods

Declaration
1582.

A & of Parliam.
ment, 1584.
cap. 7.

Deciara. 2 582

Gods true religion, &c. and for the remouing from his Maiestie, the chiefe authors thereof.

After a time, the King deliuered himselfe out of their hands, that so had restrained him: and by the aduise of his three estates assembled in Councell, (notwithstanding the saide qualification or pretence of repayre) the action in it self was iudged and published in December, 1583. to be Crimen lesæ Maiestatis, the Offence of Treason: and some were executed for it, others fled, and diuers of the Ministers, that had bin dealers in that matter, pretending they were persecuted, escaped into England.

Act of Parl.
1584. cap. 7.

With this his Maiesties course for Reformation, the Disciplinaryan faction was greatly displeased: and did proceede in their Consistorian humour accordingly. In an assembly of Ministers and Elders (forsooth) at Edenburgh, shortly after, the State of the Realme was stoutly encountered. For although the King, with the aduise of his estates, had resolved the saide fact of surprising his Maiesties person, to be treasonable, yet the brethren did not onely authorize and avow the same, but also, esteeming their owne iudgements, to be the soueraigne iudgement of the Realme, did ordaine all them to be excommunicated, that would not subscribe vnto that their iudgement.

Declar. 1585.

About the same time, or not long after, vz. in Aprill, 1583. there was another most treasonable conspiracie and rebellion attempted at Sterling, and intended to haue beene further executed and prosecuted against his Highnesse person: and all vnder pretence of Religion, and chiefly (in shewe) for the Consistorian or Presbyteriall souerainctie.

Act of Parl.
1584. cap. 7.

With these and many more such vnductifull insolencies, the King and State there, being greatly moued: a Parliament was called, and held in May, 1584: wherein order was taken, for a generall Reformation in causes Ecclesiasticall.

clesiasticall, throughout the whole Church of Scotland.

u Act of Parl.
c 1 p. 2.

The Kings<sup>u</sup> lawfull authority in causes Ecclesiasticall, so often before impugned, was approued and confirmed; and it was made treason, for any man to refuse to answer before the King, though it were concerning any matter, which was Ecclesiasticall.

* ibid. cap. 20

The third* estate of Parliament, (that is, the Bishoppes) was restored to the auncient dignity: it was<sup>y</sup> made treason, for any man after that time to procure the innouation or diminution of the power and authority of any of the three estates.

y ibid. cap. 3.

z ibid cap. 4.

The foresayd<sup>z</sup> iudgements, Senates, and Presbyteriall iurisdiccions were discharged: and it was enacted in these words: that after that time none should presume, or take vpon them to conuocate, conuene, or assemble themselues together, for holding of Councells, conuentions, or assemblies, to treat, consult, or determine in any matter of estate, ciuill or Ecclesiasticall, (excepting the ordinary iudgements: ) without the Kinges especiall commandement.

a ibid cap. 7.

It was<sup>a</sup> further then ordayned, that none of his Highnesse subiects, in time comming, should presume to take vpon them by worde or writing, to iustifie the most treasonable attempt at Ruthuen, or to keepe in Register or store, any bookes approouing the same in any sort.

b ibid. cap. 8.

An Acte<sup>b</sup> was also made, for the calling in of Buchanans Chronicle, and his booke de iure regni apud Scotos.

c ibid. cap. 8.

Lastly (sayth the Acte<sup>c</sup> of Parliament it selfe.) Forasmuch as through the wicked, licentious, publike, and priuate speeches, and vntrue calumnies of diuers his Highnesse subiects, to the disclaime, contempt, and reproach of his Maiestie, his Councell, and proceedinges, stirring vp his Highnesse subiectes thereby, to misliking, sedition, vnquietnes, to cast off their due obedience to his Maiestie. Therefore it is ordained, that none of his subiects

shall

shall presume, or take upon them, priuately or publikely, in sermons, declamations, or familiar conferences, to utter any false, slanderous, or vnttrue speeches, to the disdain, reproach, and contempt of his Maiestie, his Councell, and proceedings, or to meddle in the affaires of his Highnesse vnder paine, &c.

And thus you haue seene some part of the practise of the Geneva resolution in Scotland, for their booke of Discipline; and reformation in Religion. But yet I must needs draw you on a little further.

Presently, after that the sayde Parliament was ended, notwithstanding the kings maiesty, had in the same<sup>d</sup> most royally & religiously confirmed with great sincerity the articles of true Religion, for preaching the worde, and administration of the sacraments accordingly, and had likewise vnitd to his Crowne, the supream authority in all causes within his Realme, aswell Ecclesiasticall as Ciuill: yet (because their Presbyterial soueraignty was therby abridged) diuers very spitefull, disloyall, and slanderous speeches were cast abroad, by them and their associates, against his Highnesse.

<sup>d</sup> cap. 1. of that Parliament, &c.

For they<sup>e</sup> gaue out, as though the King had beene declined to Popery, and had made Acts to derogate the free passage of the Gospell: that he endeoured<sup>t</sup> to extinguish the light of the Gospell: that there was left nothing of the whole auncient forme of iustice and pollicie in the spiriuall state, but a naked shadow, with many other thelike reprochfull and calumnious reportes, which they spread abroad in their owne Country.

<sup>c</sup> Declar. A. 2.

<sup>f</sup> Thinnes addition to Hollinshed. pa. 446. D. A.

Diuers of the chiefe Ministers of that faction likewise that were fled out of Scotland into England, for feare of punishment, in respect of many their great and haynous offences, pretended (as it hath beene noted) that they fledd hether, because they were persecuted at home for their consciences, and could not be suffered to preach the Gos-

<sup>g</sup> Archbishop of Saint. Andrews Letter, and of other Preachers.

M. Hutchin-sons Letter and as he is readie to be deposed.

pell. One <sup>h</sup> Dauison (a Scottish Minister) so rayled against the King of Scots in the pulpit, at the parish Church of the olde Iury in London, that vpon complaint made thereof, by the Lord Ambassador of Scotland, direction was giuen to the Lord Bishop of London, for the silencing of all the Scottish Ministers in the City.

And this disloyall and slanderous course was helde, both in Scotland and England, so farre as they <sup>i</sup> durst, from May, vntill Nouember following.

i Thinnes addition, page.
44<sup>e</sup>.

kibid Thian.

At what time, this stratagem here ensuing was wrought (as I am perswaded) by the Consistorians instigation. The King <sup>k</sup> of Scotland, being vpon occasion of a contract, nere Striueling: heard of certaine enemies (as hee then accounted them) comming towards him. Whereupon his Maiesty raising such power as hee could, conuayed himselfe to Striueling. Where before he looked for them, ten thousand men presented themselues in armes. They pitched their Tents before the towne the first of November, and there made a Proclamation in their owne names, commanding all the Kings subiects to assist them. Many pretenses <sup>l</sup> are alleaged of that their attempt. And these namely: that whereas there had bene Acts and Proclamations a little before published against the Ministerie and Clergie, inhibiting their Presbyteries, assemblies and other exercises, priuileges, and immunities: and that the most learned and honest were compelled, for safetie of their liues and consciences, to abandon their Country, &c. Nowe the afflicted Church might be comforted, and all the said Acts lately made in prejudice of the same, might bee solemnly cancelled, and for euer adnulled. This Proclamation thus knowne, the King fortified the towne as he could: but to no purpose. For within two houres assault it was wonne. The King thereupon, was enforced to flye vnto the Castle. The Conquerours of the towne, placed their ensignes before the blockehouse of the Castle,

l The Proclamation is there also set
downe.

Castle, and so ordred the matter, that there was no way for any in the Castle to escape their hands.

Wherupon (a parley being concluded) the King desired by his Commissioners three petitions: The first, That his life, honor, and estate might be preferued. The second, That the liues of certain of his friends with him might not be touched. The third, That all things might be transacted peaceably. The other side, by their Commissioners likewise desired other three petitions: The first, That the King would allow of their intention, and subscribe their Proclamation, vntill further order were established by the estates, &c. and that he would deliuer vnto them, all the strong Holds in the land. The second, That the disquieters of the Common-wealth might be deliuered vnto them and abide their due tryall by Law. The third, That the old guard might be remooued, and another placed.

Vppon mutuall relation from the Commissioners on both sides, the parties that were assembled in armes, did yeeld vnto the first and third of the Kings petitions: and the King granting to all theirs, as there was no remedy, committed himself into their hands, and had a new guard immediately appointed to attend him.

And thus the Presbyteries of Scotland by the Kings subscribing to the foresaid Proclamation, recovered againe a great part of their strength. But not all (as it seemeth) vpon the sodaine: which was the occasion of a new stirre. For presently after the sayde Noble victory, the Scottish Ministers that were in England, (hauing al their former disloyalties vppon composition remitted;) made their repayre without delay into Scotland: where finding not such readinesse as they expected, for a more authenticall repealing of the statutes made in the foresaid Parliament, 1584. they began (notwithstanding the Kings late goodnes towards them,) to exclaime in their Pulpits, with most proud and bitter Inuectiues against him.

This appeareth by James Gibsons conference with the King, penned by himselfe, and deliuered abroad in many Copies.

One James Gibson, compared his Maieſty publikely in his preachings, unto Ieroboam, tearmed him a persecutor, and threated him, that if he tooke that course, he should be the last of his race.

Gibson hath penned this matter as Consistorianly, as Catiline himselfe could haue done: it.

And being called for such his disloyall speeches, before the King & Councell, the xxj. of December, 1585. he very boldly iustified the same: saying to his Highnesse, As long as you maintayne these cursed Actes of 1584. the tyranny of Bishops, &c. Ye are a Persecutor. And againe, As Ieroboam for the leading of the people of Israell from the lawes of the house of Iudah, and from the true worshipping of God, to serue Idolatry, was rooted out, he and all his posterity: so should the King) if he continued in that cursed course, maintaining those wicked Actes against God) be rooted out, and conclude that race, &c.

What else hath fallen out since that time, by reason of the raines, which now (as it hath beene noted) these zealous brethren haue gotten to themselves, and how moderately and duerifully they doo proceede, in the practise of their Presbyteries, and Consistorian Kingdomes: the articles, which the King not long since offred vnto the Ministers, to haue beene subscribed vnto by them, doo sufficiently declare and make manifest. Ex malis moribus nascuntur bona leges: Out of ill manners spring good and wholesome lawes. The chiefe and especiall pointes of the sayde articles are these: that all Preachers there, should yeelde their obedience to the Kings Maieſty: that they should not pretend any Priuiledge in their allegiance: that they should not meddle in matters of State: that they should not publikely reuile his Maieſty: that they should not draw the people from their due obedience to the King: & that when they are accused, vpon their facts or speeches, or for refusing to doo things, &c. they should not alledge the inspiration of the holy spirit, nor serue themselves with colour of conscience, but confesse.

The coppie of these articles, was deliuered abroad by some of her Maieſties private Councell.

fesse their offences as men, and to craue pardon as subiects, &c.

It is great pittie, that so worthy a Christian King, should be driuen to require such a subscription in his owne kingdome, especially of those men, that should be lights to the rest, and the chiefe examples of all duetifull obedience: It is more to be pittied, that (for ought I can learne) his Maiesty cannot as yet obtaine so much at their handes. But most of all it is to be lamented, that no man can gesse (for ought I know) how far this Gangrene will spread it selfe.

At the first, they found but faults against the Bishops, but after they ouerthrewe them. The Anabaptists in Germany began with the Bishops and Clergy, but they ended with the ciuill Magistrate. Consider of Buchanans dea'ing, whether he maketh not the like assault against Princes, that his companions did against Bishops; as in deriding their titles, misliking their pompe, and in glancing at their reuenues. He tearmeth <sup>a</sup> the honorable phrascs of Maiesty, Highnesse, and Lordship, solacismos & barbarismos aulicos, that is, unlawfull & corrupt kinds of speech, which are vsed in Court, and doo proceede (as he sayth) from flattery. Hee gibeth <sup>b</sup> at the state which Princes take vpon them, when they shewe themselues to the people, comparing them to Childrens puppets, which are garishly attyred.

Bullinger.

a Epistle to the king of Scots before his booke de iure regni &c
b De iure regni pa. 17.

After <sup>c</sup> also, he insinuateth that a good Prince should appear & come abroad, only defended with his innocencie, non superbo spiculatorum & μαχαροφρων cætu, sericatisq; nebulo-nibus stipatus: not with a proud company of guarders, and of pensioners, and of silken knaues. He would haue Kings to content themselues with lesse reuenues and seruice, commending the Discipline of Laconia, where it was strange to haue one man pull off an other mans sockes, at his going to bedde: and likewise the example of Pelagius, that first discomfited the Saracens in Spaine: in that he had his house, not built after the fashion

c Ibid. pa. 34.

now a dayes, with many stately roomes of honor, but was contented with one place for himself, his fire, his friends, and his castell, (after the Irish fashion.)

But to let passe these contemptes and pointes of Anabaptisme: one thing more is likewise to be considered in these Scottish reforming ministers, which they haue sucked from their Mother-City Geneva. They cannot be content, to haue rayfed vp sedition and troubles at home, to haue slandred both far and nere, the most Godly reformation of Religion, which their King had made there, and to erect (you haue seene how) in place thereof a meere counterfeit plot of a new Popish tyranny, such a one as hath already quite ouerthrowne the auncient estate of that Church, & wrought more mischief in that Country in thirty yeares, then the Pope of Rome had done before (as I thinke) in fīue hundred: But they presume also, much further then becometh them, to cast some of their contentious and disloyall feedes into England.

* Melancton. Vulpecula* (cauda amissa) reliquis vulpibus callide persuasit ut similiter & ipsa caudas rescarent, ne sola turpis & deformis in suo genere videretur. The Fox (having lost her taylor) craftely persuaded the other Foxes, that they would likewise cut off their taylor, least she herselfe alone, should seeme the fowle and deformed beast of all that kinde. And hence it commeth (as I take it) that to bring the flourishing estate of our Church in England into the same misery, that theirs is brought into, they rayle, deuise, and clap their handes, to set vs here together by the eares.

e Davison in the name of the rest, in a booke of his lately published. Page. 2. f pag. 29.

Some of them say, that our Church is still under the bondage of an Antichristian gouernement: that our Bishops are a hurtfull relique of Romish confusion: that they thrust with side and shoulder to make hauocke of the Church, by a disguised persecution, and that they do tyrannize about their brethren with violence olence & and crueltie.

g pag. 28.

They vse these words of her excellent Maiefty. Alacke good<sup>h</sup> Princeffe, the true report of thinges commeth seldome to her cares. And do very grossely insinuate, nay indeed plainly affirme, that there are in Court some crafty<sup>i</sup> miscreants, which doo abuse her Maiesty, whom they resemble to Ioab, Iesabell, Haman and Gehasi.

h pag. 28.

i pag. 12.

They doo<sup>k</sup> iuustifie the proceedings of our disturbers here, & animating<sup>l</sup> them to go forward, as they haue begun, doo tell them, that both their causes (vz. their owne in Scotland, and of our factions in England) are most nerely<sup>m</sup> linked together: and doo<sup>n</sup> promise, that they will not cease to commend their troubled state vnto God, in their priuate and publike prayers. They<sup>o</sup> compare our hindring in England of the pretended Discipline, vnto the hinderance, which Gods enemies made, vnto the building of Ierusalem. They seeke vnder hand<sup>p</sup> to steale away the harts of her Maiesties subiects, especially of those that haue beene, and still are seduced, by our Consistorian Schismatikes: by putting them in hope of one Darius, that after a time shall giue full authority for the sayde building of Ierusalem. Which manner of dealing, there is no Darius liuing, could take in good part, if the like practises were vsed by others amongst his people.

k pag. 3.

l pag. 21.

m pag. 20.

n pag. 29.

o pag. 20.

p pag. 21.

GOD of his infinite mercy, graunt vnto her Maiefty, a long, a prosperous, and a happy raigne ouer vs: and so knit the harts of all true English men, vnto their Queene of Saba, their Hester, and their most royall Elizabeth, that without the expectation of any Darius whosoouer, they may euer continue her most loyall, faithfull, and obedient subiects, rather wishing in their soules, that the world with her Maiesty should end their dayes together, then once to take ioy, by the least imagination of any future change. Amen.

And

And thus much of the manner and wayes vsed by certaine Scottish Ministers, for Reformation and Discipline. Which pointes or Consistorian proceedinges, I haue not touched (as God knoweth) with any minde or intent, to dishonour the state of that Country. Besides; much may well be sayd (I assure my selfe) in excuse of such of the lacity; as ioyned in the premisses. For I finde they were led with a very great zeale. They had beene so long imprisoned in the darkeness of Popery, that when the Gospell appeared vnto them, it so dazeled their eyes, as that for very gladnesse they considered not well, what they did, so they might enjoy it. Their goods, their lands, their wiues and their children, nay their liues (in respect therof) were not greatly deare vnto them.

Moreouer it is manifest, how long they were exercised with great feare and many perplexities, what entertainment and continuance the Gospell should finde amongst them. In which case euery man may easily coniecture, how easie a matter it was for them, to be miscaried by their teachers & Preachers: perswading them, that by Gods commandement they were bound to vndertake that course, & withall not omitting great threates of excommunication & damnation, if they refused so to doo. They found their sayd Ministers doctrine very good and sound, in the chiefe points of saluation: and who would then haue suspected them in matters of lesse importance?

So as whatsoeuer was done amisse by them, as touching their proceedings mentioned, I doo (wholly in a manner) ascribe it to their Ministers of the Geneua learning. Vnto whom also it ought of right to be imputed, that I or any other, either haue, or hereafter shall haue, any occasion at all so much as once to make mention of the least thing, that might be any waies offensiue to the meanest of that nation.

For

For what had I, or any other priuate man in England, to doo with their matters, otherwise then to haue prayed for them: had their sayd Ministers, but onely taken vpon them to haue iustified their sayde proceedinges, by their owne Lawes, customes, and priuiledges, and could haue contented themselues to haue gone no further? Marry nowe that the chiefeft of them, for the excusing of themselues, and that they might shew, whose schollers they are, haue presumed to publish (and that in print) such strange & seditious doctrine, as doth tend to the like disturbance, and indeede to the vtter ouerthrow of the freest and most absolute Monarchies, that are or can be in Christendome, not omitting withall, to solícite and incourage our pretended reformers in England, to proceed as they haue begun, in following their steps, contrary (I am sure) both to the word of God, and to all the lawes and customes of this Realme: I am in very good hope, that there is no man of any sound iudgement, who will be offended with mee, in that to disclose, and thereby to preuent such mischiefes, as might otherwise ensue with vs, I haue beene bolde to lay downe (but yet out of their printed bookes) some of the proceedinges of the sayde Ministers of Scotland, which at this time our owne Preachers in England, of the Disciplinaryan consort, (as nowe it followeth to bee shewed) doo take vpon them to imitate, and haue already proceeded further in them, then some of their fauorers will acknowledge or (I thinke) doo as yet suspect.

Buchanan.
The historie
of the church
of Scotland.
Knox.

The end of the first Booke.

* F

T H E

THE SECOND BOOKE OF DISCIPLINARY GROVNDES
and Practises.

CHAP. I.

The doctrine of certaine English Ministers, which they learned at Geneva, and published of purpose to haue procured the like course for reformation in England, to that which was in Scotland.

As you haue hearde in the first Booke, howe M. Knox beeing at Geneua in Q. Maries time, laboured and afterward proceeded to reforme Religion in Scotland by force and armes: so did sundry English men, that then liued there in like sort, according to the Geneua resolution in that point, endeuour as much as lay in them, to haue kindled the like stirres at that time here in England. To which especiall ende, they did write hither sundry letters and bookes, wholly of this argument: v<sup>z</sup>. that the then Councillors; the Noble men; in<sup>feriour</sup> Magistrates; and (rather then faile) the very people; were bound before God to ouerthrowe the superstition and Idolatrie that was then in the Land, and to reforme Religion, whether the Queene would or no: yea though it were by putting her to death: Out of two of these English bookes, I haue collected these seditious and consistoriall propositions following.

All men, councellors, noble men, inferior magistrates, and people are bound and charged, to see the lawes of God kept, and to suppress and resist Idolatrie, by force. Goodman. Page 73. ibid. pag. 74. ibid. pag. 77.

If the magistrates shall refuse, to put massmongers and false preachers to death, the people (in seeing it performed) doo shew that zeale of God, which was commended in Phinces, destroying the adulterers, and in the Israelites against the Beniamites. ibid. pag 196

To teach, that it was not lawfull in any case to resist the superior powers, but rather to submit our selues to punishment is a dangerous doctrine, taught by some, by the permission of God for our sinnes. ibid. page 306

It is not sufficient for subiects, not to obey wicked commandments of their Princes, but to withstand them also, in dooing the contrarie, euerie man in his vocation and office. ibid. page 63. 43 59 72.

Shieriffes, laylors, and other inferior officers, ought not only not to cast the saintes of God in prison (hauing commandement thereunto by the Prince) for feare of losing their offices: but to withstand euill, to support them, and to deliuer them, to the uttermost of their power. ibid page 87. 88, 82, 90.

If we see a sheepe in daunger to be deuoured of a wolfe, wee are bounde to deliuer it: euen so to our power wee are bound to put to our hands, to deliuer the children of God, when wee see them pitiouslie in danger, by Gods enemies. ibid. page 90.

It is the office of Councellors, to bridle the affections of Princes and gouernors: Noblemen were first ordained to bridle Princes. Noblemen haue their honour of the people, to reuenge the iniuries of their Kings, and not for their lustie hawking, nimble dicing & carding, singing and dauncing, open bragging & swearing, false flearing and flattering, subtile picking and stealing, cruell polling and pilling, &c. ibid. page 34. page 35. Obedience. page. 107.

The authoritie, which Princes haue, is giuen them from the people: Kings, princes, and gouernours, haue their authoritie of the people: and (upon occasion) the people may take it away again, Obedience. 25.

ibid. pag. 105. as men may reuoke their proxies and letters of Attourney.

Goodman, pag. 190. Subiects do promise obedience, that the Magistrate might help them: which if he doo not, they are discharged of their obedience.

ibid. pag. 119. 139. If Magistrates without feare transgresse Gods laws themselves, and command others to doo the like; then haue they lost that honour and obedience, which otherwise their subiectes did owe vnto them: and ought no more to be taken for Magistrates, but be examined, accused, condemned, and punished as priuate transgressors.

Obedience, pag. 111. Iudges ought by the lawe of God, to summon Princes before them, for their crimes: and to proceed against them, as against all other offenders.

Goodman, 144. 145. Obedience, 110. Euill Princes ought (by the lawe of God) to bee deposed, and inferior magistrates ought chieflie to doo it. Examples allowed of Kings deposed, Edward 2. Richard 2. Christierne of Denmarke, &c.

Obedience, 99. 103. Goodman, pag. 99. Obedience, pag. 113. ibid. pag. 114. ibid. pag. 115. It is lawfull to kill wicked kings and tyrants: and both by Gods lawe and mans lawe, Queene Mary ought to haue beene put to death, as being a tyrant, a monster, a cruell beast, &c. Examples. The subiects did kill the Queenes highnesse Athalia: Iehu, killed the Queenes maiestie Iesabell: Elias, being no magistrate, killed the Queenes maiesties chaplaines, Baals priests. These examples are left for our instruction. Where this iustice is not executed, the state is most corrupt.

Goodman, pag. 185. ibid. pag. 180. ibid. pag. 184. ibid. pag. 185. When Magistrates do cease to do their duties, (in thus deposing or killing of Princes) the people are as it were without officers: & then God giueth the sword into their hands, & he himself is become immediatly their head: for to the multitude a portion of the sword of iustice is committed: from the which no person, King, Queene, or Emperour (being an Idolater) is exempt: he must die the death. The people in the 25. of Numbers, did hang vp certain of their heads and captains: which ought to be for euer a perpetuall example of their duetic, in the like defection from God to hang vp such rulers, as shall draw them from him. If neither the inferior magistrates, nor the greatest part of people will doo their offices: (in punishing, deposing, or killing of Princes) then the minister must excommunicate such a King: any minister may doo it against the greatest Prince. God will send to the rest of the people, (which are willing to doo their duty, but are not able) some Moses or Othoniell: If they know any Ionathan, they must goe vnto him to be their Captaine: and he ought not to refuse them. By the worde of God (in such a defection) a priuate man (hauing some speciall inward motion) may kill a tyrant: as Moses did the Egyptian: as Phinees did the lecherous: and Ahud did king Eglon: or otherwise, a priuate man may doo so, if he be commanded or permitted by the common-wealth.

Obedience, pag. 115
Obedience, pag. 116.
ibid. 18.
Goodman, 199. 200. 201.
Obedience, pag. 110.

And vnto some obiections that be made to the contrary, these answeres are shaped.

Ob. Be subiect to higher powers: the powers be ordained of God.

Goodman, pag. 106.

Ans. Wicked Kings are not Gods ordinance. Saint Paule speaketh of lawfull powers.

Goodman, pag. 111.

Ob. Seruants must be obedient to their Masters, though they be froward.

Ans. Paul speaketh of bondmen, not of subiects obedience.

Obedience, pag 47.

Ob. Peter was commanded to put vp his sword.

Goodman, 127.

Ans. He was a minister, and no magistrate.

Ob. Christ could haue called for twelue legions of Angels for his defence, if it had beene lawfull to haue vsed force, for the setting vp of the Gospell.

Goodman, 119. 120.

Ans. Christs kingdome was not of this world: he tooke vpon him no temporall sword: but that hindreth not those that haue it.

Ob. Ieremy was commanded to obey the king of Babel.

Goodman, 125. 126.

Ans. The secret counsell of God was reuealed to him to that effect. It is no generall rule.

Goodman,
138. 139.

Ob. David said, God forbid that I should touch the anointed of the Lord.

Ans. It was in his owne priuite cause, and so vnlawfull.

Goodman,
202. 205.

Ob. Sir Thomas Wyat did; as you would haue others to do, &c. but he had no good successe.

Ans. The goodnesse of his cause is not to be measured by his successe.

Page 203.

Hee was no traytour, his cause was Gods: and none, but papists and traytours, can iustly accuse him of treason.

The Councillors and all others, that would be accounted nobles (and tooke not his part) are in very deede traytours to God and his people, and to their countrie.

Page 206.

Page 207.

Page 137.

The author of the booke of obedience (he should haue sayd of rebellion) endeth his treatise, with significatiō, that the nobilitie of England, (hee speaketh of them that were in Queen Mariés daies) are not to be trusted either by their words, othes, or hand writings, surder then a man doth see, & hear them; & scarcely so far. And Goodman likewise, for his conclusion, is most earnest with all english subiectes, that they would put his doctrine in practise, assuring them that in so doing, if they be cast in prison with Ioseph, to wild beasts with Daniell, into the sea with Ionas, into the dungeon with Ieremy, into the fiery furnace with Sidrach, Misach, & Abednago, yet they shall be comforted: whereas if they will not: in seeking to saue their lues, they shall lose them. they shall be cast out of the fauor of God, their consciences shall be wounded with hell-like torments, they shall despaire & seeke to hang themselues with Iudas, to murder themselues with Frauncis Spira; drowne themselues with Iudge Hales, or else fall mad with Iustice Morgan, at Geneua.

Page 218.

219.

220.

221.

In his preface
to Goodmans
booke.

This doctrine saith Whittingham (afterward vnworthily Deane of Durham) was approued by the best learned in these parts, meaning Caluin and the rest of the Geneuians. The English.

Englishmen of name, there at that time, besides Goodman and Whittingham, were (as I take it) Anthony Gilby, Miles Couerdall, David Whitehead, and sundry others. Who liking the sayde doctrine also exceedingly, were very earnest to haue the same printed, for the benefite (as they sayde) of their brethren in England. Whittingham made a preface to Goodmans booke: wherein hee greatly commendeth this doctrine, and writeth thus, in the name (as it seemeth) of all his fellowes there. We desire that you (meaning all in England and elswhere, that loue to know the truth and follow it) should bee perswaded in this traeth. Againe, here thou dost heare the Eternal speaking by his minister, &c. quickly giue eare and obey, &c. And again, If thou wish for Christian liberty, come and see how it may easily be had, &c. From Geneua.

Here it is very material. furcherto be obserued, that the rest of the learned men, that fled in Queene Maries time, as Iohn Scory: William Barlow: Richard Cox: Thomas Becon: Iohn Bale: Iohn Parkhurst: Edmond Grindall: Edwine Sandes: Alexander Nowell: Robert Wisdome: Iohn Iewell: & very many more, hauing no great affection to Geneua, bestowed themselues in Germany, especially at Zuricke, Basill, and Franckesford. These men maintained the reformation of the Church of England in King Edwards time: they vsed in their holy assemblies, the forme of seruice, and order of ceremonies, which were then established: and they vtterly millicked, & condemned the foresayd propositions, as very seditious & rebellious, according to the iudgement of all the reformed Churches, (for ought I can learne) both in Germany and else-where, besides Geneua and her offspring.

Besides they of Franckesford, (as it appeareth) notwithstanding their grieft; that they were constrained to leaue their country for their conscience: yet in the midst of all their afflictions, they retained such duetifull harts vn-

to Queene Mary, (imitating therein the Apostles and Disciples of their Maister) as that they could not endure to heare her so traduced into all hatred and obloquy, as shee was by the other sort. Maister Knox, comming vpon occasion from Geneua to Franckesford, was by these graue men, accused of Treason (as he himselve confesseth) for matters that he had published in print, against their Soueraigne and the Emperor; and was faine thereupon, for the sauing of his life, to flye thence secretly backe againe to Geneua.

Lastly, by meanes of their disliking of the sayd propositions, and their further course helde in the defence of the foresayde reformation in England, against the other mens counterfeit presbyteries: these learned men at Franckesford, could haue small reputation with them of Geneua. Thus one of that crew then, hath written since of them. The English Church, which was assembled at Geneua, was seperated from that superstitious and contentious company, that was at Franckesford. And againe, They were more giuen vnto vnprofitable ceremonies, then to sincere Religion.

These things I thought meete, for your aduertisement, to set downe, that the propositions precedent might appeare vnto you, not to haue proceeded from any rash or light conceit in our English propounders, publishers, and maintainers of them: but that they doo containe their resolute iudgement, agreeable to those points of the Geneua resolution, mentioned before out of Knox and Buchanan.

Whereby it is apparant, that if our sayd English Geneuians, had found as redy assistance at that time in England, as Knox and his complices (about, or soone after the same time) did in Scotland, they would not haue fayled, to haue put the sayde positions aswell in practise heere with vs, as some Scottish Ministers did in that Country. Which great mischiefe, and disloyall outrage, as the state here, did then prou-

Knox hist. pag.
185.

Knox hist. pag.
201.

Ibid. pag. 185.

The 2. Booke. English Scottizing for Discipline by dotage. 47
prouidently suppress and withstande: So her Excellent Maiefty, hath since preuented, by abolishing of the Romish Religion, and the restoring of the Gospell, which was the quarrell in those dayes pretended. So as our English Reformers, hauing hitherto had no cause for this point to imitate the foresayde proceedinges in Scotland, it remayneth, that I shew vnto you, how far (as yet it is disclosed) and how directly they endeouour to follow the said practises of the Scottish Ministers, for the erecting vp in England of the Geneua new Papacie.

---

C H A P. I I.

Our English Disciplinaryans, doo imitate the Scottish, in their desire of the Consistoriall gouernement, sauing that they are more bewitched with a kind of dotage after it.

IN Scotland, notwithstanding that at the last the Ministers had obtayned, in some sorte, the allowance of the confession of their faith, containing the summe of that doctrine, which before they had so greatly desired: yet because they wanted the Geneua discipline, wherein consisted their very great ioy, together with the hope of their future soueraignety, they were but a little satisfied with all the rest.
And euen so, it hath fallen out since in England, sauing (for ought I can read) that the sayd Scottish ministers were not then come vnto so great a dotage after this Discipline, as there now is growne amongst vs.

About some two or three and forty yeares agone, and after, in the beginning of her Maiesties Raigne, the deu-fers themselues of this new platforme, were well content to accept of, and commend such Churches, as had abandoned Popery, though they had withall imbraced ano-

Harmonia
confess.
Cal, Epist. &c.

ther kinde of Discipline.

Then in disputation against the Papists and Anabaptists, there could bee found in all Fraunce and Geneua, but two essentiall notes of the Church; vz. the true preaching of the word, and the right administration of the Sacraments.

Then vpon Goodmans, Whittinghams, & Gilbies returne, (with the rest of their associates) from Geneua into England: although it grieued them at the hart, that they might not beare as great a sway here in their seuerall conlisteries, as Caluin did at Geneua, and so not onely repined and grudged at her Maiesties reformation of this Church, but laboured (as they might) to sowe abroade in the lande that seede, which hath brought forth a great part of all the disorders, troubles, and disobediences, that since haue ensued. Yet notwithstanding, they meddle not much in shewe, (for a ny thing I can heare of,) with matters of this Discipline, but rather busied themselves, about the apparrell of ministers, ceremonies prescribed, and in picking of quarrels against the common Booke.

Marry since that, Maister Beza deuised a way, howe to bring in the Geneua Discipline, to be a third essentiall note of the Church: since, Maister Cartwright hath bene at Geneua, and vpon his returne did ingage his credit to iustifie that platforme, to be a necessary forme of Gouvernement, prescribed by Christ for all times and places: since, Maister Truuer (hath also bene there, and did take vpon him in his booke de Disciplina Ecclesiastica, to do the like: since, Maister Cartwright did likewise (at his second being beyonde the seas,) sende vs worde in his second booke, that Maister Beza accounted his sayde third note of the Church, (vz. the Geneua Discipline) to bee as necessarie a note, as either the word or Sacraments: and since, Maister Cartwright and Truuer, with the chiefe of their followers in England, haue of later

Bertram pa. 15
Mornay p. 37.
Caluin instr.
lib. 4. Cap. 1.
sect. 9.
Beza in colloquio Posiice
no. Conuict. de statu Gall.
pastro. fol. 122.
This appea-
reth by their letters, sermons, and by Gilbies most rayling Dialogue betwixt
a lame souldier of Barwicke, and an English Captaine.

Confes. 5. & 7.

T. C. Second
replie pa. 53.

later yeares (vpon consideration of the premisses, and further deliberation, in their conferences and meetings to that purpose) resolved and concluded generally, for the necessity of the same Discipline, which before had beene onely deliuered with vs, as their priuate opinions: Since these times (I say) the friends and fauorers of it, haue from time to time, by certain degrees, so increased in their fond affections towards it; as that now they are in a manner ouercome with the strength and violence of them, and doo bragge in their bookes, that they will not sticke to dye in the cause.

Maister Cartwright (as I take it) had an especiall eye to this deuise when he sayth, that certaine of the things, which he and his followers do stand vpon, are such, as if every haire of their heads, were a seuerall life, they ought to afford them all in defence of them. Diuers other besides, doo offer to aduenture their liues for the iustifying of it, as Vdall & Penry, & nothing will content them without the Geneva discipline. For say they, it is found<sup>a</sup> to be the onely bond of peace, the bane of heresie, the purisher of sinne and maintainer of righteousness.

Epist. before the demonst.
Epist. before the sup.
a Practise of Prelats D. 2.

It is pure,<sup>b</sup> perfect, and full of all goodnes for the peace, wealth and honour of Gods people, and is ordained for the ioy and happiness of all Nations.

b Motion. pa<sup>r</sup> 46.

The want<sup>c</sup> of the Eldership is the cause of all euill. It is not<sup>d</sup> to be hoped for, that any common wealth will flourish without it. This Discipline<sup>e</sup> is no small part of the Gospell: it is of the substance of it. It is the<sup>f</sup> right stuffe & gold for building the Church of God. This would make the Church a chaste spouse, hauing a wonderfull brightnes as the morning, faire as the Moone, pure as the Sunne, and terrible like an army with banners. Without<sup>h</sup> this Discipline, there can be no true Religion. This gouernement<sup>i</sup> is the scepter, whereby alone Christ Iesus ruleth among men. The Churches of God in<sup>k</sup> Denmarke, Saxony, Tigrin, &c. wanting

c T. C. lib. 2. in the Epist.
d T. C. lib. 1. page 3.

e T. C. lib. 1. pa. 6. and 48.
f Motion 84.

g Ibid. 84.
h Register. p. 68

i Epist before sup. A. 2.

k Martin Iunior: Theol. 14.

l T. C. lib. 1,
 pag. 3.
 m T. C. lib.
 1. pag. 220.
 n T. C. Table
 p reface to the demonst.
 o Motion to the Lordes.
 page 22.
 p Ibid. pa. 49.

this gouernement, are to bee accounted maymed, and vnperfect. The establisshing<sup>l</sup> of the Presbyteries, is the full placing of Christ in his kingdome. They that<sup>m</sup> reiect this Discipline, refuse to haue Christ raigne ouer them: and deny<sup>n</sup> him in effect, to be their king or their<sup>o</sup> Lord. It is the blade<sup>p</sup> of a shaken sword, in the bande of the Cherubins, to keepe the way of the tree of life.

Ridiculous men and bewitched. As though Christs foueraignty, kingdome, and lordship were no where acknowledged, or to be found, but where halfe a dosen artizans, Shoemakers, Tinkers, and Tailors, with their Preacher and Reader, (eight or nine Cherubins forsooth) do rule the whole parish. But I haue noted vnto you, out of these few places, (omitting many other) this their wonderfull dotage, to this end: that it may be considered, whether it be likely, that our English Consistorians hauing ouerrunne the Scottish ministers, or at the least ouertaken them, in their opinions of the necessity of this Discipline, will be left behind them, in their practises according to the Geneua resolution, for the attayning of it, or no?

C H A P. I I I.

Our pretended English reformers doo imitate or rather exceede the Scottish Ministers in rebelling and rayling against all that doo encounter them.

When in Scotland they first had in minde to reforme religion, and after to erect their Discipline, (according to the Geneua resolution) they spent their wittes and all their deuises, by railing and slander, to bring the Bishoppes and the rest of the Clergy, with the whole course of their gouernements into detestation and hatred with the people. They write their

owne

owne pleasures of them, and to them: and that in the name of the people. They stirred the Nobility by their writings against them: they had their supplications to their Parliaments: and to the Queene Regent; they had their appellations from their Bishops, their exhortations to the Nobility, to the Estates and comminalty, and many such practises they had to that purpose, yea, after their Bishops and Clergy had receiued the Gospell.

Knox hist. pag.
234.
ibid. pag. 213,
214, 216.
ibid. pag. 256.
ibid. pag. 304.

But in this course, our reformers in England, haue not onely imitated them, but (as ready Schollers, and apt for such mischiefe) haue very farre exceeded both them, and as I thinke) all others, that hitherto haue dealt that way. They haue renued ouer againe, & applied to our Church gouernours, two or three of the most bitter Treatises, that euer were made against the Popes, Cardinals, Popish Bishops, Monkes and Friers, &c. in King Henry the eight his dayes. They haue foure or fiue very diuellish and infamous Dialogues: likewise their complaints and petitions to her Maiesty and Parliament, in the name of the comminalty, their appellation, their exhortation, and diuers other most lewd & scurrilous Epistles and Letters.

Sathan prince of hell, to the Pope, Cardinals, Bishops,
&c.
Praefise of Prelates.
1. Gilbies.
2 1 B.
3. Vdals.
4. That which came from Throgmos.

When they are called before any Magistrate, and dealt withall for their factious proceedings, they vsually afterward doo take vpon them to write and publish, vnder the name of a conference, what wordes and arguments haue passed: which they perforce with all reproch, disdain, vntruth, and vanity: and so do pester the Realme and their fauourers closers, with infinite such shamelesse and slaundersous discourses, as is most intollerable.

They haue had fiue or sixe supplications to seuerall Parliaments, penned altogether according to Knox his stile and violent spirit, in many places word for word: besides Martin; and his two sonnes, their holy imitations of Beza his Passauantius, (that all things might proceede Geneva like)

Martins Epi.
 His Epitome.
 Hay any wor.
 Martin Iuni.
 Martin Senior
 Martin Prote.

in their fixe bookes of Consistorian grauity. And now, vpon better care taken by her Maiefty, that no such libels shoud be hereafter printed in England, (at the least without some daunger to the patties, if it may bee knowne) they haue founde such fauour, as to procure their chiefe instrument and old seruant Waldgrasse, to be the King of Scots Printer, from whence their wants in that behalfe shall be fully supplied.

Refor, no enemic.

For hauing obtained that place, (as hee pretendeth in Print) they haue published by hundreths, certaine spitefull and malicious bookes against her Maiesties most honorable priuy Councell. Also their humble motion to their LL<sup>s</sup>. with three or foure other very slanderous Treatises. And now it seemeth, for feare that any of all their sayd Libels & rayling Pamphlets, (that haue bin written in her highnesse time) should perish, (being many of them but triobolar chartals:) they haue taken vpon them to make a Register: and to Print them altogether in Scotland, in two or three volumes: as it appeareth by a part of the sayde Register, all ready come from thence, and finished: which containeth in it three or foure and forty of the sayd Libels.

In all which courses taken, more then heathnish, this is their drift and especiall end, that hauing by their forged lies, their poysoned tongues, and their hypocriticall outcries, procured a generall mislike of her Maiesties reformation, the present gouernment of the Church, the chiefest defender thereof, the Lords that fauour it, the Archbishops and Bishops that haue authoritie in it, & the rest of the Clergy that doe submit themselues vnto it: they might come at the last to attaine their purpose, and by fishing in our troubled waters, (according to the Geneua resolution) set vp and establish their glorious scepter and kingdome.

Out of these bookes, because some might otherwise charge charge the premisses herein with slander of the godly brethren, I haue thought it very conuenient to lay downe before you, particularly, some most lewd and wicked speeches, in maner and order, as in tenné of the next Chapters following, is specified.

C H A P. I I I I.

The speeches of the said pretended reformers, concerning England: the state, the present reformation, and government of the Church.

England<sup>a</sup> with an impudent forehead, hath sayd: I will not come neare the holy one. And as for the building of his house, I will not so much as lift up a finger towards that worke, nay I will continue the desolations thereof. <sup>b</sup> England hateth them to this day, that faithfullie doe their office. Of <sup>c</sup> all the nations that haue renounced that whore of Rome, there is none in the worlde so farre ou<sup>r</sup> of square, as England, in retaining the Popish Hierarchy.

<sup>a</sup> Penries Epistle before the humble motion.

<sup>b</sup> Gilby, p. 77

<sup>c</sup> Epistle before the demonst. B. 3.

We in <sup>d</sup> England are so farre off, (from hauing a Church rightly reformed, that as yet we are scarce come to the outward face of the same. We <sup>e</sup> are neuer the better for her Maiesties reformation, seeing the walles of Syon lie euen with the ground (that is, seeing their discipline, is not established.)

<sup>d</sup> t. Adm. p. 4

<sup>e</sup> Supplica. to the Parliament, pag. 67

Your <sup>f</sup> reformation (as it standeth) will be little better, then that of the Samaritanes, who feared Iehouah: but worshipped their owne Gods. Men & belike doe thinke no more to be required at their handes, then the raising of Babel: the diuell as yet contenting himselfe with Bethel. Your <sup>h</sup> government is that, which giueth leaue to a man to be anie thing, (sauiug a sound Christian. Omnia cum liceant, non licet esse bonum.

<sup>f</sup> Supplica. 62

<sup>g</sup> Supplica. 63

<sup>h</sup> Preface to the demonst. A. 4.

i 1. Adm. pa. 2.
k Epist. before
the supplica.
l 1. Adm. p. 25

m Gilbyes
dial. 151.
n 1 Adm. p. 33.
o Suppl. to the Parlia, 56.
p Hay any, pa.
5, 6, 8, 12.
q Martins Epistle, 33.
r Hay any, pa.
13.

We lacke a right governement of the Church. In<sup>k</sup>stead of the ordinance of God in the government of his Church, the marchandize of shamelesse Babylon is maintayned. The<sup>l</sup> governement now used by Archbishops, Bishops, &c. is both Antichristian and diuvelish. Rome is<sup>m</sup> come home to our gates. Antichrist<sup>n</sup> raigneth among st vs. The<sup>o</sup> established governement of the Church, is traitorous against the maiestie of Iesus Christ: it confirmeth the Popes supremacie, it is accursed. It is P an vnlawfull, a false, a bastardy governement. In the state of the Church there is nothing & but sores and blisters, yea the grieife is euen deadly at the heart: They must needes be not onely traytors to God and his word, but also enemies vnto her Maiestie, and the land, that defend the established governement of the Church to be lawfull.

C H A P. V.

Some of their vndutifull and consistorian speeches concerning her Maiesty, &c.

He<sup>a</sup> Bishoppes haue long deceaued, and seduced her Maiestie and her people. Doo<sup>b</sup> you thinke our Church governement to bee good and lawfull, because her Maiesty and the state, who maintaine the reformed religion, alloweth the same? why? the Lord doth not allow it. In effect: that<sup>c</sup> her Maiesty and state, (in maintaining the established governement, and reiecting theirs) doo mayme and deforme the body of Christ, and so doo bid God to battell against them. Ministers<sup>d</sup> ought not to obey the Prince, when he prescribeth ceremonies, and a fashion of apparell. By<sup>e</sup> the same authority, that the Queene commandeth the apparell, now appointed to the Ministers, she may command any piece of Poperie, so she name it pollicie. Achaz, of pollicie, brought such an altar into Ierusalem, as he did see at Damascus, where he had ouercome the Idolaters and their Idols. But cursed

a Martins Epistle 10, 53.
b Hay any,
page 5.
c Ibid pag. 13 15, 23.

d Register, pa.
48.

e Gilbyes preface to his dialogue of the souldier of Barwicke.

+ Newman's Hebrew Monarchy was

was his policie, and so are all they that retaine any thing of their old Idolatrie, (he addeth for example, the candlestickes vpon the Queenes altar, kneeling at the communion, &c.)<sup>f</sup> Of necessitie, all Christian magistrates are bound to receiue this gouernement by Pastors, Doctōrs, Elders and Deacons, and to abolish all other Church gouernement. & Either her Maiestie knoweth not what they desire, being abused by the Bishops; or else shee is negligent of her dutie, and vnthankfull to God.

<sup>f</sup> Martin Iunior. Thef. 22

<sup>g</sup> Motion out of Scotland to the Lords. pag. 41.

Her<sup>h</sup> Maieitie, is cunninglic resembled, to Ieroboam, Ahab, Iehoram, Abaz, Gedeon, Nadab, Saule, Ichu, Asa, and Iehosaphat in those points, whereby they offended God, and shee is threatned by their examples, in that hauing begon so well, shee doth not proceede to set vp Christes gouernement throughly.

<sup>h</sup> Gilbic, 66. 68. 142. Motion. p. 31. 32. 33.

A question being asked (as the register reporteth) by the Bishop of London, Anno. 1567. v<sup>z</sup>. haue we not a godly Prince? speake: is shee euill? There are three answers made, by three seuerall men. The first: what a question is that? the fruites do shew. The second: No, But the seruants of God are persecuted vnder her. The thirde: Why? this question the Prophet answereth in the Psalmes: how can they haue vnderstanding that worke iniquitie, spoiling my people, and that extoll vanitie? To this obiection: that it is<sup>k</sup> Dotanisme to challenge such authoritie ouer Princes, (meaning the authority which the Eldership challengeth) answerè is made: v<sup>z</sup> It is flatterie to suffer Princes to do what they list.

<sup>i</sup> Regist. p 33.

Wil. Why. Tho. Rowlād Ro. Hawkins

<sup>k</sup> Demonst. of Discipline. pag 75.

To this<sup>l</sup> position: That princes should bee excepted from Ecclesiasticall Discipline, and namely from excommunication, they answerè thus. That excommunication should not be exercised against Princes; I vtterlie mislike: To affirme that, It is but a meere mockerie of the Lord, and to offer himselfe (meaning the now L. Archbishop of Canterbury) as a bawd to al manner of sinnes in Princes. To insinnate, that others being subiect

<sup>l</sup> T. C. 2 part of his 2 replie pag. 65.

ibid. pag. 92,

50. The II. Booke. English Scottizing, for discipline by rayling.
to this correction, onelie Princes should be exempted, (I feare,) commeth from a worse cause, then from simple error.

CHAP. VI.

Some of their rayling speeches against the high court of Parliament, and all others generally that do maintaine the present gouernment of the Church of England.

Or not admitting the platforme set downe in the first admonition, &c.
Anno. 14. of her Maiestie : and suffering the parties, that offered, it to be punished : Thus they write.
The<sup>m</sup> state sheweth it selfe not upright,
alledge the Parliament what it will : al l honest men shall finde lacke of equitie, all good consciences shall condemne that Court. It shalbe easier for Sodom and Gomorrha, in the day of iudgement, then for such a Court. There is no other thing to be looked for, then some speedie vengeance to light upon the whole land, prouide as well as the politicke Machiauels of England thinke they can though God do his worst.

Likewise of the Parliament, the 29. of her Maiestie (for their tollerating the Bishops, &c. in stead of their newe gouernment) it is said. That they shalbe in danger of<sup>n</sup> the terrible masse of Gods wrath, both in this life and in the life to come: and that if they did not then abrogate (the gouernment by Bishops,) well<sup>o</sup> they might hope for the fauor and intertainment of Moses (that is the curse of the law,) but the fauour and louing countenance of Iesus Christ, they should not see nor ever enjoy.

Againe of the same Parliament, it is likewise affirmed:
that (if the reformation desired, were not graunted,) they should

m 2. Admo.
nition pag, 3

n Supl. pa. 18,

o 3 sup pa. 25

should betray God, betray the truth, and betray the whole kingdome. They should declare themselves to be an assembly, wherein the Lordes cause could not be heard; an assembly, wherein the felicity of miserable men could not be respected; an assembly, that wittingly called for the iudgements of God upon the whole land; an assembly, wherein trueth, religion, and pietie could beare no sway: There shall be not be a man of their seede that shall prosper be a Parliament-man, or beare rule in England any more.

q<sup>i</sup>bid, pag, 57

r<sup>i</sup>bid, pag, 53

Furthermore, a prophesie is passed (but from that spirit, I trust that tocke vpon him to be, spiritus mendax in ore prophetarum) that if they preuailed not in the said Parliament according to their supplication: then the Nauie of the Spaniards should come againe, and fight against this land, and waste it with fire and sworde: that God shall send a terror into the hearts of our valiantest and stoutest men: that one enemy shall chase a thousand of vs: & that although we had smit the whole host, so as there remayned none but wounded men amongst them, yet shall euerie man rise vp in his tent, and ouerrunne this land.

1 Of the kings. 22.

s<sup>u</sup> Sup, pag, 75 76.

Lastly, this they write generally, of al that do withstād their delires: Those kingdomes and states who defend anie Church gouernement, saue this of Pastors, Doctōrs, Elders, and Deacons, are in danger of vtter destruction. None euer defended this Hierarchy of Bishops to be lawfull, but Papistes, and such as were infected with Popish errors. No man can open his mouth (against Presbiteries) but with a shamelesse face, and seared conscience. The enemies hereof after the manner of the wicked, mentioned in Iob, do say vnto the almighty, depart from vs: because we desire not the knowledge of thy wates: yea and in their practise they say, who is the almighty, that we should serue him?

t<sup>h</sup> Martin iunior
ci:
Thef. 28
u<sup>i</sup> ibid, Th. 46

x<sup>m</sup> Motion out of Scotland,
pag, 20
y<sup>e</sup> Epistle to the suppl, A, 3

This shall be the portion, of as many, as (to the end) oppose themselves against the cause of reformation now laboured for: the heauen shall declare his wickednesse, and the earth shall rise

a<sup>n</sup> Epist, to the
Sup. A. 43

§ 2 English Scottizing for Discipline by rayling. The II Booke.

up against him; the encrease of his house shall goe away: it shall flow away in the day of his wrath: his eyes shall see his destruction, and he shall drinke of the wrath of the Almighty. They<sup>b</sup> are no better to bee thought of, then enemies to the Gospell of Christ, to her Maiestie, and people: that seeke to keepe Christes holy Discipline from amongst vs. This<sup>c</sup> is that cause, against which neuer man yet strived and prospered. All the Newgates and Oldgates, yea and all the Tiburns in England, are too litle for such rash, and presumptuous beades, that will not giue God leaue to rule: but will take the scepter out of his handes. I do<sup>e</sup> feare that many of the forwardest enemies of reformation, are not the backwardest frendes, that the king of Spain hath in England at this day.

b Register out of Scotland.

c Epi before the supl. pa. 71

d Exhort to the BB. B. I, e Penryn in his Epi. from Scotl. before reformat. no enemic

CHAP. VII.

Some of their Disciplinarian speeches concerning the Lordes of her Maiesties most honorable priuie Councell.

f Epist. from Scotl. before reformat. no enemic. A. 3.

g Ibid, A. 3. & 4

Our<sup>f</sup> Councell may truelie be saide, to delight in the iniury & violent oppression of Gods saints & Ministers: therefore the Lord wil surely visite our Councel, with an heauie plague.

Our Councel cannot possibly deale truely in matters of iustice, betweene man and man; insomuch as they bend all their forces, to bereaue Iesus Christ of his gouernment. The which vngodly and wicked course as they haue held on, euer since the beginning of her Maiesties raigne: so at this day they haue taken great boldnesse, and growne more rebellious, against the Lord and his cause, then euer they were. In so much as their honors, in token of thankfulnessse to him that exalted them: dare now charge the cause of reformation, to be an enemie vnto our state and such as fauor the same, to be vnquiet and factious men, disturbers

The 11. Booke. English Scottizing for Discipline by rayling. 53
disturbers of the common peace and quietnes, and sowers of sedition among the subjects.

They do<sup>n</sup> notablē detect their impiety against God, and their<sup>h</sup> Ibid, A, 4
enmitie to the kingdome of his Sonne Christ: they offer iniury to her Maiestie. If her Maiesty giue eare to such Councillors, shee may haue cause one day to lament. Assuredly, those that are our enemies for the profession of the truth, (meaning the pretended Discipline) cannot bee her Maiesties sure frendes, whatsoe-uer they pretend.

Sathan<sup>i</sup> worketh the defacing of the way of truth: & supporteth<sup>i</sup> Ibid, A, 4 his owne kingdome, by instruments of no meane countenance.

Be they noble or<sup>k</sup> vnnoble, Councillors or inferior men: I am so farre from fearing their power, that the more I see them rage,<sup>k</sup> Ibid, B, 1 the greater strength I haue, to stand to the truth, which they raue against.

I do warne<sup>l</sup> and admonish those Councillors, with whome and against whome especially, I deale in this Treatise, to repent them<sup>l</sup> Ibid, B, 1 of their great insolencie, whereby they haue bene puffed vp with Senacharib, to magnifie and oppose themselves; against the cause and people of the Lord of Hosts: as against the Religion and people, of some of the Gods of the earth. Otherwise they are to feare least the Lord, hauing raised vp many of them, out of mean places into the throne of iustice, meaneth to shew his power and great name, by making them examples of his fearefull wrath; as he did Pharaoh, who wrought his owne ouerthrow. m, Ibid, B, 1

If men will wonder, that<sup>m</sup> we being so contemptible in the sight of the world, dare yet be so bold, as to controll great states and mightie men; and to chalenge them of iniustice, against the Sonne of God and his members, who will not sticke to brag with Pilate, that they haue power to crucifie Christ, & to absolve him;
they are to vnderstand, that wee know of no power, but from aboue: and therefore of no power, that is able to beare out iniu-stice and wrong. The hills of the Robbers wee grant to bee high, and unassayleable in the sight of an eye of flesh: but we haue learned of the holy man, to account the habitation of the wicked to be accursed, euen when hee seemeth to be best rooted: for we know that the steppes of his strength, shall bee restrayned, and that his Connsaile shall cast him downe.

CHAP. VIII.

Some of their rayling speeches against the Magistracy in England, the Iudges, Lawyers, and lawes both ciuill and ecclesiasticall.

n Epist. from Scotl. before
reformat. no
ennemic. A. 3.

He<sup>n</sup> Magistracy and ministry haue walked hand in hand, in the contempt of true Religion: and unto both, the worde of the Lorde is made a reproch.

o Ibid. A. 3.

Amongst<sup>o</sup> those who deale in the cause of iustice, there are found wicked persons: euen wicked lawyers and iudges, (who seeme to know of no other God, but their owne gaine, (that lay waite for the blood of Gods saints, as hee that setteth snares; and marke whether they can heare of any, that go further in the cause of God, then the corruption of our state doth permit. And if they finde any such, they know how to wrest against them, a clause of some statute, contrary not onely to the meaning thereof, but euen contrary vnto all iustice and equity, yea common reason it selfe, and the verie groundes of all good lawes and statutes. So that it is now growen, and hath bene of a long time, a common practise of these Godlesse men, to make of the statutes, ordained for the maintenance of Religion and common quietnesse, a pit, wherein to catch the peaceable of the land.

p Ibid. A. 3

The common P inditements of the Lords true and faithfull Ministers, for matters of trifles, as the omission of the surplisse, churching of women, crosse in Baptisme, &c. doth manifestly witnesse the iniquitie of these Athcists.

The

The 11. Booke English Scottizing, for discipline by rayling. 55.

The <sup>q</sup> lawes, that maintaine the Archbishops and Bishops are no more to bee accounted of, then the lawes maintaining the Stewes. q Maitin Iunior. Thef. 34: ribid. Thef. 38.

The <sup>s</sup> humane lawes, that maintaine them, are wicked and vngodly.

The lawes <sup>s</sup> are made their common sanctuarie, to defend all our wickednesse. s Fennera= gainst Bridgges. p. 5. t Sup. pa. 59

Impiety is <sup>t</sup> suffered to beare sway against the maiestie of God: and that by law and authority.

Such lawes <sup>v</sup> are retaind in force, as iustle and ouerthrow the royall prerogatiue of the sonne of God. v Sup. pa. 24,

As <sup>x</sup> great indignity is offered vnto Iesus Christ, in committing his Church vnto the gouernement of the common law, as can be, by meane byrelings vnto a king: in committing his beloned spouse vnto the direction of the mistresse of the Stewes, and enforcing her to liue after the lawes of a brothel-house. x Epistle be fore the de monst. B. 4

CHAP. IX.

Some of their consistoriall sayings, as touching our Religion, Communion booke, Sacraments and Ceremonies.

<sup>E</sup> <sup>a</sup> strue for true religion. As <sup>b</sup> our lackes are, there can be no right religion. <sup>c</sup> Many religions are mixed together, of Christ and Antichrist, of God and the deuill. <sup>d</sup> Christes Religion is fondly patched with the Popes; ioyning fire and water, heauen and hel together. a 1. Adm. 32, b ibid, pag, 2. c Gilby, p. 29. d. ibid, pag 20

The <sup>e</sup> truth (in a manner) doth but peepe out from behinde the screene. e, 2, Adm, p 6

Their <sup>f</sup> prescript forme of seruice, is full of corruption. In <sup>fi</sup> all the order of their seruice, there is no edification, but confusion. The <sup>g</sup> Communion booke is an vnperfect booke, culled and picked out of that popish dunghill, the portuise and masse-booke: fi. Adm, p. 17 g ibid, pag, 24 h ibid, pag, 16
and.

56 English Scottizing, for Discipline by rayling. The II. Booke.

and many of the contents therein be such, as are against the word of God. And<sup>i</sup> Martin senior calleth it our sterue-vs Booke.

The<sup>k</sup> Sacraments are wickedlie mangled and prophaned.

They<sup>l</sup> eat not the Lords supper but play a pageant of their own, to blinde the people: and keepe them still in superstition: to make the seely soules beleue that they haue an English masse: and so put no difference betwixt trueth and falsehoode, betwixt Christ and Antichrist, betwixt God and the dewill.<sup>m</sup> The publike baptisme is full of childish and superstitious toyes.

And of our orders, garments, and ceremonies. They are<sup>n</sup> carnall, beggerly: Antichristian pompes, rites, lawes, and traditions: popish fooleries, Romish reliques, & rags of Antichrist dregs and remnants of transformed Poperie: Pharisaiicall outward faces and vizardes: remnants of Romish Antichrist: of superstition, and Idolatrie: Knowne lieries of Antichrist: accurscd leauen of the blasphemous Popish Priesthoode: cursed patches of Poperie and Idolatrie, they are worse then Lowsie: for they are sibbe to the sarke of Hercules, that made him teare his owne bowels a sunder.

CHAP. X.

How they charge the present gouernment with persecution.

o 2. Admon.

pag. 59

p, ibid.

Here<sup>o</sup> is a persecution of poore Christians, & the professors of the Gospell, suffred, not far vnlike to the six articles. Gods<sup>p</sup> cause is troden vnder foote, and the benefite of his Church is little regarded.

q 1 Adm. p. 2

r Praefise of Prelates. D. 8

q Poore men haue been miserably handled, with reuilings, deprivations, imprisonments, bannishments, and such like extremities. Godly<sup>r</sup> Ministers haue beene brought before the barres of iustice: they haue beene arraigned amongst fellows and theeues: they haue been imprisoned to the vitermost and defaced: they are reproched

The 2 Booke. English Scottizing, for discipline by rayling. 57
reproched, shaken up, threatened; many are deprived: they are examined by an inquisition, much like that of Spaine. O lament-table case, O heynous impietic.

<sup>s</sup> Shall they be thus marked with the blacke cole of reproach & sibid B. 2
villanie? O inhumaine and more then barbarous impietic.

Besides <sup>t</sup> whorish impudencie, halter, axe, bandes, scourging, tMart protest. 13.
and racking, our Bishops haue nothing to defend themselues with-all.

The <sup>u</sup> Clink, Gatehouse, White-Lion, and the Fleete, are their u Vdal. dialogue. F, 1
onelic arguments.

If <sup>a</sup> I say, Ieremie, Ezechiel, Osee, Micheas, and Zacharie, were a Exhorta, to B B. A. 1
aliue: they would be carried to the Marshall-sea; the White-Lyon, the Kings-bench, the Gate-house, and other Prisons, yea to Newgate-

In <sup>b</sup> effect, as Caine persecuted Abell: Esau, Iacob: the Pa- b 2, Admon.
pag. 1. & 2.
triarques, their brother Ioseph, the Iewes, Moses; the Priests Ieremie, Osea, Amazia and Christ: euen so in these dayes, the Preachers are slandred and persecuted by such, as would seeme pillars of true religion. If this persecution <sup>c</sup> be not provided for, it is the c pag. 59.
case of many a thousand in England, greate troubles will come of it.

The <sup>d</sup> land is sore troubled: there is no place nor being, for a d Dialog that came from Throg, D. 2
faithfull Minister of the word. Our bloud crieth for vengeance against the Bishops.

If am made like to our Sauour Christ who hath troden this e Martin, protest. pag. 5
f Snape to his father, 1590.
path, in that (as he sayth) hee is troubled not for euill, but for good, It fares & with vs as with prisoners in Poperie: God sende vs their comfort, Ministers <sup>h</sup> are in worse sort suppressed now, then they were by the Papists in Queene Maries time. This g Wight before he was imprisoned
to a friend,
h Lord in his papers,
i Fen of Lords
imprisonmēt.
crosse <sup>i</sup> is common, not onelic with him, but with all that will liue godly in Christ. The cause is holy: and his sufferinges acceptable.
I <sup>k</sup> perceiue the Lyon roareth, but cannot bite, further then the Lord shall permit.

CHAP. XI.

Some of their Consistorian speeches of the Clergie of England, assembled, as occasion hath required, in the Conuocation house.

l. Sup. pa. 47.

pag. 48.

pag. 49.

pag. 53

They<sup>1</sup> are wolues. It is a Synagogue. Their onely endeuour is, how to preuent Christ, from bearing rule in the Church, by his own lawes. They are knowne to bee enemies vnto all sinceritie. The whole conuocation house, are (in iudgement) contrarie to our Sauour Christ, they are intollerable oppugners of Gods glory: and vtter enemies vnto the liberties of his Church. As long as that house standeth, (as at this day it doth) there can be no hope at al, that either Gods heauenlie truetb, should haue free passage, or the Church her libertie, in this kingdom. They haue seduced and deceived the civil state, & people, in bearing them in hand, that al is wel in the Church.

pag. 55.

m. Mart, Epist

They are termed, (by one of the<sup>m</sup> Captaines of this crue) right puissant, poisoned, persecuting, and terrible Priests: Clergie maisters of the confocation house: the holie league of subscription: the crue of monstrous and ungodlie wretches: that mingle heauen and earth together: horned maisters of the conspiracy house: an Antichristian swinish rabble: enemies of the Gospell: most couetous, wretched and Popish Priests, the Conuocation house of Diuels Belzabub<sup>n</sup> of Canterbury, the chiefe of the Diuels.

a Dialogue that came from Throgmort. D. 4

CHAP. XII.

Some of the r presbiterial speeches of the Bishops of England professing the Gospell.

e Hay any. P. 35. 34, &c.

He<sup>o</sup> Bishops are the greatest and most pestilent enemies that now our state hath, & are like to be the ruine of her

Maiestie

Maiestie, and the whole state: Archbishops and Bishops are un-lawfull, unnaturall, false, and bastardlie governours of the Church, and the ordinances of the Diuel: pettie Popes: pettie Antichristes: like incarnat Diuels: they are Bishops of the Di-uell: Bishops are cogging and coofening knaues. They will lie like dogs. Our 9 Bishops are proud, popish, presumptuous, prophane, paltrie, pestilent, pernicious prelates, & vsurpers: Impudent, shamelesse, and waynescot faced Bishops, like beastes. They are in a premunire. They ought not to bee maintayned, by the authority of the ciuill Magistrate, in any common wealth.
They are, in respect of their places, enemies of God. The worst Puritane is an honestier man, then the best Lord Bishop in Christendome.

Their crueltye is without measure. They are butchers and horseleeches: it is the portion of their inheritance. Their bloud-thirstie attempts. These dragons. Their tirannie and bloudthir-stie proceedings are inexcusable. In effect, that they conspire to pull the Crowne from her Maiesties head.

Bishops callings are meere Antichristian. The Bishops are robbers, Wolues, simoniacks, persecutors, sowers of sedition and discon:entednes betweene her Maiesties subiectes. They haue incurred the statute of premunire: they are (ipso facto) deprivable.
Though they bee in the Church; yet are they none of the Church. The true Church of God ought to haue no more to doe with them, and the Synagogue, (namely their Antichristian Courts) them with the Synagogue of Sathan. Be<sup>a</sup> packing Bishops:
you striue in vaine, you are laid open already. Friers and Monkes were not so bad.

Of all the Bishops that euer were in the See of the Archbishop of Canterburie, there was neuer any did so much hurt to the Church of God as hee hath done. No Bishop that euer had such an aspiring and ambitious minde as hee, no not Cardinall Wolsey. None so proud as he: No not Stephen Gardiner of Winche-

pag. 20.

pag. 21

Idid, 28
p Martins Epist. 37.
q Epist, pag. 6

pag. 33.

pag. 21
pag. 4
r Vdals dialogue. c. I s Martins protest. 27.
t Martins.
protest, pag. 4.

pag. 8.
pag. 12
pag. 21
pag. 21

u Vdals dialogue. D. 2
x Martin sen-
B. 4. c. I

a Epist to the epitom.

b The Dialog that came from Throgmort, D. 3

c Ibid, C.4.

ster. None so tyrannicall as he: no not Bonner. He sits upon his cogging stoole, which may truelie be called, the chaire of pestilence. His mouth is full of cursing against God and his Saintes. His feete are swift to shed blood: there is none of Gods children, but had as leeu see a Serpent, as meete him. It griueth them to see so wicked an ennemie of God and his Church. Belsebub<sup>d</sup> of Canterbury. The Canterburie Caiphaz. Esau a monstrous Antichristian Pope: a most bloudie oppressor of Gods Saintes: a very Antichristian beast: a most vile and cursed tyrant. In respect of his Antichristian prelatie ouer Gods Church, and for the notable hatred, which he hath euer bewrayed towards the Lord and his truth, I thinke him one of the dishonorablest creatures under heauen.

Mart, Gen. C. 1

d Mart, Gen.

e Epistle out of Scotl, before reforma. no ennemic.

f Practise of Prelate s. C. 6.

g Supp. 37.

And againe of the Bishops, but especially of the Lord Archbishop. In<sup>f</sup> his behauiour, wrath, anger, reproch, and disdain (as in a wood, so manie Lions, Beares, Tigers, and cruell beastes) were seene to range, and in this more sauage, that whereas they by time and vsage may be tamed and appeased, this man neuer. It would be knowen, whether they haue some secret meaning, if oportunitie would serue to aspire vnto the Crowne.

CHAP. XIII.

some of their vncharitable wordes against all the Clergie in England, generally that mislike their designements.

h I, Adm, p. 2

i Ibid, pag. 4. & Mar. Iu, C, 2

h lacke in England a right ministry of God. The Ministers are neither prooued, elected, called, nor ordeyned according to Gods word. I. B. is to be<sup>k</sup> inuested into the place of a naturall foote, after a solemne manner, according to the booke of ordaining Bishops and Priests.

The

The 2. Booke, English Scottizing, for Discipline by rayling. 61

The<sup>1</sup> Clergie is indicted, as the followers of Antichrist, and that their Ministerie is from the Pope. Little<sup>m</sup> or nothing is required of our English Priests; but to say the Catechisme, and to weare a cap, coap, and tippet: Antichrists rags shall make him a Priest, be he neuer such a dolt or a villaine.

The<sup>n</sup> most part of our Ministers, are either Popish Priestes, or Monkes, or Fryers, or ale-house haunTERS, or boyes and lads, ironkardes and dolts: that wil weare a fooles hood, for liuing sake: They are Hogges, Dogges, Wolues, Foxes, Simoniakes, Vsurers: procters of Antichrists inuentions: Popish chapmen, halting Newtrals. They seeke nothing, but like greedy dogges, how<sup>l</sup> to fill their paunches.

Our supposed Ministers are a multitude of desperate and forelorne Atheists, a cursed, uncircumcised, and murthering generation, you shall finde amongst this crue nothing else, but a troope of bloody soule-murtherers, and sacrilegious Church robbers. Bene quod malitia non habet tantas vires, quantos conatus.

Exhort. to BBs, B. 2. m Gilby. p 50
Ibid. pag. 3.

n, Gil, p. 117.

pag. 53.
pag. 32,
pag. 89,
pag. 112,

Epist. from Scotl. before
reformat. no
ennemic. A. 3.
Hier. lib. 2.
con Rufin.

CHAP. XIII.

Their especiall drift in their saide railing speeches, as outrageously published, as if they were meere Iesuites, and peraduenture to as dangerous a purpose.

BY the former so wicked and flaunderous speeches, contayned in the tē last Chapters, you see how the brotherhood endeuoreth with the multitude, (as I saide) not onely the disgrace of our Church and Clergie men, but likewise how bold they are with her most excellent Maiesty: the high Court of Parliament, the Lords of her priuy Councel: the Iudges lawyers, lawes, and all thinges besides, that do giue any impediment vnto their deuises and complots.

Hardin, Dorman, Stapleton, Sanders, Allen, Gregorie Martin, and diuers other fugitiues and Traytors, to make a more easie way, for the bringing in againe of popery: haue taken the like course in her Highnesse time: meaning principally, by such vile flanders, to withdraw her Highnesse subiects, from their dutifull approbation of the present estate and reformation of Religion.

Goodman, Wittingham, Gilby, the author of the booke of obedience, with the rest of the Geneua complices in Queene Maries dayes, practised the very same pollicie: when (as you haue heard) according to the Allobrogicall resolution, they vrged all states, by degrees, rather to take armes, and to reforme Religion themselues by force, then to suffer such Idolatrie and superstition to remaine in the land.

But in these more political then Christian practises, as I said, that our English Disciplinarians of these dayes, haue farre exceeded the Scottish Ministers: so may it bee truely affirmed of them, that al the popish Traitors, that hitherto haue written, and all the said Geneuians that then liued, for malicious and spitefull tauntes, for rayling and bitter tearmes, for disdaineful and contemptuous speeches, did not come neere them.

Besides, it is especially to be obserued, that in their own opinions, they haue by these vngodly meanes so preuayled with the multitude, as that now they begin to vaunt and bragge of their good successe, already therein attained. One of them sendeth vs word from Scotland, that such as haue withstood their pretended Church government, are made already in England to bee despised and vile before all the people: that a poore simple Minister of theirs &c. is heard with more reuerence, and resorted vnto with more diligence.

The 2. Booke. English Scottizing, for discipline by rayling. 63
gence, then one of ours; though he haue the great bell rung, and men to helpe him vp into the pulpit: that this was wrought by a contemptible, and very base and straunge meanes, (meaning Martin and his sonnes libels, &c.) not once dreamed off by a thousand of Gods saintes: and that when their creastes, (meaning the Bishops) were set up, and they began to say all is ours; then their presumption was dashed, daunted, and taken downe.

They might as well haue signified vnto vs, in what tearmes and reputation, her Maiestie, her Parliaments, her Lords, her Iudges, and her lawes, do stand and hold with the people. In dealing as they haue done, by their particular supplications and motions vnto her Highnes, and vnto their LL<sup>s</sup>. their intents to that purpose, when the time shall serue (if in the meane while they be not preuented) are notablie disclosed. For otherwise, it might haue sufficed them, to haue deliuered their discontentments, in pri-uate manner, by writing, both to her Maiestie, their LL<sup>s</sup>.
and other in authority: thereby to haue discharged their consciencs without their publishing of them in Printe to the world, except their purpose had likewise beene, by that lewd meanes, to haue brought them all into contépt, as well as the Bishops. What priuate man, if his friend should write a letter vnto him, and lay open in the same, (eyther truely or falsely) many great crimes to his charge:
& afterward should by Printing or any other waies publish it: could otherwise account of his dealing therein, but that he meant to make him thereby odious to the world, or at the least to be of no great account, or estimation.

Queene Marie was of nature & disposition, very mild and pitifull; and yet, because shee suffered such crueltie & superstition to be practised & maintained in her days, you haue

—, disposition very mild,
"To make a wash she had, strew a child" Pope

haue heard by the consistorian propositions (before mentioned) what was resolued by Goodman, Whittingham, Gilby, & the rest of the Geneuians against her, concerning her deposition, &c. Which is a matter that would be wel considered-of, and in time prouided-for accordingly: considering that these our home-bred Sicophantes, men of the Geneua mould, as proud and presumptuous as any that euer liued, do charge the present state, vnder her Maiestie, (as before it is noted) with such great impietie, corruption, idolatrie, superstition, and barbarous persecution: Which may touch her highnesse, as neerely (by their doctrine) for maintayning the present state, as Queene Marie was, for defending of Poperie.

Well the conclusion of this Booke is this, v.z: that seeing our English consistorians do labour more vehemently, or at the least as egerly, per fas & nefas, by flander, reproch, and malicious practises, to discredit all those, that withstand them, in their desires, for the Geneua-like discipline: as any other Scottish Ministers, Papistes, or old Geneuians, haue laboured to discredit those, that maintavned al kind of Poperie, Idolatry, and superstition, it is to be feared, least they proceede in the Geneua Resolution, as their fellowes (whō they do imitate in Scotland, or rather whom they do excell) haue done before them.

The end of the second Booke.

THE THIRD BOOKE OF DISCIPLINARY GROVNDES
and Practises.

CHAP I.

The practises of certaine English Reformers for Discipline, from the yeare, 1560. vntill the yeare, 1572.

AS in Scotland, when they could not obtaine their desires, for the full establishing of their booke of Discipline, by lawfull authority; they procured such priuate subscription therunto, as they were able, and so fell themselues to the practise of it (as it hath beene said in the sixt chapter of the first Booke: euen so haue our men in England, of the same consort and faction, proceeded in effect, vpon the like occasion, for their new platforme: but yet in a different manner.

For the first ten or eleuen yeares of her Maiesties reign, through the peeuish frowardnes, the outcries and exclamations of those that came home from Geneua, against the garments prescribed to Ministers, and other such like matters: no man (of any experience) is ignorant, what great contention and strife was raysed: insomuch as their sectaries deuided themselues from their ordinary congregations, and meeting together in priuate houes, in woods, & fieldes, had and kept there, their disorderly and vnlawfull conuenticles.

These kinds of assemblies (notwithstanding the inconuenience and absurdnes of them in a Church reformed,) M. Cartwright (within a while after) tooke vpon him (in sort) to defend, saying: that the name of conuenticles, was too light and contemptuous for them.

T.C. 2. reply.
page 38.

About the twelfth year of her highnesse said gouernment, these malecontents, growing weary of the foresaide dissentions, and being of restlesse dispositions, began to stir vp new quarrels, concerning the Geneua Discipline: being the matter indeede which they still aymed at, in all their former proceedings. Herevpon, (the 14. of her Maiesty) two admonitions were framed, and exhibited to the high Court of Parliament. The first contayned their pretended griefes, with a declaration (forsooth) of the onely way to reforme them: vz. by admitting of that platforme, which was there described.

This admonition, finding small entertainement, (the authors or chief preferers thereof being imprisoned) out commeth the second admonition, towards the end of the same Parliament: with great lightning and thunder, as though heauen and earth shoulde haue met together, because of the little regard which was had before, to the former admonition. In this second admonition, the first is wholly iustified: the Parliament (as it hath bene shewed) is mightily challenged: great wordes are vsed, and in plaine tearmes, it is there affirmed: That if they of that assembly would not then followe the aduise of the first admonition, they would surely themselues be their owne caruers. The Church (say they) may and must keepe God his orders: and surely this is only God his order, (vz. the sayd platforme) & ought

2. Admoniti-
on. pa. 60. 61.

The 3. Booke. English Scottizing, for Discipline by Practise. 43 to be used in his Church, so that in conscience wee are forced to speake for it, and to use it.

Whereupon, presently after the sayd Parliament, (vz. the twentieth of Nouember, 1572.) there was a Presbytery erected at Wandsworth in Surrey (as it appeareth by a bill endorsed with Master Fields hande, thus: the order of Wandsworth.) In which order the Elders names, eleuen of them, are set downe: the manner of their election is declared: the approuers of them, (one Smith of Micham, and Crane of Roughampton) are mentioned: their offices and certaine generall rules; (then giuen vnto them to be obserued) were likewise agreed vpon, and described.

C H A P. I I.

The secrete meetinges for Discipline, and the matters handled in them here in England from 1572 till 1583.

Howe they grew to be so farre gone at Wandsworth, that I find not: they of London, at that time, were nothing so forward. And yet, as it appeareth by the lawfull deposition and othe of one, (then of that faction, but now a very honest man, a Batcheller of Diuinity, and an auncient Preacher) they had then their meetings of Ministers, tearmed brethren, in priuate houses in London: as namely of Field, Wilcox, Standen, Iackson, Bonham, Seinctloe, Crane, and Edmondes, which meetinges were called conferences, according to the plot in the first and second admonitions mentioned.

Tho. Ed. both before the Comiffs, and in the Starre Chamber.

In these London-meetinges, at the first, little was debated, but against subscription; the attyre, and booke of common prayer. Marry after (saith he) that Charke, Trauers, Barber, Gardiner, Cheston,

44 English Scottizing for Discipline by Practise. The 3. Booke.
Cheston, and lastly Crooke and Egerton, ioyned themselues into that brotherhood, then the handling of the Discipline began to be rise: then many motions were made, and conclusions were set downe. As for example.

That forasmuch, as diners bookes had beene written, and sundry petitions exhibited to her Maiesty, the Parliament, their LL<sup>s</sup>, and yet to little purpose: therefore euery man, should labour, by all the meanes he could, to bring into the Charch, the said reformation themselues.

That the present gouernement of the Church, by Archbishops & Bishops, was Antichristian: & that the only Discipline & gouernment of Christ, (as they termed it,) v<sup>z</sup>. by Pastors, Doctors, Elders, and Deacons, should be established in place of the other.

That for the better bringing in of the said forme of Discipline, they should not onely, (as well publikely as priuately) teach it, but by little and little, as much as possibly they might, draw the same into practise, though they concealed the names, either of Presbytery, Elder, or Deacon, making little account of the name for the time, so that their offices might be secretly established.

There was an assembly of three-score Ministers, appointed out of Essex, Cambridge-shiere, and Norfolke, to meete the eighth of May, 1582. at Cockefield, (Maister Knewstubs towne) there to conferre of the common booke, what might be tollerated, & what necessarily to be refused in euery point of it: apparel, matter forme, dayes, fastings, intunctions, &c.

Of this meeting it is thus reported. Our meeting was appointed to be kept very secretely, and to be made knowne to none, &c. That this assembly was also kept accordingly, it appeareth by these words. Concerning the meeting, I hope all things were so proceeded in, as your self would like of: as well for reuerence to other brethren, as for other matters. I suppose before this time, some of the company, haue told you by word: for that was permitted vnto you.

Pig. to Field.
16. of May,
1582.

Ano.

Another meeting was also appointed to be helde, that yeare, at the Commencement in Cambridge, as is plaine by these wordes. Concerning the Commencement, I like well your motion: desiring it might so come to passe: and that it be procured, to be as generall as might be: which may easily be brought to passe, if you at London, shall so thinke well of it, and we here may understand your minde: we will (I trust) as we can, further it. M. Allen liketh well of the matter.

Fig. to Field.
ibid.

CHAP. III.

A forme or booke of Discipline is drawen, and a resolution is agreed upon, how far they might proceede for the practise of it, without breaking the peace of our Church.

Wilest the brethren in the Countrey, were comming thus fast on forward (as you haue heard in the ende of the former Chapter: ) you must not thinke that the Rabbies in London were in the meane time idle. Hitherto it should seeme, that in all their former proceedings, they had relied chiefly, vpon the first admonition and Cartwrights booke: as hauing had no particular and seuerall platforme, that was generally allowed of amongst them, for the Church of England. But now at the length, (about the yeare, 1583.) the forme of Discipline (which is lately come to light) was compiled: and thereupon an assembly or Councell being helde (as I thinke at London, or at Cambridge) certaine decrees were made, concerning the establishing and the practise thereof. In which decrees, mention is made of a collection; concluded vpon for the Scottish Ministers, fugitiues here in England, 1583. (which sheweth the time when they were made: ) & order is likewise taken for the putting in vse of the Synodicall Discipline; which also proo-ueth the age of that booke.

The decrees themselues are extant to bee seene, vnder Maister Wights hande; a man of that brotherhood. But it may not be omitted, that you must thinke; how the godly brethren in all these and such other their zealous courses, had neuer any meaning to disturbe the present state established. And thereupon (forsooth) in this conspiracy or councell mentioned, (like good and quiet spirited men)
they had an especiall care, that the peace of the Church might not be broken, by any order or decree of theirs. So as then the question amongst them was, (seeing the Discipline must needs vp) how farre they might proceede in the establishing and practise of it, keeping notwithstanding the peace of the Church, established already by her Ma-iesty. And it was ouerruled accordingly, as it followeth in the decrees themselues, faithfully translated, worde for word, out of their owne Latin copy.

The title thereof, vz.

These be the things, that (doo seeme) may well stande with the peace of the Church.

The Decrees.

Let no man (though he be an Vniuersity man) offer himself to the Ministry, nor let any man take vpon him an uncertaine and vague Ministry, though it be offered vnto him. But such as bee called to the Ministry by some certaine Church, let them impart it vnto that Classis or conference, (wherof themselues are,) or else vnto some greater Church assembly: and if such shall be found fit by them, then let them bee commended, by their letters vnto the Bishop, that they may bee ordained Ministers by him.

Those ceremonies in the Booke of common prayer, which being taken from Popery, are in controuersie, doo seeme, that they ought

ought to bee omitted and giuen ouer, if it may bee done without danger, of being put from the Ministry. But if there be any imminent danger to be deprivued, then this matter must bee communicated with the Classis, in which that Church is: that by the iudgement thereof, it may be determined, what ought to be done.

If subscription to the articles of Religion, and to the booke of common Prayer, shall be againe urged: it is thought, that the booke of articles, may be subscribed vnto, according to the statute 13. Eliz. that is, vnto such of them onely, as containe the summe of Christian faith, and doctrine of the Sacraments. But for many waighthy causes, neither the rest of the articles in that booke, nor the booke of common prayer, may be allowed: no, though a man should be deprivued of his Ministry for it.

It seemeth, that Churchwardens and Collectors for the poore, might thus be turned into Elders and into Deacons.

When they are to be chosen, let the Church haue warning fifteene dayes before, of the time of election, and of the ordinance of the Realme: but especially of Christs ordinance, touching appointing of watchmen and ouerseers in his Church: who are to foresee, that none offence or scandall doo arise in the Church: and if any shall happen, that by them it may be duely abolished.

And touching Deacons of both sorts (viz. men and women) the Church shall be monished, what is required by the Apostle: and that they are not to choose men, of custome and of course, or for their riches, but for their faith, zeale, and integrity: and that the Church is to pray, (in the meane time) to be so directed, that they make choise, of men that be meete.

Let the names of such as are so chosen, be published, the next Lords day: and after that, their ducties to the Church, and the Churches towards them, shall be declared: then let them be receiued vnto the Ministry, to which they are chosen, with the generall prayers of the whole Church.

The Brethren are to be requested, to ordaine a distribution of all

48 English Scottizing for Discipline by Practise. The 3. Booke.
all Churches, according to these rules, (in that behalfe) that are set downe in the Sinodical Discipline, touching Clafficall, Prouinciall, Comitiall or of Commencements, and assemblyes for the whole kingdome.

The Classes are to be required, to keepe acts of memorable matters: which they shall see deliuered to the Comitiall assembly that frō thence they may be broght by the prouinciall assembly.

Also, they are to deale earnestly with patrones, to present fit men: whensoever any Church is fallen voide in that Claffis.

The Comitiall assemblies are to bee manished, to make collections for reliefe of the poore and of schollers: but especially for reliefe of such Ministers here, as are put out, for not subscribing to the Articles, tendred by the Bishoppes: also for reliefe of Scottish Ministers and others, and for other profitable and necessary uses.

All the prouinciall Synodes, must continually, afore hand, foresee in due time, to appoint the keeping of their next prouinciall Synodes: and for the sending of chosen persons, with certaine instructions, vnto the Nationall Synode to be holden:
whensoever the Parliament for the kingdome shall be called, and at some certaine set time euere yeare.

Hitherto the Decrees of this graue Councell, whereby it seemeth to me, that when they resolued, they might pro-ceede thus farre, and keepe (notwithstanding) the peace of the Church of England established: they opposed (in that resolution) the worde peace, to warre: as though they should haue agreed, how far they might runne on in this race, without vrging of their followers, to force & armes.
For otherwise, how could any sober men, so much as once haue imagined, that they might, in this sort, ouerthrow (in effect) the present gouernement, and establish their owne deuises, and yet neuer breake the peace of the Church?
But I will not presse this point. It is more agreeable to my purpose to pursue the chase.

C H A P. I I I I.

About the yeare, 1583. they fell againe to the practise of their Discipline, and of a Consistorian question.

DO make good lawes, and not see them executed, is but labour lost. And therefore it should seeme, that these wise Law-makers, were presently after, as carefull to put the sayde orders in practise, as they were before to resolute vpon them: as it may appeare by a letter, written to Master Field from Antwerpe, the 25. of Iune, 1583. by one Cholmeley, in answer of a former Letter, sent vnto him from the said Field. For thus Cholmeley writeth: Letor intus & in corde, de meliori successu rerum vestrarum, quod cum de conuentibus vestris audiam, tum de Discipline Ecclesiasticae formali multo lubentissimè. Dicam quod verum est, serò nimis inceptistis: quisquis iam tandem vel incipere recusauerit, vel a tam preclaro incepto desistat, peccatum suum feret: penitendum est de priori lentitudine. I am glad with all my heart, for the better successe of your affaires, not onely in that I heare of your assemblies, but most willingly of all, in respect of your effectuall practising of the Ecclesiasticall Discipline. I will tell you that which is true, you haue begun this course too too late. Whosoever shall now, either refuse to begin, or shall desist from so notable an enterprize, he shall beare his owne sin. You ought to repent you for your former slownes. And afterward, thus out of the same Letter, to incourage Maister Field and the brethren. In nulla re terre amini ab ijs qui se opponunt, quod illis quidem est exitij indicium, vobis autem salutis, idque a Deo. In nothing feare your aduersaries, which is to them a token of perdition, but to you of saluation, and that from God.

Philip. 1.

In Iuly the next yeare, vz. 1584. some of the Scottish Ministers Gelibrand to Field.

74 English Scottizing, for Discipline by Practise. The 3. Booke.
nisters afore spoken of, went to the Act in Oxford: where Maister Gelibrand with his brethren, gaue them great entertainment. At that time, there was a notable question propounded amongst their fauourers there, by the sayde Ministers, as is manifest by these wordes. Here haue becne a good company of godly brethren this Act. Maister Fen, Wilcox, Axton: the Scottish ministers, and wee haue had some meeting and conference, to our great comfort that are here. One point (which then was moued) I would wish to be thoroughly debated among you and them, concerning the proceeding of the Minister in his duty, without the assistance or tarrying for the Magistrate, &c.

What was resolued amongst the brethren of London, about this matter at that time, I know not. Marry this I finde, that presently thereupon, they grewe more violent, and prepared themselues to proceede more resolutely, in the challenging of their Discipline, as it is plaine by the dealing both of them, and of their fauourers, that yeare in November and December after, at the Parliament, 27. of her Maiesty.

And besides, let the sayd Maister Gelibrands words, in a Letter to Field, dated the 12. of January after, vz. 1584. bee considered. For (as it seemeth to me) they either tend to sedition, or to the admitting, in Oxford, of the foresayd Decrees or Discipline. Sure I am, that they can hardly (for ought I see) receiue any good construction. Thus he writeth

I haue already entred into the matters, whereof you write, and dealt with three or foure of. (seuerall Colleges, concerning those among whom they liue. I finde, that men are very dangerous in this point, generally fauoring reformation: but when it commeth to the particular point, some haue not yet considered of these things, for which others in the Church are so much troubled: others

The 3. Booke. English Scottizing, for Discipline by Practise. 75
thers are afraid to testifie any thing with their hands, least it breed danger before the time. And after: many fauour the cause of reforma
mation, but they are not Ministers, but young students, of whome
there is good hope, if it be not cut off by violent dealing before the time. As I heare by you, so I meane to goe forward, where there is any hope, and to learne the number, and to certifie you thercof.

Furthermore, at the time of the Parliament last mentioned, I finde, that there was a nationall Synode helde likewise in London by these brethren: according to their former decisions and Synodicall Discipline. This appeareth by three letters. The first was, from eleuen ministers of Essex, to Field:
 wherein they desire to be certified, whether the brethren meant 26. Ia. 1584.
to be exercised, in prayer and fasting, and upon what day. The seconde was, from nine of the saide Ministers, to Field and Charke: wherein they writ thus: We haue elected two Godly and faithfull brethren, Maister Wright and Maister Gifford, to ioyne with you in that businesse. The third was, from Ccli- 2. Febru. 1584.
brand, to Field: Wherein he excuseth himselfe of a great oueright, in these words. Touching my departure from that ho- ly assembly without leaue, &c. I craue pardon, both of you & them, &c. And thus (sayth he) commending this holy cause to the Lord himselfe, and your godly counsaile to the President thereof, I take my leaue. 29. Nouemb. 1584.

C H A P. V.

Their Booke of Discipline is reuiewed: it was after sent abroad a- bout, 1587. it was put in practise, in Northamptonshire and many other places.

*N*otwithstanding that the booke of Discipline was abroad, as it hath beene noted, (in the third chapter,) and that the brethren had framed themselues (as they might) vnto the rules thereof: yet

76. English Scottizing, for Discipline by Practise. The 3. Booke there were found, some imperfections in it; which in the Synode, mentioned in the former chapter, (as I take it) were referred to Maister Trauers, to bee corrected and ordered by him, as his leysure will permitte. Which appeareth by a letter of Maister Fields to Maister Trauers, in these words.

Concerning our other busines: I would wish, that the Discipline were read ouer with as much speed as could be, and that some good directions were giuen, for the brethren abroad, who are earnest to enter some good course, for the furtherance of the L: cause. And after in the same place: I finde many abroade, very willing to ioyne with the best: to put in practise that which shall bee agreed vpon, by the brethren. If it might please the brethren therefore, that those or the like instructions (which wee had) with a perfect coppie of the Discipline, might be sent, I would wholly imploy my selfe in that seruice. Another also vpon the longer stay thereof. I pray you hasten the forme of Discipline and send it. And the same man againe: I pray you remember the forme of Discipline, which Maister Trauers promised to make perfect, and send it me when it is finished. We will put it in practise, and trie mens minds therein, as we may.

According to these requests, the draught of Discipline was at the last finished: and then sent abroade, to be approued generally by all the brotherhood, as may thus appear:
The discipline we haue receiued, and we giue you and the brethren hartie thanks for it. As yet we are not resolued in all points of it:
hauing had but small time to peruse it, nor the commoditie of often meeting about it. But we haue taken order for our monthly assembly, and after our owne consents yeelded vnto it, for associating other into our companie, whom we shall thinke approued. And an other. We hartilie giue God thanks (sayth one) for the godly & most Christian paines of the brethren, in the trauaile of the Discipline: which is come to our hands to be considered. of Gelibrands letter of his receit of the booke of Discipline, was written in

Field to Tra-uers. 3. Iulie.
1585.

Gelibrand to Field. 9. of Nouem. 1585

Gelibrand to Field, 30. Ia-nuarie.

Gelibrand to Field.

Sander to Field 20. Iune
1587.

The 3. Booke. English Scottizing, for Discipline by Practise. 77
 in the name of the brethren in Oxford. At which time there was another Synode held in London: whither (sayth the letter) Maister West and Maister Browne were sent from Oxford: to whom they referred the estate of their Church, to be related: and by whom they desired to understand, directions from the Synode, how they might deale afterwarde in those matters.

Within a while after, viz. 1587. (as I suppose,) there was in like sort an assemble or Synode helde of the Cambridgeshire brotherhood: accompanied peradventure with some of other shires. About which time also, vpon the new edition of the foresayd booke, the further practise of the Discipline mentioned by Cholmeley, 1583. (as is before shewed) began to spread it selfe more freely, into the most parts of the Realme: but especially (for ought I doo yet vnderstand) it was most friendly intertaind, amongst the ministers of Northamptonshire, as it appeareth in recorde by some of their owne depositions, 16. of May, 1590. in these wordes following. About two yeares and a halfe, since the whole shire was divided into three Classes. 1. The Classis of Northamptonshire, consisting of these Ministers: Maister Snape, Maister Pen-rie, Maister Sibthorpe, Maister Edwards, Maister Littleton, Maister Bradshaw, Maister Larke, Maister Fleshware, Maister Spicer, &c. 2. The Classis of Dauentrie side, consisting of these:
 Maister Barebon, Maister Rogers, Maister King, Maister Smart, Maister Sharpe, Maister Prowdloe, Maister Elliston, &c.
 3. The Classis of Kettring side: consisting of these: Master Stone, Maister Williamson, Maister Fawsbrooke, Maister Patinson, Maister Maffey &c.

This deuise (saith Maister Iohnson) is commonly receiued in most parts of England, (as I haue heard in sundrie of our meetings:) but especially, in Warwickshire, Suffolke, Norfolke, Essex, &c.

This appea-
 reth vnder M.
 Wights hand.

M. Iohnson,
 So in effect
 M. Littleton
 M. Sharpe.

a M. Snape reported as much, as Edward Smith,
 Ri. Hawgar
 & Ri. Holme
 haue depofed

b M. Sharpe and M. Littleton doelike-wischerein as gree with M Iohnson.

The manner of euery perticular Classis is this. At<sup>b</sup> their meeting (which is alwaies in some priuate house, but yet in their Mother Cities) first a moderator is chosen, in this sort: One of them conceiueth a praier, for Gods direction in that choise.

Then he, that conceived the praier, sitteth alone in scrutonie:
and euery one giueth his voice secretlie vnto him. He that hath most voyces is chosen.

The moderator, thus chosen, conceiueth another praier: that God would blesse him in the course of his office. Then being set at the tables end, with his brethren by him: the names of all the brethren are called. If any were absent at their first sitting downe, he sitteth after in order, as he commeth, for auoiding of superioritie.

The authoritie of the moderator endureth vntill the next meeting of that Classis. At the breaking vp of euery Classis, there is euer some certaine time appointed, when they shall meete againe:
which is sometime within a fortnight, but commonly three weeks at the furthest: If any thing do fall out in the meane time, sit to be consulted vpon: the moderator may call the Classis together sooner, according to an order made amongst themselves.

a Mast. Littleton depotheth
as much.

It is<sup>a</sup> a generall order, that when any is admitted into a Classis: he doth promise vnder his hand, that he will submit himselfe, and be obedient to all such orders and decrees, as shall be set downe
by the same Classis to be obserued.

As for example: these were part of the particular articles, whereunto euerie one of Northampton Classis did subscribe, at his entring or admittance into it: we doo promise to submit our selues, vnto such orders and decrees, as shall be set downe by our Classis: We do promise to submit our selues, to be censured by our brethren of this Classis, in all matters concerning doctrine and Discipline, &c.

In this Classis it was furthermore concluded and agreed vpon, that when any controuersie did arise, touching any matters of doctrine, or about the interpretation of any place of Scriptures: e-uerie

uerie one of that Classis, should alwaies yeeld therein, vnto that interpretation and resolution, which the brethren of that Classis should determine of. And so also when any questions did rise amongst them of greater difficultie. As for example, Maister Stone moued this question to the Northampton Classis in the behalfe of one: v. z. two are contracted: one of them marrieth with a third: hee or shee so married are free againe. The question is: whether the former contract, doe nowe againe binde. And the resolution was: it did not: which was a false Resolution.

The determinations and acts concluded vpon in this Classis, were registred in a booke by Snape: chosen Register by the companie, and who alwaies kept the same.

Maist. Sharpe
to the same purpose of Dauntry
Classis.

Besides these perticular Classes, there is another kind of meeting, which is termed the Assembly. And it consisteth (for example) in Northamptonshire, of the number of six: that is two of euery Classis, which are sent thither by election. The ordinarie place of this assembly in Northamptonshire, was at Northampton: where Snape commonly was one, and a chiefe man, Barbon & King, were the men that vsually came from Dauntry side: and Stone and Williamson from Ketting side.

At the meeting of the sixe, there is alwaies a moderator first chosen, in manner and forme, as in the Classis: and so likewise for their further order of proceeding. The moderator continueth his authoritie, ouer all the three Classes, vntill the like meeting happen again: which is neuer certain. But yet commonly within six or eight weeks, vpon occasion signified from the Classes vnto this moderator. For vnto him belongeth the calling of this assembly.

The matters, which here are handled, are those of great moment; such as concerne the state of the Church generally. As for example: the writing of letters to the brethren at Oxford, Cambridge, & London: to certifie them of their proceedings, & to know what course is held amongst them, in those places, for
the

The like Ma.
Sharpe of Da-
untry Classis

30 English Scottizing, for Discipline by Practise. The 3. Booke.
the Discipline and gouernement, which they tearme Reformation:) to the intent, that the particular Classes, upon their aduerisements, may direct themselues, and their Churches accordingly.

It is likewise alwaies concluded, at such times, which of the sixe assembled, shall penne the letters. And in this choise, Snape was commonly the man.

The men, to whom they vsuallie did write: were one in Cambridge; Trauers in London, and Gelibrand in Oxford: When any an'wers were returned from those places: they were commonly directed to Snape, or to him that had written to them, in the name of the brethren.

Two especiall points (I remember) were concluded in this assemblie: the one was, for a suruay of all the Churches in North-hamptonshire: th'other, for an order to bee obserued at the last Parliament, which then drew neere.

M. Sharpe to
to the same purpose of Daunterie
Classis.

The suruay was, to know what euerie benefice in the shire was worth, how many soules by a generall coniecture, were in euerie parish: who were the incumbents, and of what life, paines and qualities they were. To this purpose, the fittest men, and such as were best acquainted in the shire were nominated: as Littleton for Haddon Deanerie, &c. Which duetie he performed for his part to the uttermost: and brought a most rayling Discourse, against euerie Minister, which was not of our companie.

The end propounded of this suruay, was: vz. that if upon signification to the brethren abroad, what was done there: they would likewise make the like suruay in other countries: the Parliament (if neede required and to the better furthering of their purposes) might haue a generall viewe, of all the Ministers in England, that impugned their desires.

The second point before mentioned was this: vz. a conclusion to send up to London, one or two of euerie Classis in North-hamptonshire, with letters of credite, to attend at the Parliament:

The 3. Booke. English Scottizing, for Discipline by Practise. 81
ment: to ioinc themselues with the brethren of other countries: and to offer disputation, (if it should be so thought meete) and to undertake any other such matter, as should then and there be determined of amongst them; and that there should be letters written, of this resolution, to know how the brethren abroad liked it: or what other course they would hold, at that time, for the bringing in of Discipline and Church gouernement.

These two points, were penned by Snape: and sent to the brethren abroad, as it was ordered.

What answer was returned to Snape, from the brethren in Oxford & Cambridge, I know not: but well I remember, that Trauerse did write to Snape, a very cunning Letter: wherein he shewed himselfe not to mislike the foresaid suruay to be generalie made, but signified, that the Parliament drawing on so fast, it could not be done so soone. But for the second point: that (he writ) was liked, and meete to be followed.

Whereupon the Classes of Northamptonshire, did send up some three or fower, as Settle for Northampton, Rogers for Dauentry, &c. with a further conclusion, that if any of them (upon occasion) should be committed, others should be sent up in their places.

Although the time was short, for the generall accomplishing of these forenamed pointes: yet this examine thinketh, some thing was done in the first: v.z. as hee hath heard, a suruay was made to the purpose before touched, of the Ministers in Northfolke, Suffolke and Essex. And for the second, true it was, that many were sent to attend at the Parliament, from the most parts of England. And one resolution was, that some twenty or thirty of them, should haue come in their gownes, with all grauitie, to the Parliament-house-dore; and there haue desired by petition a disputation.

Furthermore, concerning some censures used, there was a generall consent and purpose; amongst the brethren, touching a se-

This suruay hath beene made in the most shires of England: as by the suruices themselves to be shewed it appeareth. They are in manner of heathnisch libels.

82 English Scottizing, for Discipline by Practise. The 3. Booke.
cret kinde of excommunication: for examples sake. A lay man committeth some sinne. One of the Elders was to admonish him.
The partie is obstinate. The Elder must take two or three with him the second time. And if this serue not, then he is to be debarred from the communion. In this case, if the said party should (notwithstanding) intrude himselfe to communicate, then it was agreed to repell him, vppon pretence of certaine words in the communion booke. So as thereby, they might keepe their owne course, for their Discipline, and yet haue a cloake to couer them withall,
out of the booke.

Againe, an other thing is notable to this effect. About a yeare and a halfe agoe, Iohn Nelson of Northampton, an Elder or a Deacon of Saint Peters, (as I thinke) hauing eyther his daughter, or his sister gotten with childe, in his house, by one of his seruants, Master Snape dealt with the said seruant, to vrge him to publicke repentaunce: and at the last, so farre preuailed with him, (as it was thought,) that he promised the next sunday so to doe: but came not. Whereupon Snape made a verie bitter Sermon against him. The next Sunday he came indeede. And then Snape made a long praier, that God would giue him grace, to make a faithfull acknowledgement of his sinne &c. That done, the penitentiary, made publique confession &c. Which being per-fourmed, Snape absolued him, and then entred into a great discourse how cleare the partie was, and free from that sinne committed, euen as though he had bin newlie born: charging the congregation, that no man should presume, at any time after, to obiect the same vnto him. But that, which was most wondred at:
whereas this poore man was thus dealt withall, Snape caused lame Prettie, a Souldier of Barwicke (who without any calling in the Church at all, sauing that he had a tolleration to read, did such seruice in that place, as was appointed by Snape to bee read, till he came to Church) the next morning to marrie the saide penitentiarie to the woman with childe before named, without anie bring-

The 3. Booke. English Scottizing, for Discipline by Practise. 83 bringing of her, vnto anie such publicke repentance. Hereof, grew amongst the people great speech, that the pore man was so vsed, &
the cicher mans sister or daughter was so freed. The saide lame Souldier, hath married manie in that place, vpon Snapes commaundement: for that Snape holdeth, that dutie to appertaine
no more to the Ministers office, then to anie other man.

And as touching that point mentioned, of the bretherens submitting of themselues, by subscription, to be censured in their Clasfis: it was thus vsed in the Northampton Clasfis. The brethren being together in a chamber, the partie to be first censured, (as they were all to be in course) goeth forth out of the chamber. Then the moderator asketh euery mans opinion of him: how he behaueth himselfe as well in his life, as in his Ministerie: and euerie man, hauing spoken his opinion, the partie is called in: and then, if he were not any way touched, he is greatly commended: if otherwise, then reprooued, as the causes require. For example, Edwards of Cortnall comming vnder this censure, was blamed for vsing the Crosse in Baptisme: and at his comming-in againe, was wonderfull sharply dealt withall for the same.

Thus farre Maister Iohnson of the Northampton Clasfis.
With whom doe also agree in the principall points: Maister Littleton, as touching the same Clasfis, Maister Sharpe, & Maister Walker, Preachers and persons deposed, concerning the Clasfis of Dauentry side: and Maister Stone (a Preacher likewise) vpon his oth, for that of Kettring side. One or two points I may not omitte, which Maister Stone hath deliue-red. He confesseth that at diuers times, Maister Snape, Master Barbon; Maister Sharpe, Maister Prowdloe, Maister King, Maister Iohnson, Maister Sibthorp, Maister Spicer, Maister Baxter; Maister Littleton, Maister Williamson, Maister Bradshaw, Maister Fleshware, Maister Harrison, and hee, haue mette in Northampton: and likewise at

Stone in the Starchamber.

Kettring: and at his house, the most of them, with some others as Maister Rishbrooke, Maister Atkinson, Maister Dauyes, Maister Massye, Maister Okes &c. about matters of discipline. And he saith further, that in an assembly had, either at his house or at Kettring, it was propounded, treated, and concluded, that the Apocrypha writings were not to be read in the Church. And in an other assembly, which of them he doth not remember, he affirmeth likewise, that it was debated and concluded upon, that the superiority of the Bishops of this land, ouer the rest of the Ministers, is not warranted by the word of God.

To these depositions, concerning the Northamptonshire Classes, I might adde the depositions of one maister Parker, Vicar of Dedham in Essex, for the prooue of the Classes in that shire: as of one about Brayntree side, consisting of these Ministers, maister Culuerwell, maister Rogers, maister Gifford &c. another about Colchester, consisting of these Ministers, Doctor Chapman, Doctor Chricke, maister Dowe, maister Farrar, maister Newman, maister Tey &c. and so likewise the depositions of others.

Ego singulis sabbatis, si non alius adueniens locum suppleat, cum prescripta leiturgias formula nihil habens comertij; in caetera concionem habeo: idque reuerendorum fratrum consilio, qui suos habent singulis ferè hebdomadis conuentus, qui etiam me in eorum numerum, (sic est mihi propitius Deus,) benigne ascripserunt. I preach euery Sabbaoth day, (if no other that commeth by chance, doth supply the place) hauing nothing to do at all with the forme or booke of Common Prayer: and that by the counsell of the reuerend brethren: who haue their meetinges almost euery wecke, who haue also, (God being so mercifull vnto me) admitted me vzy kindly into their number.

But in following of that course, I should be too tedious, I will onely set downe, one mans witness more, agreeing with Maister Johnson; for the prooue, that the like Classes, are

Men. Asker to Field, Apr. 14.
1585.

The 3. Booke. English Scottizing, for Discipline by Practise. 85
or haue beene held in most Shires in England: and referring you to iudge of them all, by that of Northampton, I will goe forward.

About two yeares since, Maister Snape did say and affirme, in the presence of Edward Smith, Robert Vicars, Edward Birde, Richard Holmes, & himselfe, that there were three or foure small Classes of Ministers in euery shire, where there were any learned Preachers, who did use (in their meetinges) to debate of the Discipline, by Pastors, Doctors, Elders, & Deacons, and that the said seuerall small Classes, did send their resolutions and opinions, to the greater assemblies at Cambridge at Sturbridge Fayre time, and at London at Bartholomew Fayre time, which did meeete together also for the same purpose: and that if the said great assembly did like of that, which was done by the smaller Classes, then was the same (so liked of) generally concluded, to be that, which ought to be, or stand, in the Church. (As for example.) That it was concluded and agreed upon, both in the said Classicall and generall assemblies; that the dumbe ministerie was no ministerie, or else no lawfull ministerie: and that the Ministers in their seuerall charges, should all teach one kind of doctrine, tending to the erecting of the foresaid gouernement, by Pastors, Doctors, Elders and Deacons: which pointes. (sayth Holmes of himselfe in another examination) were concluded in the Synode at Sturbridge Fayre last. v. z. 1588.

---

C H A P. V I.

A Synode is held at Couentrie, 1588. many questions are resolved, the booke of Discipline is subscribed vnto.

Here is mention made, in the last chapter, of a Synode or meeting, 1587. of the Cambridgeshire Classicall Ministers, and peradventure of some others also with them. In which meeting there were certain que-

86 English Scottizing, for Discipline by Practise. The 3. Booke stions propounded & dealt in: the which questions were afterwards sent by their direction, to the Warwickshire Clas- ses, or brethren assembled in those parts, to bee further in-treated of and resolved.

The next yeare after, v<sup>z</sup>. 1588. the saide Warwickshire Classes, &c. assembling themselues together, in council, (as it seemeth at Coventry,) the questions mentioned, were determined vpon: and besides, other matters were also concluded; as by the acts themselues following (to be shewed vnder Maister Wights hand, and are acknowledged in effect vpon two mens othes in the Starre. chamber) may sufficiently appeare. Thus the proceedinges of that meeting are intituled. Acta conuentus Classium Warwic, die decimo, quarti.
1588. The Acts of the assembly of the Warwickshire Classes the tenth day of the fourth moneth. And touching the questions specified. Questiones a fratribus ex Synodo Cantabrigiensi, an- no superiore delata, ea quae sequitur formulâ sunt explicatae. The questions brought the other yeare. from the brethren of the Cam- bridge Synode, are resolved in manner as followeth. I will not trouble my paper with the fourme which they vsed, but these were some of their resolutions: v<sup>z</sup>.

That private Baptisme is unlawfull.

That it is not lawfull, to read homilies in the Church.

That the signe of the Crosse, is not to be vsed in Baptisme.

That the faithfull ought not to communicate with unlearned
ministers, although they may be present at their seruice, if they come of purpose to heare a sermon. The reason is, because lay men, as well as ministers, may read publike seruice.

That the calling of Bishops &c. is unlawfull.

That as they deale in causes ecclesiasticall, there is no duty be- longing vnto them, nor any, publikely to be giuen them.

That it is not lawfull, to be ordained by the into the ministry, or to denounce either suspensions or excommunications sent from the.

That

That it is not lawfull, to rest in the Bishops deprivation of any from the ministerie, except (upon consultation with the neighbor-ministers adioyning, and his flocke) it seeme so good vnto them: but that he continue in the same, vntill he be compelled to the contrary by ciuill force.

That it is not lawfull, to appeare in a Bishops Court: but with protestation of their unlawfulness.

That Bishops are not to be acknowledged, either for Doctors, Elders, or Deacons, as hauing no ordinary calling.

That touching the restauration of their Ecclesiasticall discipline, it ought to be taught to the people, data occasione, as occasion should serue.

That nondum (as yet) the people are not to be solicited, publicè (publickly) to the practise of the discipline: donec, (till) they be better instructed in the knowledge of it.

That men of better vnderstanding, are to be allured priuaty, to the present imbracing of the Discipline and practise of it, as far as they shall be well able, with the peace of the Church. And thus farre the prouinciall Synode of the Warwickeshire Classis.

Likewise at that time, there was in the same assembly, a great approbation obtained of the foresaid booke of Discipline, as to be a draught of Discipline, essentiall & necessarie for all times: and certaine articles (being deuised in approbation, and for the maner of the vse of that booke,) were then brought forth, treated-of, and subscribed vnto, (as Maister Nutter & Maister Cleueley, two that were then present, haue deposed,) by Maister Cartwright, Maister Fenne, Maister Wight, &c. who promised to guide themselues by the saide Discipline, and according to it, as it is set downe in the saide articles, which herafter shall be likewise declared. It appeareth also by the said parties depositions, that diuers others did subscribe at the same time, (or at the least within a short time after,) but they might not (forsooth) by reason of their

Nutter and Cleueley in the Starres
chamber

owne consciences, name them. Howbeit the matter is otherwise plaine inough, who they were: by a note taken with Maister Littleton. : vz. John Oxenbridge, Edward Gellibrand, Hercules Cleuely, Anthony Nutter, Leonard Fetherstone, Mathew Hulme, Edward Lord, &c.

This booke, hauing thus at the last receaued this great allowance, more authentically: was carried farre and nere, for a generall ratification of all the brethren. It was offered to the Dauenry side Classis, as Maister Sharp and Maister Walker haue depofed; and likewise at Northampton by Penry, as Maister Littleton affirmeth. But that, which Maister Johnson hath set downe, is worthy the remembrance. The effect of it, is this: that when the booke of Discipline came to Northampton, to be subscribed vnto: there was a generall censuring vsed, amongst the brethren there, as it were to sanctifie themselves, partly by sustaining a kinde of penance, and reproofe for their former conformity, to the orders of the Church, established by her Maiesstie, and other matters of conuersation: and partly to prepare their mindes for the deuout accepting of the foresaid booke. In which course of censuring vsed at that time, there was such ripping vp, one of anothers life, euen from their youth, as that they came vnto great bitternes, with many reuiling tearms amongst themselves, one growing thereby odious to another, and some did thereupon utterly forsake those kinde of assemblies.

Sharpe and Walker before the Commissioners.

Johnson before the Commissioners.

C H A P. VII.

The booke of the pretended Discipline is made perfect at Cambridge: certaine Synodes are kept: and of their estimation.

T might haue beene deemed, that after so many viewes, Synodes, and subscriptions, this worthy draught of discipline, would haue growne to great great perfection: but it falleth out otherwise. For (as it is confessed vppon othe) at Sturbridge Fayre. time, the next yeare (after the sayd Classicall countell of the Warwicke-shire brethren) vz. in the yeare, 1589. there was another Synode or generall meeting, helde in Saint Iohns Colledge in Cambridge. Where (saith M. Barber) they did correct, alter, and amend diuers imperfections contein'd in the booke, called Disciplina ecclesiæ sacra, verbo Dei descripta: and (as maister Stone affirmeth) did not onely perfect the saide forme of Discipline, but also did then and there, (as he remembreth,) voluntarily agree amongst themselves, that so many as would should subscribe to the saide booke of Discipline after that time. The persons, that met in this assembly, were as these two last deponents affirme.) maister Cartwright, maister Snape, maister Allen, maister Gifford, maister Perkins, maister Stone, maister Barber, maister Harrison, with others, &c.

I finde mention also of another Synode, 1589. held (as I take it) at Ipswich. Thus one John Warde did write, that yeare, to certaine at Ipswich: I thinke not to come ouer, till the Synode, which is (as I take it) a moneth after Michaelmas.

It hath beene obserued before, out of maister Edmonds deposition: cap. 2. who were the Classicall brethren of London. It is also fit to be vnderstood, who they are, that most commonly met there also, at their more generall, provinciall or nationall assemblies or Synodes. And this both maister Barber, and maister Stone, doo sufficiently declare. For the space of about foure yeares last past, (saith maister Barber,) and since the last Parliament, (saith maister Stone,) there haue bin seuerall meetings in London, at the houses of maister Gardiner, maister Egerton, maister Trauers, and maister Barber. The persons, that vsually mette in these assemblies, (saith maister Barber,) were maister Cartwright, maister Charke, maister Trauers, maister Egerton, maister Gardiner, maister Oxenbridge,

90 English Scottizing for Discipline by Practise. The 3. Booke.
maister Gelibrand, maister Caluerwell, maister Browne of Oxford, maister Allen, maister Gifford, maister Sommercales, and himselfe.

Maister Cartwright, maister Trauers, and maister Egerton, were at sundry times chosen Moderators or Presidents in the said assemblies. And afterwarde generally of the office of the Moderators. The resolutions, conclusions, and determinations of such matters, as were disputed: of, and agreed-upon, by the more number of them, that so disputed in the said assemblies: were by the saide Moderators or Presidents, before named, at the times and places of the saide severall assemblies, summarily and briefly, either written in a booke, or otherwise set-downe in loose papers, as to the saide Moderators, or Presidentes should bee thought meet or conuenient.

As the Classicall assemblies of London were of greater estimation, then those in the Country: so these more generall meetings or Synodes last mentioned, were of highest authoritic: and indeed the grand test of all the rest. It may be said truely of them both, that they haue been the kindling sparkes of all those flames, which are in the Church. What was there ordered, went, as perfectly currant. From thence, the brethren, of other places, did fetch their light. As doubts did arise, thither they were sent to be resolued. The Classicall and Synodicall decrees in other places, were neuer authenticall indeede, (as it seemeth,) till there they were ratified. The chiefest directions, for all the brethren else-where, were sent from thence. It is wonderfull to consider, how men so obstinate and wilfull in their owne waies against the Church of England, established by her Maiestie; should be brought to submit themselues in such sort, as they did, to be led by these assemblies, as elsewhere it doth appeare.

CHAP. VIII.

Vpon some detecting of the premisses some were called into question: they refuse to be examined: all they were charged, which is in effect confessed.

IN the yeare, 1590. vpon the detecting (before some of her Maiesties Commissioners in causes Ecclesiasticall) of the most of these things, whereof I haue hitherto spoken: Interrogatories were drawn, containing in them the effect of all the premisses; and diuers such Ministers were sent for, as were sayde to haue bene the chiefe ringleaders in all those actions, Accordingly they appeared: but in the place when they shuld be examined, they refused to answer vpon their othes. Diuers pretences therof were made, as one; that first they would see the Interrogatories, whereof they should be examined. The generall summe of them, was imparted vnto them: and it was likewise told them, that they should bee charged to answer no further, then by the lawes of the Realme they were bound to doo. But all this would not serue. Whervpon the Interrogatories themselues were shewed vnto some, as namely to Maister Snape, who stood most at the first vpon that point, and did pretend, that if first hee might see them, hee would then aunswere vnto them. But the issue was accordingly, as it was expected: For hauing perused them, he was further-of, then he was before: and writ to his friends, what was the summe of them: to the intent they might be forewarned, and so (as he sayd) become better armed. Which course taken by him: was not without the great prouidence of God. For thereby their whole plot, and all in effect, that was laid to their charges, was discovered. His Letters were intercepted,

In the Preface

Wherein he writeth after this sort.

Reuerend and beloued, this day Aprill the 7. I haue beene againe before the Commissioners: After much adoo, I obtained to see and peruse the Articles against mee, (but briefly and in their presence onely,) they are many, (36.37. besides those vnder mine owne hand,) and very large, some twelue, some twenty lines long, consisting of many branches. As far as I could (for the time) conceaue and remember, they may be referred to these two heads: some concerning my selfe, together with others, and some touching my selfe alone. The former sort are touching Classes and Synodes: wherein there are mentioned particular places: (London, Oxford, Cambridge:) times (Act, Commencement, Sturbridge fayre, Terme:) persons, (Cartwright, Perkins, Trauers, Charke, Egerton, Barbon, Stone, Snape, Knewstub, Allin, Dike, & diuers others, &c.) and some things dealt in and agreed vpon, &c. By all which, besides many other things specified, it is most euident, that they haue manifest and certaine knowledge, not onely of generals, but also of specials and particulars.

Beloued, I haue twise appeared before the high Commissioners: the first time, the issue was prison: the second, close prison. This is my state now: the causes of both, and the proceedings in both, you shall receaue of Master Knightlye, the former more large in a Dialogue, the latter more briefly in a Letter: both vnperfect, both vnperused: reade them, and returne them with what speede you may: for I haue now no copy of them: let them be wisely kept, lest they breede more anger. I haue procured another copy to be sent to Master Stone, that in both places you might be forewarned, & forearmed. Touching the conferences, those of our Countrey, are yet more particularly discovered: persons (besides those there named) Kinge, of Coleworth: Prowdloe, of Weedon, &c. Spicer, of Cogenho: Edwardes, of Cortenhall, &c. places: Sharpes house at Fawseley: Snapes chamber at Northamp- ton,

Snape to N.N.
1590.

Snape to Barbon
Aprill 11.
1590. and so
also to Stone.

The 3. Booke. English Scottizing, for Discipline by Practise. 93 ton, &c. Si quis coniecturæ sit locus: I would iudge Iohn Iohnson to haue beene the man: because (to my remembrance) persons and thinges of his time beeing mentioned, hee onely is not named. Whosoeuer and howsoeuer, wee see the Lord calleth vs to be more resolute. They will not, they cannot be any longer concealed: now whether it were better and more safe, that one man with the consent of the rest, should boldly, freely, and wisely, confesse and lay open, &c. or that some weake (or wicked) man shoulde without consent, and in euill sort acknowledge, &c. Iudge you: the thing th: y ayme at, is: A conuenticle. It must come to tryall. In the cause of murther, &c. it is wont to be enquired, whether the party fled vpon it: consider and apply to this matter, and the Lord giue vs wisdom in all things. It were good you sent to T. C. with speede.

C H A P. IX.

Cartwright is called for, by authority: a Synode is held in London: it is there resolved that he shall refuse to be examined vpon his othe.

Afterwarde the same yeare before mentioned,
 1590. (in September, as I take it,) Maister Cartwright vpon occasion was sent for, by the sayd Commissioners. Now, about a weeke or a fortnight before, Cartwright was committed, (sayth Maister Stone) whereas, the question mentioned by Snape to Bar-bon & the brethren: (which, as it seemeth, troubled them all:) v. whether it were not fit, that one man with the consent of the rest, should boldly, freely, and wisely, confesse and lay open &c.
 came to be disputed in London. There was a Synode or meeting, held at Maister Gardiners, by these brethren, Maister Cartwright, Maister Charke, Maister Trauerse, Maister Egerton, Maister Cardiner, Maister Barbon, Maister Barber, Deposited in the Star-chamber.

94 English Scottizing, for Discipline by Practise. The 3. Booke
maister Oxenbridge, maister Gelibrand, maister Culuerwel, my selfe, and certaine other Ministers: and they did then and there debate and consider amongst themselues, whether it were fit or conuenient, that the said maister Cartwright, (after his commitment to prison) should discover or reucale, all or any the matters, which passed in conference and disputation, in any of their former assemblies, or not. What the resolution hercof was, whether through the examiners ouersight; or Maister
Stones peruersenesse, (I know not) but it is not set downe.
Howbeit the effects which followed, do make it manifest.

For maister Cartwright, about the time before limited, being conuented: and moued in the Consistory at Paules;
by the Bishop of London, the then two Lordes chiefe Iustices, maister Iustice Gawdy, maister Sergeant Puckering, now Lord Keeper of the great Seale of England, maister Attorney Generall, now Lorde Chiefe Iustice of England: and diuers others her Maiesties Commissioners then present to take his oth to answer to certaine Interrogatories: yet notwithstanding that the chiefe points of them were then deliuered in generall tearmes vnto him, & that the said both honourable and graue persons, did (euery man) seuerally assure him vpon their credits, that by the lawes of the Realme he was bound to take his oath, & therevpon to answer, as he was required: he desired to be borne withall, and said that hee thought he was not bound by the lawes of God so to do.

---

CHAP. X.

Further prooffe for their practise of their Discipline: collected out of the rules of their subscribed booke.

 Hitherto, as yet the point (I haue in hand) be not sufficiently prooued: vz. that our English reformers
haue attempted after the Scottish Ministers fashion, to bring into the Church of England, their pretended Disci-

Disciplinarian gouernement, of themselues, and by their owne authority, without any further staying (as they had done) for the ciuill Magistrate, albeit they pretende now the contrary: then it is fit that I produce some further matter to this purpose.

Amongst sundry things in the said booke of Discipline, let these few be well considered of, & weighed. It is there sayd: Presbyterium in singulis ecclesijs constituendum est, there ought to be erected in euery Church a Presbyterie. Now if they had meant, (as it is pretended) not to haue put their booke, or at the least some chiefe parts thereof in practise, vntill it should haue bene established by Act of Parliament, they would haue sayde for constituendum est, there ought to be erected, constituatur, let there be erected in euery parish a Presbyterie.

Againe, in all their assemblies prescribed in the booke, this was one point to be still inquired of: utrum disciplina uigeat, whether the Discipline had any life in it, or were esteemed, or continued: which question had bene friuolous, and very vnmeet to haue bene continued, as prescribed by Law, if the Discipline it selfe had bene allowed by Act of Parliament, before that question should haue bene moued.

Furthermore saith the booke: in funeribus desuescendum est commode, ab habendis concionibus, quod periculum sit, ne superstitionem quorundam foueant, aut vanitati inserviant: The Preachers must leaue of by little and little, as they may conueniently, to preach at burials, least thereby they nourish the superstition of some men, or giue over themselues to the preservation of vanity.

Likewise, festi dies sunt commode abolendi: holy daies (as we tearme them) must be abolished, commode, as they may, handsomely. Nowe, if this booke had not bene meant, to haue haue beene put in practise in these two pointes, before it had come forth, authorized by law: they would haue said for the reasons alledged: from henceforth let there be, or it is ordered, that there shall be no more preaching at burials, nor holy dayes obserued, or let them henceforth be abolished.

Cap. de reli-
qui. Liturg.
officiis.

Moreover: reliqua liturgia tota ratio in sacramentorum administratione, & ex usu ecclesie in nuptiarum benedictione consistit. Cuius forma commodissima est, qua ab ecclesiis usurpatur, qua disciplinam ex Dei verbo instaurarunt. The rest of the liturgy doth consist in the administration of the Sacraments, and (as the use of the Church is,) in blessing of marriages. The forme whereof, is most fit and commodious, that is used by those Churches, which haue erected the discipline, according to the worde of God.

In the Parliament (27. of her Maiestie: as I remember) the brethren hauing made another booke, tearmed at that time: A booke of the forme of common prayers, &c. and contayning in it the effect of their whole pretended discipline: the same booke was penned, altogether statute and lawlike, and their petition in the behalfe of it was: vz. May it therefore please your maiessty, &c. that it may be enacted, &c. that the booke hereunto annexed, &c. intituled: a booke of the forme of common prayers, administration of Sacraments, &c. and euery thing therein contained, may be from henceforth authorized, put in vre, & practised throughout all your maiesties dominions. See here, when they hoped to haue attained their purposes by law, and to haue had the same accordingly established: they offered to the Parliament a booke of their own, for the forme of common praiers, &c. and thought it (as it seemeth) altogether inconuenient, to leaue euery minister to his owne choyse, to vse what forme hee list, other then such as were allowed in some Church, which had receiued the Discipline: for any such they liked-of indefinitely.

Whereby

Whereby it to me it seemeth manifest, that they neuer meant, to haue required the enacting of that Chapter, de reliquis liturgiæ officijs, but onely to set downe, what course their bretheren should follow for the interim, vntill they might take further order for a booke of their owne.

Lastly, in all this whole booke of Discipline, there is not once mention made of any authority, or office, in or ouer the Church; belonging to the Christian ciuill Magistrate. Hee hath not so much, as either voyce or place, in any of their Synodes, as a member thereof: except he be chosen to be an Elder. He hath not any power assigned vnto him to call a Synode: no, though it bee a Nationall Synode: nor so much as to appoint the particular times or places of their meetings, nor (which is most strange,) so much as that his assent, is to be required to any of their Canons. But all these things are set downe in this booke, as of right to appertaine vnto their Ministers and Elders. For the tryall whereof: I must needs referre you to the booke it selfe, which is in many mens handes: where you shall finde the brethren ascribe that to themselues, which in the greatest darkenes of Popery, all the BBs. in the Land (for ought I doo remember) durst neuer challenge. Which is a prooue sufficient, that either they meant by cunning to haue depriued her Maiesty, by her owne consent, of all her regall authority, in these and such like causes of the Church, as not of right belonging vnto her (which they will not acknowledge:) or otherwise, that they had agreed without her consent, to take this authority vnto themselues: which (if they had any consciencé) they would not stick to confesse: that being assuredly their currant doctrine, as in some other place it shall hereafter more fully appeare.

But it may be said that these are onely collections. Well let them be, as they are. Indeede there is no cause, why I should stand vpon collections, hauing yet in store most e-uident demonstrations.

98 English Scottizing, for Discipline by Practise. The 3. Booke.

---

C H A P. X I.

Further prooffe for their practise of their Discipline out of the articles they subscribed.

Here hath beene often mention made, of the articles, whereunto the brethren subscribed, for their allowance and practise of the sayd booke of Discipline: and they are worde for worde, as here I doo set them downe, according to the deposition of those, that subscribed vnto them, and as they are to bee shewed vnder Maister Wights hand.

We the brethren assembled together, in the name of God, hauing heard and examined, by the word of God, according to our best abilitie and iudgement in it, a draught of discipline essential, and necessary for all times, and Synodically, gathered out of the Synodes, and vse of the Churches; haue thought good to testifie, concerning it, as followeth.

We acknowledge and confesse the same, agreeable to Gods most holy word, so farre as we are able to iudge or discern of it, excepting some fewe pointes, which wee haue sent to our Reuerend brethren of this assembly, for their further resolution.

We affirme it to be the same, which wee desire to be established in this Church, by daily praier to God; which we promise (as God shall offer oportunitie, and giue vs to discern it so expedient) by humble suit vnto her Maiesties honourable Councell, and the Parliament, and by all other lawfull and conuenient meanes, to further and aduance, so farre as the lawes, and peace, and the present estate of our Church, will suffer it, and not enforce to the contrary.

We

The 3. Booke. English Scottizing, for Discipline by Practise. 99
We promise to guide our selues, and to be guided by it, and according to it.

For more especiall declaration of some points more important and necessarie, we promise vniformely, to follow such order, when we preach the word of God, as in the booke by vs is set downe, in the Chapters of the office of Ministers of the word, of preaching or sermons, of Sacraments, of Baptisme, and of the Lords supper.

Further also, wee promise to followe the order set downe in the Chapters of the meetings, as farre as it concerneth the Ministers of the worde. For which purpose, we promise to meete euery sixe weekes together, in Classicall conferences, with such of the brethren here assembled, as for their neighbourhood may fit vs best: and such other, as by their aduise we shall be desired to ioyne with vs.

The like wee promise; for Prouinciall meetings euery halfe yeare from our conferences, to sende vnto them, as is set downe in the Chapter, concerning the Prouinces, and the conferences belonging vnto them, being diuided according to the order following.

Likewise also, that we will attend the generall assembly euery yeare, and at all Parliaments, and as often as by order it shall be thought good, to be assembled. Hitherto the Articles.

Now by these articles, and by their subscription vnto them, it is most euident, that the pretences made by some, are but meerly shifts: as that their purpose onely was, to haue the booke in readines against a Parliament, and that they subscribed the articles to no other ende, but onely to testifie their agreement in iudgement, for that they were charged to disagree amongst themselues. For if that had beene their intent, it had beene sufficiently performed, by subscribing to the first article onely. But they proceede on further: and entred into a certaine league, or association, binding themselues by promise; vnder their hands, what they

100 English Scottizing, for Discipline by Practise. The 3. Booke
(for their owne partes) will attempt, and as they might performe,

In the second article, (as it is apparant,) there are other lawfull meanes promised to bee vnder taken, (for the ad-uancing of the Discipline;) then prayers to God, and sup-plications to her Maiesty and the Parliament. Whereupon Littleton. Maister Littleton (a subscriber) being examined, what hee vnderstoode those meanes to bee: answereth vpon his oath, Before the that he thinketh their priuate conferences, were meant, to be those Commissio- lawfull meanes mentioned in the article. Which is according ners. to the resolution of the brethren of London, set downe before, out of *Maister Edmond*s examination: vz. that seeing they could not preuaile, by sute to the State: the Ministers
Before the themselues should set vp the Discipline, as they should bee able.
Commissio- And Maister Iohnson, is also as direct vpon his oath, to the ners. same effect, saying.

It was a generall conclusion amongst all the Classes, and brethren, that forasmuch, as the Discipline required by petitions, could not bee publikely established by lawe, it was thought in conscience necessary, to establish it and practise it priuately: to which purpose also, euery man was to vse his endimour, to encrease the number of such, as would conforme themselues that way.

Againe it is promised in the same Article, that they would proceede with their sayd meanes, for the aduancement of their Discipline, so far as the peace of the present state of our Church would suffer.

Now how farre that is, it hath beene before touched in the decrees of one of their Synodes, 1583. for as men most strangely bewitched) they imagined, that they could so cunningly play their feates, as that they (might in effect)
set vp their owne Discipline, secretely, vnder hand, and yet neuer disturbe the present gouernement of the Church.

For as peace is heere taken in their sense, one King or gouerne-

gouvernement may inuade another, with all kinde of hostility, and say (as they doo) that they meane but peace. The truth is, they may haue peace in their mouths, but in their actions, there is nothing lesse. So as this their restraint (being but a vaine pretence) doth no way indeed impeach my assertion.

Furthermore, whereas also it followeth in the same article, (and not enforce to the contrarie,) Maister Littleton being examined vpon his oath what that should meane: answereth that he himselfe, Maister Snape, Maister Proudloe, and others did agree, to put the said articles and Discipline in execution and practise, so far as the peace and the present estate of the Church will suffer, and not enforce to the contrarie. That is to say: till the Magistrate did enioyne them or enforce them, to leaue the practise of the said Discipline: and in another place, till the Magistrate did inhibite them to the contrarie, and force them to leaue it. And further, hee also sayth: that they did agree to guide themselues by the said booke of Discipline, and according to it, with the same limitation. Now what if by their secret practises, (to drawe away the peoples harts from the present gouernement of the Church) they could haue procured such strength and number, to haue followed them, as that no reasonable restraint, or force of the Magistrate had bin able to haue encountred and suppressed them? I doo but aske the question.

In the Starre Chamber.

In the rest of the Articles, there are but two generall points: the one contained in the third Article, concerning the vniformitie, which they promise to vse in their Ministry: and the other is, as touching their agreement, to follow the orders set downe for their meetinges: Classicall, contained in the fourth: Prouinciall in the fift: Nationall in the sixt article.

So as where before in the second Article, they had mentioned

102 English Scottizing, for Discipline by Practise. The 3. Booke.
tioned other meanes, whereby they had promised to aduance their Discipline, besides prayers to God, and supplications to her Maieslie: they doo nowe in part explaine themselues, in the other Article following, and doo set downe, what meanes they that were Ministers would vse and put in practise, for the aduancement of it, v<sup>z</sup>. the two points mentioned, that is, their vniformity in preachings, and their meetings: according to Maister Littletons deposition: in these words: they meant by those meanes, in the second Article, their conferences, as he thinketh. But to carry this matter past thinking: let Maister Fen be heard: who saith: that he agreed to put some things of the booke in execution, according to the sub- scription: let Maister Lord be heard: who sayth, that he agreed to put some things of the said booke in practise, as in the Articles is contained. But let their Coryphaeus Maister Gartwright himselfe be heard: who sayth, that he agreed to put two points of the Articles in execution: v<sup>z</sup>. touching the order of preaching, and touching the assemblies.

In the Starre
Chamber.

---

C H A P. XII.

It is confessed that they agreed to put one point of their booke in practise without her Maieslies assent: what it is: & of strange names giuen to children.

Now because it appeareth, in the thirde, fourth,
fift and sixt of the sayd Articles, that concerning both these points, they referre themselues
to certain Chapters of their booke of Discipline:
I haue thought it very conuenient, to set downe, out of the said Chapters, some of those particulars, which by their said subscription they bound themselues to practise, without any further staying for the ciuil Magistrate: and with-all to adioyne some part of their constancie; (if so I may abuse

abuse a good worde,) in the performing of their promises, touching the said particulars. Maister Littleton beeing sworne, dealeth (as it seemeth) very directly to this purpose: for (as he saith) concerning the contents of the foure last Articles, hee for his part, whilst hee was of that company, performed his promise, and (he thinketh) that the rest that subscribed did the like. But to the particulars: and first of the first point.

Exami. before
the Commi.

The Minister, that is to preach, shall appoint the Psalmes that is to be song, &c. After the Psalmes, let there be made a short admonition to the congregation: howe they shall prepare themselves rightly, to pray. Let a Prayer followe, containing the confession of sinnes, &c. and concluded with the Lords Prayer. After the Sermon, let Prayers be made for grace, that the auditors may profite by the doctrine deliuered: also for the whole Church, and all particular callings: and let them end likewise with the Lords Prayer. Then a Psalmes, &c. and lastly let the conclusion be made, with some short forme of blessing the congregation, taken out of the Scriptures.

De officio.
Minist. &c

For the practise of this order: I referre the prooffe of it to all those, who haue obserued the manner of any of the brethrens behauour, in their seuerall Churches. The most of them, that are but Doctours, (as they terme themselves) and readers of Lectures in other mens charges, do seldom or neuer come to the seruice, which is read in the Church according to her Maiesties Lawes: but vnder pretence of studying for their sermons, doo absent themselves, vntill seruice bee done, or at the least almost finished, and then they come in, (grauely I warrant you,) and doo goe to this their owne forme of seruice.

The rest of the fraternity, that haue cures of their own, some of them will haue a Parliament Minister, (as they terme him) vnder them, to say seruice: and then he himselfe

104 English Scottizing, for Discipline by Practise. The 3. Booke
 selfe dealeth, as it hath beene noted of the Doctor: but others, that are not able to haue such a one, they for their safer standing (as their tearme is) doo vse some piece of our seruice-booke, and peradventure reade a lesson, (which things they affirme, as it hath beene touched, may be performed as well by those, that are not ministers, as by them.)
 And then they in like sort, doo begin their owne ministrian function, and proceede according to the foresaide fashion, subscribed vnto, and promised.

But to proceede vnto their practise of other pointes of that booke.

De concioni-
 bus habendis,
 &c.

The Preachers must leane off, by little and little, as they may conueniently, to preach at burials, least thereby they nourish the superstition of some men, or giue ouer themselues to the preseruation of vanity.

De Baptismo.

*Let not women onely offer infants to Baptisme, but the father,
 if it may be conueniently, or els some others in his name.*

Let persuasions be vsed, that such names, as doo sauour either of Paganisme or Popery, bee not giuen to children at their Bap-tisme, but principally those, whereof there are examples in the Scriptures.

Whether these pointes, (especially for two of them)
 haue beene practised by the brethren or not, the newe Churchyard in London, and many brables in the country, about vrging of the natural fathers to become Godfathers to their owne children, &c, can more then sufficiently witnesse. And for the third, it is also sundry waies apparant. For whence else doo these new names and fancies proceede? The Lord is nere. More-tryall. Reformation. Discipline. Ioy-againe. Sufficient. From-aboue. Free-gifts. More-fruite. Dust. and many other such like. But Richard Hawgar of Northampton, did first vnder his hande, and after vppon his oath, deliuer an especiall history (to this purpose)

Fenner.
 Barbon.
 Are.
 Wigginton.
 &c.
 Before the Commissioners.

The 3. Booke. English Scottizing, for Discipline by Practise. 105
of giuing names.

Snape would not Baptise one Christopher Hodgkinsons childe, because hee would haue the childe called Richard. The order was this. Hodgkinson obtained promise of Snape: that he would christen his childe. But (saith Snape) you must then giue it a Christian name, allowed in the Scriptures. The partie told him, that his wiuens father, whose name was Richard, desired the name. Well (saith Snape) you must doe as I bidde you: that, when you come, the congregacion be not troubled. But notwithstanding, the said Hodgkinson not thinking it would haue beene made a matter of such importance, the child was brought. Snape proceeded in the action, till hee came to the naming of the child. And when he heard, that they called the child Richard, & that they would giue him no other name; hee staid there, and would not in any wise Baptize the child. And so the child was carried away thence, & was Baptized the weeke following, at Al-hallowes being named Richard.

Of likelyhoode, the brethren haue founde this thing to be a matter of great importance: that they wil rather leaue an infant vn baptized, then giue him such a name.

---

C H A P. XIII.

A second point of their Booke confessed to be agreed vpon, for the practise of it, without her Maiesties assent.

Now I wil come to Master Cartwrights second point, that is, of the meetings: and set downe the Chapters, wherevnto in the Articles subscribed, they referred themselues: that thereby hereafter no man, that wil read them, may doubt of their purpose, of not staying for the Magistrate: which are as follow, so nere as

I could by translation of them out of Latin, expresse their meaning.

Of the assembly of the Church.

Mutual conference is to be practised in the Church by common assemblies: but in these, matters Ecclesiasticall are to be handled, and such chieslie as concerne those Churches, whereof the assemblie doth consist.

They shall not determine, (except they be requested,) of any thing touching other Churches: but shall only decree, that such matter is to be referred to the next greater assemblie: Let the matters and order of things to be handled in them be thus.

*Next after the view or calling of those that be present, (whether in withall the names of such as be absent must be noted, that in the next Assembly, they may eyther yeeld sufficient reason of their absence, or els be censured, by the iudgement of the assemblie,) first let the Acts of the next assemblie afore, (that was of the same sort) be read: to the intent, that if any thing of them were left then undone, it may be dispatched. Then, let those matters be done, that are peculiar to the Assembly in hand. And first, let euery of them deliuer the instructions from their Churches, in the same order that they sit, together with the Fiduciary or Letters of credence of the Churches: next, let there be * censures had of the Churches of that assemblie: whereby may be understood how they are framed and used: whether the doctrine and the Discipline haue their course in them, and whether the officers of them doe that which appertaineth, and such like.*

vz inquisition (as I take it) is meant.

Besides let them decree those things, that shall concerne eyther the common behoofe of all the Churches of that assemblie, or of any one of them: and this course will be sufficient enough, for the view and ouersight of the Churches.

Lastly, (if it so seeme good) let there be inquirie & Censures had, euen of those, which be delegated to meete in that Assembly.

Such as are to meete in the Assemblies, let them be chosen, by the Suffrages of those Churches or Assemblies, that haue interest

The 3. Booke. English Scottizing, for Discipline by Practise. 107
or to doe in it: and out of these, let such only be chosen, as hath exercised some publike office in that Church, eyther of a Minister, or of an Elder, and which hath subscribed both to the doctrine and Discipline, and which haue undertaken to behaue themselves in all things according to the word of God.

It shall be lawful for other Elders & Ministers, yea & for Deacons and Students in Diuinitie, by the appointment of the assembly, (especially if they be such, as doe exercise themselves, in interpreting the Scriptures in the Assembly,) to be both present, & to bee asked their iudgements: these of the latter sort are therefore to be admitted, that their iudgements to handle the affaires of the Church, may hereby both be tried and sharpened. Yet let none be counted to haue a voice, but those onely, that were chosen by the Church, & which bring their commissions consigned vnto them.

If any matter be to bee consulted of, that is of speciall importance, let the President of the last superior Assembly, or the Minister of that Church, in which the next Assembly is to be made, send it ouer in due time vnto the Ministers of all the churches of that assembly: to the intent they may afore treat thereof, with those of their charge, and so may know and report their iudgements. In making choise of a place for the Assemblies, respect is to be had of neerenes, and other oportunities: in case any party may iustly finde himselfe grieued about the rest.

It is expedient, that in euerie Ecclesiasticall Assembly, there be a President, which may gouerne the assembly, and that he bee from time to time chaunged, if it may be conueniently: & he must be thus chosen, viz,

He that was President of the last Assembly of that kinde afore, or the Minister of that congregation, where the Assembly is made, (conceiuing first a praier directed to that purpose) shall preferre vnto the Assembly, the motion for choise of a President.

The President being thus chosen, conceiving first a Prayer fitting vnto the whole action and Assembly,) shall call over the names of those, which be present and which bee absent, and note them: that the absents may be called. vpon at the next assembly, to yeeld a reason of their absence.

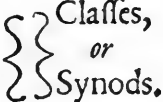

Which if it be not sufficient, let them be censured, by the authority of the Assembly. Then let him read the Actes of the last Assembly, that if any thing thereof remaine, it may then bee dispatched. Then shall he aske of euerie one in order as they sit, their letters fiduciarie or of credence, and their instructions signed. Which being propounded in the same order, and sufficiently debated by all their opinions, hee shall aske their iudgements, and gather the suffrages, and pronounce what the greater part adiudgeth. Which he shall procure to be put into Actes, that the Delegates of the seuerall Churches, may procure copies and transcripts to bee made, which they may impart vnto those Churches, to whome it appertaineth.

The President also, by the iudgement and authority of the Assembly, is to giue answer, either by word of mouth, or by letters, to such as require it. If any censures be to be inflicted, hee is to performe them. He shall also take care, that all things be godly and quietly carried, by exhorting them vnto quietnes, and moderation of minde, one bearing with another, as neede shall bee, and by preferring vp, such as be wilfull and contentious, vnto the Assembly: lastly, he shall propound vnto them, touching the time of their next meeting: and then with exhortation vnto them, chearefully to goe forward in their duety, and with thanksgiuing, he shall courteously dismisse them.

Before the dismissal of the Assembly, let no man depart, but with leaue.

The assemblies according to their seuerall kindes, if they bee greater, are of more; if they be lesse, they are of lesse authority. Therefore it is lawfull to appeale from a lesse assembly to a greater,

The 3. Booke. English Scottizing, for Discipline by Practise. 109
ter, if any man thinke he haue iniurie, except the fact be most euident and plaine vnto euery man: but yet none o: herwise, but that the iudgement of the assemblie shall hold, vntill it shall be otherwise adiudged, in an assemblie of greater authoritie.

Assemblies are eyther  Classes, or Synods.

Classes are conferences of the fewest Ministers of Churches, standing neare together, as for example of twelue.

The chosen men of all the seuerall Churches of that assembly, are to meete in conference; that is to say, for euery Church a minister and an Elder: and they shall meete euerie fortnight. They shall chiefly endeouour the ouersight and censure of that Classis: searching particularly, whether in them euery thing be done, according to the holy doctrine and discipline of the Gospell: v:z. Whether any question bee arisen, touching any point of doctrine.

Whether the Ecclesiasticall discipline haue his course.

Whether any Minister be wanting in any of the Churches, that they may speedily prouide a fit person.

Whether the rest of the Elders and Officers of the Church, bee appointed in euery Church.

Whether care be had, ouer schollers, and the poore.

In what pointes the Classes doo want aduise, for the further aduancing of the Gospell among them.

Before they make an ende, let some of the Ministers present, make a sermon, either in course, or being chosen thereto by voyces. Of whome the rest of the Ministers (secluding the Elders) shall iudge among themselues: and if in any point, it shall be requisite, they shall monish him brotherly: weighing euery thing, according to the course, afore laid-downe in the Chapter, touching those things things, which are to be performed by him that preacheth to the congregation.

Synodes.

A Synode is an assembly of chosen men, from one or two Churches, then those that be in one Classis, or conference.

In these, the Articles of the holy Discipline and Synodically, must alwaies be read: also in them, (after all other things be finished,) censures or inquisition made, upon all that be present: and the supper of the Lorde shall be celebrated by them, in and with that congregation, where the Assembly is made, if conveniently it may be.

Of Synodes there be two sortes: the first is particular, and this containeth under it both }	Prouinciall	}	Synodes.

}	and	}
}	Nationall	}

A Prouinciall Synode, is an assembly of those, which bee delegated from all the Classes or conferences of that Prouince.

Let every Prouince containe in it 24. Classes.

This may be a fite order, for the assembling together of a Synode Prouinciall, v.z. Let this care be laid upon some certaine Church, by consent of the Synode: let that Church, with aduise of the Classis whereof it is, prefixe the place and time for the Assembly: let other Churches, sende vnto such Church, those matters which seeme vnto them of some difficultie to determine: and likewise those matters, that doo appertaine to the whole Prouince, and that diligently in conuenient season: to th' intent, that that Church may in due time giue aduertisement vnto all the Classes of the Prouince, both of the time and place, and of the matters to be handled: so that such as are sent, may come better prepared, & and that they may iudge thereof, according to the resolution of they

The 3. Booke. English Scottizing, for Discipline by Practise. 111
their owne severall Classes or conferences.

Let every Classis sende unto the Prouinciall Synode two Ministers, and as many Elders.

It shall bee called every halfe yeare, or more often, untill the Discipline be confirmed.

But before a Nationall Synode be celebrated, let it be called three months afore, that they may prepare, and furnish up those things, that belong unto it.

Let the Actes of all the Prouinciall Synodes be sent unto the Nationall, by that Church, in which the Prouinciall assembly was had: and let every Minister be furnished, with the copies of the Actes, and with the reasons used.

The Nationall, is a Synode consisting of the Delegates from all the Synods Prouinciall, that are within the dominion of one common-wealth. Let the manner of calling it, be the same, that is appointed for calling the Prouinciall, except the Synode it selfe shall take other order herein: v.z. by some certaine Church: yet so, as the said Church doe appoint for place and time (to holde it in) such as the Prouinciall Synode of that Church, which shall next ensue, shall determine, and thinke good.

For the Nationall Synode, three Ministers and three Elders must be chosen, out of every Synode Prouinciall.

In it, the common affaires of all the Churches of the whole nation and kingdome, are to be handled: as of Doctrine, Discipline, and ceremonies: causes not decided in inferiour Assemblies, Appellations, and such like.

By the decree of the Nationall Synode, one is to be chosen, which shall reduce the commentaries or Actes of all the severall Churches, into one body.

Hitherto concerning particular assemblies. Now follows the vniuersall or oecumenicall Synode of the whole world.

And

And this is the Synode, that consisteth and is gathered together, of the chosen men out of every particular Nationall Synode.

The Acts of all Synodes, are to be reduced into one body.

And thus farre these Chapters of the meetings: the particular points whereof, maister Cartwright, and his companions, haue bound themselves, by their subscriptions, to put in practise, without any further expectation for her Maiesties assent. And according to these pointes, (as their numbers and oportunities haue serued their turnes) they haue accomplished their bonds and promises; as by that which hath bene saide, and by depositions vppon othes, concerning their meetings and dealinges in them, is most apparant, to any that is not blinded with wilfull obstinacie.

---

CHAP. XIII.

Some points of their booke put in practise: fasts: calling of Ministers: presbyteries: censures, &c.

Vrthermore also, they haue not contented themselves with the execution of these things onely, but they haue besides proceeded, in like manner, with the full practising almost of all the rest of the booke.

It is most notorious, that according to the doctrine thereof, they haue taken vppon them, to appoint publicke fasts: and then especially they haue done it, when their fellowes haue bene most busie, to trouble the present estate of the Church. Besides that, these fasts with their seuerall sermons and other prophecies,

The 3. Booke. English Scottizing, for Discipline by Practise. 113
ings, haue had another principal vse: vz. (as Lord did write to Fen of maister Cartwrights pleasure) that the day following, the brethren might talke of other matters.

Likewise (saith maister Johnson) touching the election and making of ministers, I thinke they obserue, as much as they can, the order prescribed in the said booke of Discipline. As about Proudloe, of Weedenbeck his admission, (as I haue heard) and Snapes and Larkes. The manner whereof is, that they renounce the calling, they haue had of the Bishops, and doe take it again, from the approbation of the Classis. And againe: they will be content to accept orders from the Bishop, as a ciuill matter, but doe not thereby account themselues Ministers, vntill the godly brethren of some Classis haue allowed them. But more fully Richard Hawgar. The first degree they haue entered into, is this:
that teaching all Ministers, which are called according to the order of the Church of England, to bee vnlawfull: they doe vrge, such as they dare trust, and who are Ministers already) to seeke at their Classis a new approbation, which they terme the Lords ordinance.

Johnson before the Cōmissioners.

Rich. Hawgar
his depositiō.

In this action, the Minister before allowed of, must renounce his former calling, and take that calling: (wherby he must stand) of them.

The manner whereof, is this: when any doe yeeld hereunto, they appoint a day of their Classis, &c: As the example following wil shew. One master Hocknel, being to haue a benefice, was willed (by his Patrone) to bring some testimoniall, of the Ministers of the shyre for his good conuersation. Whereupon hee came to Maister Snape. Who dealt with him (as is afore mentioned,) and Hocknell hauing beene a Minister before, (some sixe or seauen yeares) yeelding: Snape, with his compassions gaue him a text, and appointed him a day.

At which time the Classis met in Saint Peters: and hee preached. After, they assembled themselues, willing Hocknell to stand aloofe. Then Maister Penry beganne to make a speech, exhorting them to be carefull, to call upon God: to deale without affectiō in this their action. &c. After which, they fell to the matter. Some liked, that the man shuld be admitted, & some otherwise. Those that were against him made these two reasons. First, that hee had not iumped meete, in deliuering the Metaphore, which was in his text: secondly because he was neyther Grecian nor Hebrician. So as they ouerruling the rest, Hocknell was called for, and in some sort commended: but yet the speaker of the Classis told him, he must take more paines at his book, before they could allow of him, as a fit Minister. Hereupon Master Hocknell and they fell out: and he (contemning their censure) did proceede, and tooke possession of his benefice.

When they call a man, that is not alreadie a Minister: then hauing used the order before mentioned, they command him to goe to the Bishops, as to a ciuile Magistrate, for his writings, (which they tearme by a prettie name that this ex. hath forgotten: and this they say, is onely for his safe standing in his former calling, receiued of them: not that thereby hee receaueth any power to be a Minister. On this sort was Master Lark (dwelling a little from Wellingborow) called.

After this calling by them, the parties so called, may preach here and there, as he thinketh good, vntill hee bee called to a charge: & then he must go to the Bishop, for his better standing, and so the people calling him, he is a full Minister.

Maister Snape being a Minister already, renounced that his first calling: was called by the Classis: by that calling hee preached, but would not administer the Lords Supper. After the parish of Saint Peters knowing, that he must not account himselfe

The 3. Booke. English Scottizing, for Discipline by Practise. 115
a full Minister, vntill some particular congregation, had chosen him, they chose him for their Minister, and so he standeth at this present. Thus saith Hawger.

It is likewise deposed by two, that Maister Snape for the answering of a question propounded vnto him, said, that rather then he would haue stood, by vertue of any Letters of orders, he would haue bin hanged vpon the gallowes.

Rich. Holmes.
Rich. Hawger
before the Comissioners.

But let Maister Snape speake himselfe. Touching the substance of my calling to the ministerie: I affirme, that I had it of the church of God, being approued by the learned & godly neighbour Ministers, and chosen by the people of my charge, to that function. Touching that allowance, that I had of the Bishop, I take it to be a thing meere cyuile, belonging to a ciuile Magistrate: which authoritie he hath by Act of Parliament, & which therefore I might lawfully receaue at his hands, for the peaceable execution of my Ministry.

Snape in a writing of his owne hand.

Againe, concerning the Presbyteries, (which the booke affirmeth shuld be in euery parish:) they (want in effect) nothing of all their whole platforme: if they could but once attaine vnto the publike erecting vp of those thrones. And how far it is likely they haue already preuailed therein, without staying any longer for her Maiestie; let these things following, whereof some haue bene touched already, make it knowne vnto you. Mention hath bene made of a Presbytery set vp at Wandsworth. It was a decree of the London brethren, that the Ministers should by little & little, as much as possibly they might, draw the Discipline into practise, though they concealed the names, eyther of Presbytery, Elder or Deaco, making little account of the names for the time, so their offices might secretly be established. There was an order sette downe, in an assembly (1583. as I take it) for the conuerting of Churchwardens and Collectors into Elders

Ma. Edmonds

116 English Scottizing, for Discipline by Practise. The 3. Booke
ders and Deacons: as before in the Actes themselues it ap-peareth. According to this order the brethren afterward sent their directions abroad, to their fellowes, for their execution of it. I receued (saith Master Barbon) from our faith- full brother Maister Gelibrande, - a direction of the brethren, concerning the Conuerting of Churchwardens into Elders, and Collectors into Deacons. Richard Holmes affirmeth that by such speeches as he hath heard, hee doth verily thinke, that the Ministers in their Classes haue resolved, to erect vp their seuerall Presbyteryes, in their owne parishes. With him agreeth Master Iohnson: according to the rules of that booke, I thinke that sercedly in most places, where the brethren of the Classes are, there are Elders chosen, and that they put the Discipline in practise, so farre as they may, amongst themselues, without any apparant shew thereof, to the ouerthrow of their late-standing.
 Further also he depoleth, that he himselfe hath beene blamed diuers times, priuatelie, in that he would make no such choise of Elders, (where he preached,) to practise the Discipline. And what els should Gellibrand meane, by these words in a Letter to Field? I haue written to Maister Cartwright seuerally, and ioyntly to him and the Elders, signifying my readines, and what aduersaries there are.

Lastly there was a nomination of Elders, at Kilsby in Northampton-shiere, made by Maister Lee the Pastor, in the yeare 1588. Their names as it was deposed before Sir George Farmer and Sir Iohn Spencer, were, William Greene, Roger Cowley, Thomas Hall, Richard Wolfe, Iohn Browne, and William Mariat: which sixe (saith the deponent,) Maister Lee thought sufficient to determine and end all matters of controuersie in the said towne. Henry Pinson also affirmeth, that he being enformed of this election of Elders, by the said Browne and others would not yeelde his consent thereunto, but said hee would stand to the lawes of this realme, appointed by her Maiestie.

Barbon to Field.

Holmes.

Iohnson,

Ioh. Browne.

One especiall reason, (as it was enformed) why Pinson refused in this sort to ioyne with his neighbours, was: for that there should haue beene some punishment, inflicted by the said Elders vpon his sonne, for flinging a stone at Elder-Mariats window, which he would none of, but was faine to flie to her Maiesties lawes.

So here then it appeareth (in some sort,) whether the brethrē meant, to stay any more for the ciuile Magistrate, in erecting of their Presbyteries: then they confesse they did, concerning their uniformitie in Sermons and tripartite meetings.

Besides, it doth also appertaine to the further prooffe of the said Presbyteries, that (as it seemeth) some of those censures haue beene vsed: for example, excommunication: Which (by the rules of the Discipline booke) are of right to be exercised by them. One Bluet a Minister (as I suppose) being excōmunicated (as it seemeth) did write a Letter to Field and Egerton: wherein hee is most earnest, that vpon his repentaunce hee might bee restored againe to the Church. Woe is me (saith he) that I am cast out of your presence this day: but shame and sorrow is vnto the cause. And if this woe and shame did but touch the bodie, it were tollerable: for then at the day of death I should end my miserie, and no more heare the words of reproach. For now euery one that seeth mee, reprooueth me: and I am become a rebuke vnto all men. But this is not all. Woe is me, that there is a partition-wall, betweene heauen and my conscience, &c. If my offence may not bee passed by, without further confession: euen before God and his Church in London, will I lie downe and licke the dust at your feet, and confesse more against my selfe then any of you know. Seuere Caroes, I warrant you. But is this the matter they contend for, that men may fall downe, and kisse their feete?

There is also another example to this effect, worthie of your remembrance: one La. Thomson writeth in this sort of it. I thinke of him as an vsound member, unfit to bee continued in the bodie, vnles he would be subiect to the gouernment of a bodie, especially the bodie of our sauing God. The partie meant by Thomson, was (as I take it) maister Wilcox, the author of that admonition, which cauled the first breaking-out, of all those troubles, that since haue ensued. This appeareth by foure letters, written about the yeare 1583. three of them from Field to Wilcox, and one from Wilcox to Field. What the cause was, though it bee expressed in one of the said Letters, I omit to rehearse it, no waies minding to touch any mans priuate behauiour or infirmities. But this I must tel you, that the brethren, (that is in Thomsons sense, the body of our sauing God,) were to displeased and angrie with him, that they suspended him from his Ministerie, and did vse their censure of excommunication against him.

If you aske mee how Wilcox tooke this course at their handes, I answere, euen as Pinson before named did, when his sonne should haue bene punished: hee disliked it so much, as that hee began to call their authoritie (for such kind of their proceedings,) in question, he refused to submit himselfe to their censures, and told Field plainly, that he had bin dealt disorderly withall, both for matter and manner: adding that hee had perhaps concealed as great infirmities of Fields, and of some others, as his were.

With these and many such like words Field was greatly prouoked, and for his owne part defied him. Wher eas (saith hee) for the hiding of your owne shame, you beginne to score vp my faults, which you say are sixe in number, as great as yours, if you should vtter them: I say it is no help to you, but testifieth that old pride, hypocrisie and malice, which long time hath lurked in that cankered heart of yours, &c. But I doe desie you,
&c.

&c. And for his refusing of their proceedings: you ought not (saith Field) so lightly to esteeme, that holy censure of the brethren, but in true repentance to haue hidden your face, &c. Againe: if God hath made you an instrument, to seeke for the aduancement of Christs Scepter: kisse it your selfe and bee subiect vnto it &c. Againe, if you loue Christ and his Church, before your owne glorie, and your owne sinnes haue shut vp your mouth: then be silent for euer. And notwithstanding that Wilcox tooke exception to their authoritie, yet in the Letter wherein Field answereth thit point, and many others, he beginneth thus. The Lord Iesus open your eyes, and giue you such a true sence, and feeling of your sins, that howsoeuer you for a time) be throwne to Sathan, in the end your soule may be saued, and you may feele assurance of eternall life, &c.

What the issue of this matter was amongst them, I find it not. It seemeth that in the end, Wilcox for lacke of his former maintenance, (which was withheld from him by the brethrens procurement, & vpon perswasion that after a time he should be restored to his ministerie againe, and in the meane space be relieued) he was faine to yeeld and to submit himselfe vnto their censure, (by them tearmed the Scepter of Christ.) Marrie still he thought himselfe to be hardly vsed, and after some time of expectation, desired (as it seemeth) to know, how long hee should vndergoe their heauie indignation. Whereunto Field answered thus. The brethren thought meet to admonish you, utterly to surcease. For how long or how short, mee thinkes you should not enquire, considering the circumstances: who know very well your selfe, that if an other were in your case, that no time can bee limited. Neuerthelesse, if you doubt the iudgement to bee too hard, that already is giuen, you may aske the private opinions of others your best friends, as of Master Cartwright, and M. Thomson, who are of mind that you are for euer disabled to that function, &c.

CHAP. XV.

They haue ioyned themselues into an association or brotherhood, and doe appropriate to their meetings the name of the Church.

Here is often mention made, in the premisses of the brethren, but yet in none other sense, thē they appropriate to themselves, in sundrie of their writings and Letters, as <sup>a</sup> Salute the brethren. Salute the breuerend brethren, Maister Trauers, Chark Barber, Gardner, Egerton. Salute<sup>c</sup> our most reuerend brother Maister Cartwright. Salute<sup>d</sup> our reuerend brother Maister Cartwright, and the rest of the brethren. The<sup>e</sup> brethren salute you. Commend<sup>f</sup> me to all our brethren. Commend mee<sup>g</sup> to all the brethren with you: the brethren with vs here are in health. Commend<sup>h</sup> me to Maister Charke and Maister Trauers, with all the rest of the brethren. Remember<sup>i</sup> me to the brethren. Let him<sup>k</sup> be accounted among the brethren, as hee deserueth. I writ to my Mother, to speake to you and our good brethren, to provide me of some honest brother, to Catechise my family. To<sup>l</sup> Maister Field, with the rest of the Godly Ministers, his brethren, in London. To his beloued<sup>m</sup> brother, Maister Field, and to all other his faithfull brethren, namely of the Ministry, at or about London. Our<sup>n</sup> brethren haue determined. I trust<sup>o</sup> you are so linked together, by the bond of brotherly loue, and the desire of the pure Discipline of the church, that nothing may sunder you. The brethren assembled: the Godly brethren: our pore brethren here, (at Oxford) do long to heare from you: and, in the Articles wher-vnto they subscribed: we the brethren, &c.

Vppon the occasion of these termes, and many other such

<sup>a</sup> Barbon to Field.
<sup>p</sup>ig to Field.
 Snapeto Stone.
<sup>b</sup> Barbonto Field.
<sup>c</sup> D. Chapman to Field.
<sup>d</sup> Pig to Field
 2586.
<sup>e</sup> Gellibrand from Oxford to Field.
<sup>f</sup> Wake to Field.
<sup>g</sup> Knewstubb to Field.
<sup>h</sup> Wade to Field.
<sup>i</sup> Barbon to Field.
<sup>k</sup> L. Thomson to Field.
<sup>l</sup> Lord to Field.
<sup>m</sup> Wigginton to Field.
<sup>n</sup> D. Chapman to Field.
<sup>o</sup> Gellibrand to Field.

such like: it is found out by examination, that this Classicall and reforming consort, with their followers, haue diuided themselues from all the rest of the ministerie, and Christians in England: and linked themselues into a newe brotherhood, with this lincke, v<sup>z</sup>. (as Doctor Cricke rearmeth it) the desire of the pure Discipline: thereby shewing themselues to be most notorious Schismatickes.

Cricke to Field.

When salutations are written, (saith maister Johnson) by the brethren that seeke reformation, as vnto the godly brethren: the meaning is, (as I euer tooke it) to such as haue submitted themselues vnto the holy Discipline. Again, when the name brother, is giuen to ministers, it signifieth them to be of some Classis, for their consulting and setting up of Christes kingdome: and when to the laitie, those that generally do ioyne with the ministers for the discipline, and doe euery of them submit themselues to a minister of some of the Classis, &c. And these, both ministers and people, are the godly brotherhood, denying the name properly of a godly brother or sister to any other. The same also (in effect) hath he deposed in the Starre-chamber: where he further addeth, that thus he thought himselfe, when hee was of that brotherhood, and that it was so commonly maintayned, both by him, and by the rest of the Northampton Classis.

Johnson.

And maister Edmondes, in like maner, hath deposed as much to the same purpose, both in the Starre-chamber, & before her Maiesties Commissioners for causes ecclesiasticall. This (saith he) I do know, that when salutations were sent, or letters written to London from some Ministers abroad, as from Fen or Cartwright, &c. to maister Field & the rest, &c. therby was alwaies meant, properly, the ministers or the brotherhood of the Ministry in London: and when they use the name or phrase of godly brethren, or sisters, or godly brotherhood or sisterhood, they meane generally both all the said Ministers, and likewise as many, as do depend vpon them for the cause of reformation. So as the rest of the Ministers and people, who and where soeuer, that doe not ioyne with them, (as is before said) are altogether excluded out of their brotherhood: insomuch, as they will auoide the company of all other, as much as they can possibly, refusing eyther to buy or sell, or to eat or drinke with them.

Edmondes.

Againe, it may not in any wise be omitted, that in their seuerall said letters & other writings, they vse oftentimes the name of the Church, and of the Churches: in as lewd a fence, as they do the name of brethren. Thus they write. I know<sup>a</sup> the state of this Church: Make knowne to vs the state of the Church with you. Our Churches<sup>b</sup> are in danger of such, as hauing beene of vs, do renounce all fellowship with vs.

<sup>a</sup> Snape to Field.
<sup>b</sup> Knewstub to Field.
<sup>c</sup> Knewstub to Field.

The<sup>c</sup> hand of God is like to be heauy vpon our Churches here, if the malice of Sathan and his instruments be not preuented. A woman with vs, &c. sometimes thought to be a friend to Religion, &c.: giueth it forth, that Maister Walsh had laid witchcraft vpon her. She would haue had him conuented, by some of the Iustices: but when he was once named she was repelled. Now she is come to London &c.: She deuiseth newe matter against him, and against vs all, as that wee should haue had meetings at her house &c. and that wee haue a priuate iurisdiction among our selues, thinking that this will make her entrance vnto the Archbishop, or high Commissioners &c. I pray you first conferre with maister Walsh: and then deale, (as secretly as you may) to medicine these mischiefes.

Good Iustice.

<sup>d</sup> Blake to Field.
<sup>e</sup> Gelibrand to Field.
<sup>f</sup> Rob. Bluet to Field and Egerton.
<sup>g</sup> Fenne to Field.

It is long<sup>d</sup> since I heard from you, (saith one Blake) of the state of the Church of London. Another, By M. West<sup>e</sup> & M. Browne, you shall vnderstand the state of the Churches, wherein we are. A third: If my offence<sup>f</sup> may not be passed by, without a further confession, euen before God and his Church, in London: will I lie downe, and lick the dust at your feete, and confesse &c. A fourth: I receiued a letter<sup>g</sup> from you in the name of the rest of the brethren: whereby I vnderstand your ioyning together, in choosing

The III. Book, English Scottizing, for Discipline by practise. 123 choosing of my selfe, vnto the seruice of the Church, vnder the Earle of Leicester, &c. I am ready to runne, if the Church com- mand me, according to the holy decrees and orders of the disci- pline. By these their speeches it appeareth, that as they haue cut off themselues from the fellowship of the rest of the Christians in England, by ioyning themselues into a se- uerall brotherhood: so haue they already seduced her Maiesties subiects, by gathering them together into a new societie, whereunto they doe appropriat the name of the Church: as though all other Churches in the realme, were but as Iewish Sinagogues or heathenish assemblies. This is not, (you shall see) my bare collection: heare the witness- ses, what they hereof haue deposed.

In these brethrens speeches of the Church or Churches: it is to Johnsa.
be vnderstood, that by the Church of England, they meane the Church according to humaine lawes and the Popes: which is ru- led, (as they terme it) by an Antichristian gouernement. And by the Godly Churches, or the Churches of God in Eng- land, they meane such places, congregations, or assemblies, as doe embrace the reformation, and haue such a minister, as is of some Classis.

Sometime also by the Church, (as the Church of God in Lon- don) is meant the Classis of the brethren, or their Synods. And so maister Edmondes: when they vse these, or the like speeches, Edmondca.
in their writing or otherwise: vz. the Church or Churches of God heere, wish this or that, or the Church in London hath done
this or that: therby they especially meane, the Ministers theselues.

But for the further clearing of this matter: because the chiefe Rabbies of this conspiracie, do themselues preach in our material Churches, it is to be obserued; that the parish where they preach, being assembled, is not the Church properly in their sence: but as many thereof onely, as are ioyned vnto them with that inuiolable bond mentioned:

vz: the desire of the godly discipline: and those furthermore, who leauing their owne parish Churches; doe come vnto them. As for example: The Church of God (forth) in the Black Fryers, doth consist, besides that parish, of a number of men and Marchauntes wiues, disperfed here and there throughout the whole Citie. Be content to hear the depositions, that are taken to like purpose. Maister Snape affirmed (as Richard Holmes and Richard Hawgar haue depofed): that here one, & there one, picked out of the Prophane and common multitude, and put a-part to serue the Lord: maketh the Church of God, and not the generall multitude. Maister Iohnson saith, that the brethren of the laitie doe seldome come to their owne parish Churches, nor receiue the communion there, otherwise then they are compelled for feare of trouble. For they account those their pastors onely, whom they do so choose. And maister Edmonds, vpon his experience in London. The people of this brotherhood, do seldome come to their owne parish Churches, otherwise then for feare, to incurre some daunger of lawes: neither do they accompt the minister of their parishes, to bee any of their pastors properly: except he be some one of the brethren Ministers, before specified, or very effectually inclining that way.

It is likewise to bee obserued, that if any of this factiom, brotherhood, or sisterhood, do lie dangerously sicke: they do seldome or neuer, send for their owne pastors to visite them: nor moue them to pray for them, publikely. in their owne parish as neglecting their praier: but do send to the Readers abroad, whom they haue chosen for their pastors, both to come vnto them, & to pray with them, and for them, in their assemblies.

This also is to bee obserued, that the strieter sort of this crue, when they lie at the point of death, will haue no bell tolled for them: and many of them do take order, before their death: that afterwarde, they be not buried in any Church: that there bee no sermon: nor any manner of buriall vsed, which is prescribed.

Snape,
Holmes.
Hawgar.

Edmonds.

CHAP. XVI.

A ridiculous pretence of laws: with a recapitulation of the summe of this third booke.

Si they countenance these their conuenticles, & vnlawful assemblies before specified, with the name of the Church: so with the like boldenesse, (to the same purpose) some of them are not ashamed to affirme: that by the doctrine of the Church of England, and by the lawes and statutes of this Realm, the present gouernment of the Church of Englad, vnder her Maiestie, by Archbishops and Bishops, is to bee accounted wicked and vnlawfull, and withall (in effect) that by the saide doctrine, lawes, and statutes, all the former proceedings, decrees, &c. of the brethren, are to bee maintayned and iustified. As by the particular proofes following, it will appeare.

Martin Iun.

The offices<sup>a</sup> of Lord Archbishops and Bishops, &c. (saith Martin Iunior) are condemned, by the doctrine of the Church of a Martin Iun.
England. The doctrine that condemneth the places of Lords
Bishops is<sup>b</sup> approoued by the statutes of this Realme, and her b Thef. 49
Maiesties prerogative royall. To be<sup>c</sup> a Lord Bishop is dire- c Thef. 50
ctly against the Statute: 13. Elizab. According<sup>d</sup> to the do- d Thef. 78.
ctrine of the Church of England, our Prelates haue no authoritie
to make Ministers, or to proceede to any ecclesiasticall censure:
their<sup>e</sup> citations, processses, excommunications, &c. are neither e Thef. 82 to bee obeyed nor regarded. Men ought<sup>f</sup> not to appeare in their f Thef. 83 Courtes: a man being excommunicated by them, ought not to g Thef. 84
seeke any absolution at their hands. And in the behalfe of the brethren, he doth also further affirme: that by the<sup>h</sup> said do- h Thef. 72.
ctrine of the Church of England &c. all Ministers bee of equall

i Thef. 80.

authoritie: that the<sup>l</sup> godly ministers ought to ordaine those, that would enter into that function, without any leaue of the prelates, and not so much as once to suffer them to take any approbation of the prelates: that<sup>k</sup> euery minister is bound to preach the Gospell, notwithstanding the inhibition of the Bishops: that<sup>l</sup> a man being once made a minister, is not to be kept backe from preaching, by the inhibition of any creature: and<sup>m</sup> that by the saide doctrine, &c. all ministers are bound by subscription, &c. to disauow the Hierarchie of Bishops.

k Thef. 85.

l Thef. 86.

m Thef. 106.

When you shall reade these strange assertions, so farre passing any ordinary bounds of common modestie: think with your selues, that it is no maruaile, to see their writings so full of authorities. For I do assure you, that euen in the like sort, and with the same sinceritie & faithfulness, doe they alledge for their platformes, both Scriptures, Councils, Fathers and Histories.

Moreouer, what with the pretence of Gods law, of mans law, and (I know not) of what law, they haue been suffered to go so farre against all lawes: that now they haue taken such heart, as that some of them are not affraid to affirme (and that in print because the people might take notice of it): that there is no authoritie, which may lawfully suppress their foresaid proceedinges. No Magistrate (saith one of the brotherhood) may lawfully mayme or deforme the body of Christ, which is the Church: no lawfull Church-gouernment is changeable, at the pleasure of the Magistrate: of necessitie all christian Magistrates are bound, to receiue this gouernment, &c.

Martin Iun.
Thef. 17. 18.
22.

And thus hitherto you haue seen the proceedings of our English reformers according to their ringleaders actions in Scotland: they haue had their draughts of discipline: they haue subscribed a particular book for England: they haue put their former platformes, & their said particular books, (for the most part of it) in practise, as neare as they could:
they

they haue had their meetinges and Synodes, generally throughout all the lande: they haue made decrees & conclusions, not only to further their own conspiracy, but also to ouerthrow the present gouernment of the Church: they haue had in some places their Elders: they haue exempted themselues from the ecclesiastical gouernment in this Realme, accounting the same, (in some respects,) to be Antichristian, and so not to be obeyed, (& in some other) to be a meere ciuile, and a parliament church-gouernment: and in that regard, onely after a sort, to be yielded vnto, for their better & safer standing, in their owne seditious and consistorian waies. They haue, by their false glosses, seduced many of her Maiesties subiectes: they haue combined themselues together, into a strange brotherhood. They challenge to their vnlawfull and seditious assemblies, the true and most proper name of the Church:

They say their doings are according to law.

They affirme (in effect) that no Magistrate may lawfully ouerthrow that, which they haue builded: inasmuch, as now it is saide, that the Bishops, in seeking by the authority which her Maiestie hath giuen and confirmed vnto them, to maintaine (as they are bound) the present church-gouernment and state, established by her highnes lawes within this Realme, and to suppress and reforme their schismaticall & seditious disorders, and such like, are the disturbers of the peace of the church: that the Bishops beginne the<sup>b</sup> quarrel in disquieting of them, who in towne and country, were very greatly at unity, & tooke sweete counsell together, for the profiting of the Church. That<sup>c</sup> the Bishops are the schismatickes, and not they: that the crime of schisme, which the prelates would fasten vpon them, doth iustly cleaue to the Bishops: and that<sup>d</sup> Bishops may be discharged by the Church.

And they haue entred already into this consideration,

<sup>a</sup> The humble motion
pa. 84.

<sup>b</sup> The humble motion
pa. 84.

<sup>c</sup> Epistle to the discouerie of
R. B. &c.

<sup>d</sup> Register
pa. 69.

Lord to Fen.
1589.

how Archbishops, Bishops, Chauncellors, Deanes, Cannons, Archdeacons, Commissaries, Registers, Apparitors &c. (All which, by their said pretended reformation, must be thrust from their livings.) should be provided for, that the common wealth be not thereby pestred with beggars.

Whereby it appeareth, that (in their owne conceites) they haue already attained their soueraintie. They and their conuenticles (forsooth) are the true Church: and all England besides is in a schisme.

So as now it may be dayly expected, when these godly brethren, for a full conclusion of their attempts, will take vpon them, (as their maisters did in Scotland) to discharge the estate of Bishops, and to direct their commissioners, to her most excellent Maiestie, commanding both her and her highnesse most honourable priue Councill, vnder the pain of excommunication, to appoint no Bishops hereafter, because they haue concluded that state to bee vnlawfull: and that furthermore her Highnes, vnder the same penaltie, shall not presume from thenceforth, either any longer to maintaine the present Antichristian Church-governement, or once to attempt the ouerthrowing of theirs. And thus much of this matter, vz. concerning our English reformers, and their imitation of the Ministers of Scotland, in that seeing they could not preuaile, with their suites & supplications to her Maiestie and the Parliament, for the setting vp of their discipline: they haue taken vpon them to doe it themselues.

The end of the third Booke.

THE

THE FOURTH BOOKE OF DISCIPLINARY GROUNDES
and Practises.

---

CHAP. I.

Some of them seeme to growe desperate, and propound to themselves a strange example to follow, for the aduancing of their Discipline.

As the Ministers of Scotland with their adherentes, finding sondry impedimentes in theyr foresaide proceedings, and in the setting-up of their discipline, did grow to be very angry, & ther vpon often-times before they came to armes or violence, did cast out many greate speeches and threatnings (as it hath beene before declared): euen so also it fareth now rightly, with our Disciplinarians in England. They threaten and bragge aboue measure, what shall come to passe: and I pray God they be suffered to go no further.

One of the brethren, (in the name of the rest,) complaining, that they are oppugned, and (as he saith) persecuted, desireth that the same may be provided for: and addeth ther-

*S

withal

130 Eng. Scottizing for Discipline by threatenings. The 4. Book.
withall these words. It is the case already of many a thousand in this land: yea it is the case of as many, as seeke the Lorde aright, &c. Great troubles will come of it, if it be not provided for.

Suppl. pa. 61,

None seeke the Lord aright but this brotherhood. Great ioy of them. But what troubles meane they? That, an other seemeth to cleare: where he sayeth; that they can endure no such hard dealing, as is vled against them any longer. Alas (saith hee) wee are neuer able to stand against the poverty, losses, imprisonment, discountenance, by our superiors, that our bretheren haue sustayned &c. Neuer able to swallow up the slaunders, and bitter names of puritanes, precisians, traitors, seditious libellers &c. Why? what will you doe?

The best that can bee gathered of his wordes, is this.
Come, (saith hee) let vs make a Captaine, and returne againe into Egypt. If they haue not their mindes, the danger may bee, which in deede will bring some troubles that they are not vnlike to become either Atheists or Papistes.

Shortlie after the straunge attempt before mentioned that was made against the king of Scotland, Anno 1585, by ten thousand of his owne people at Sterling: (whereby the consistorian Ministers preuailed, aswell against their Soueraigne, as against their Bishops, for the aduancing of their presbyteries): there came out a rayling Dialogue, here in England published abroad in print and scattered
by the brotherhoode, throughout the whole Realme.

This Dialogue is intituled: the state of the church of England laid open in a conference, betweene Diotrephe ( representing the person of a Bishop,) Tertullus a Papist, (brought in to pleade for the orders of our church,) Demetrius, a Usurer (signifying such as liue by vnlawful trades:) Pandocheus, an Inkeeper, (a receyuer of al, and a soother of eue-

The 4. Book. Engl. Scottizing, for Discipline by threatenings. 131 ry man for his gaine:) and Paule a preacher of the worde of God: (sustaying the place and persons of the Consistoriall brethren.)

Where, (by the way,) see againe the account they make of all that do maintaine the present state of the Church:
they are but ambitious worldlings : Papistes : liuers
by unlawfull trades : and men pleasers . But themselues are Apostles.

In this Dialogue, Paule is set forth as a man desirous, (vpon
the Innekeepers motion,) to heare some good newes from Scotland: who meeting with the Bishop, hee vseth him according to the Consistorian humor : that is, most proudly, most spitefully, and most slanderously. He con-demneth both the calling of Bishops as Antichristian, and censureth al their proceedings, as wicked, Popish, vnlawfull, and cruell. He affirmeth that all the good, that hath beene done for the present flourishing estate of the Gos-pell in England: hath <sup>a</sup> beene brought to passe, by those men, <sup>a E. r.</sup> whom the Bishops despise, and by that course, which they were e-uer enemies vnto. He saith, that <sup>b</sup> very many of all degrees, <sup>b F. 1.</sup> are fully perswaded in the matters of reformation, and that he is perswaded, this will come of it, vz. that he shall see the gouerne-ment of the Church,, (by the rules of their discipline) set up before it be long.

The Bishop is supposed to haue beene sent out of England into Scotland, for the suppressing of the Presbyteries
there: and so is made, vpon his returne homewarde, to be the reporter of the Scottish affaires, and withall to signifie his great feare, least he and the rest of the Bishops in England, should bee serued shortly, as the Bishops had lately beene in Scotland, namely at Edenburgh and Sainct Andrewes &c.

Al (saith the pretended Bishop) my hoste. The Puritanes

.1.B

in Scotland haue got-up their discipline, and vterly ouerthrowne all the soueraignty of Bishops: by which they preuailed so mightily, that we feared, our fall in England shortlie to ensue. Whereupon I was sent, together with this my friend (Tertullus,) who came out of Fraunce into England: to goe and seeke the subuersion of their great assemblies, and the rest of their iurisdiction: wherein I preuailed a while, but now it is worse then euer it was. And it came so to passe: because the whole land cried for Discipline againe; and the Noble men so stiffly did stand to it: and lastly the Ministers that came home from England, dealt so boldly with the king; that I was vterly cast out, without all hope euer to doe any good there againe, and now I make homeward in hast, least I loose all there also.

Here you haue the brethrens approbation of the aforesaide attempt in Scotland: whereby it is apparaunt, that if they shal be able to bring the people to such a kind of clamor, and the nobility to such a manner of stiffness: they can be wel content for their partes, to haue her maiestie vsed, as the Scottish king was: for it is according to their Geneua Diuinity.

F.2, &amp; 3, &amp;c.

Tertullus the Papist, he is made the Bishops only Councillour, in the whole course of the gouernment of our Church: by whose aduise, (the author of the Dialogue saith) that the Bishops do beare with the Popish recusants, and that so many waies are sought to suppress the Puritans. This Tertullus, together with the Host and the Vsurer, do relate to the Bishop those occurrents in Englande, which had fallen out and hapned in his absence. And vpon the occasion of this question, asked by the Bishop: vz. haue not the Bishops yet suppressed the Puritans, neither with countenance, nor by authority? Tertullus maketh this aunswere. Suppressed? no, my Lord: a friend of mine writte vnto me, that one of their preachers saide in the Pulpit; he was per-

The 4. Book Engl. Scottizing, for Discipline by threatnings. 133 perswaded that there were a 100000. of them in England, and that the number of them increased daily in euery place, of all estates & degrees.

Is it not time for the Magistrates to looke about them? They do take it in scorne to bee thought so weake, as that they could bee suppressed. Bee it, they flatter themselues therein: yet their desire is apparant, that (if they be suffered, and shall euer be able) they will bring it to that passe. And if this be not a necessary consequent of the premisses: my iudgement faileth me. But to procede.

---

CHAP. II.

Of their doctrine for making a reformation themselues, and how the people must be thrust into that action.

About foure yeares since, it should seeme that some of the brethren, were of opinion, that they had dealt long inough in the practise of their Discipline, after such a secret manner: and that then they were bound in dutie to procede to the publike exercise of it, notwithstanding any daunger, that might therby ensue. For thus one of them writeth. Our zeale to Gods glorie, our loue to Payne to F.
his Church. & the due planting of the same, in this horheaded age should be so warme & and stirring in vs, as not to care what ad- uenture we giue, and what censures we abide &c. The Iesuites & Seminaries, their diabolicall boldnes, will couer our faces with shame &c. And after also in the same letter. We canot be dis- charged, of great disloyalty to our coming Christ, except we proceed

134. Engl. Scottizing, for discipline by threatnings. The 4 Book.
with practise, and so to further the Lords cause by suffering: for as much as that dutifull suffering, for so honorable a matter, is as sure a signe of subiection, as obeying, the time so vrging that bounden duetie. It is verily more then time, to Register the names of the fittest and hottest brethren round about our seuerall dwellings, whereby to put Maister Snecanus godly counsell in execution: vz. Si quis obijciat &c. If any man obiect, that the setting vp, and the lawfull practise of the discipline in the Church, is hindred by the ciuill magistrate: let the magistrate bee freely and modestlie admonished of his duety. If he esteeme to be accounted, either a godly or a Christian magistrate, without doubt hee will admitte wholesome counsailes. But if he do not, yet let him bee more exactlie instructed, that he may serue God in feare, and bend his authority to the defence of the church and of Gods glory.
Marry, if by this way there happen no good successe, then let the ministers of the Church, execute their office, according to the appointment of Christ. For they must rather obey God then men.
In this last point, we haue dolefully failed, which now or neuer standeth vs in hand to prosecute with all celerity, without ling-ring and staying so long for Parliaments.

This aduile of Paines, was thought by the brethren, (as I gesse) to be somewhat too rash. For of likelihood they could not finde at that time, so sufficient a number of such hotte brethren as might serue their turne. Whereupon (as I suppose) out commeth the decrees of the Warwick-shire Classes, that for the increasing of the laid number, euery minister, (as occasion serued,) should teach the Discipline vnto the people, as wel as the other partes of the Gospel. And for the mo-derating of Paines too hastie aduise, it was thus determined. Non dum sollicitandum esse publicè vniuersum catum ad
praxim Discipline, donec melius insituantur homines in eius cognitione: that is: As yet the whole multitude are not to be allured (publicly) to the practise of the Discipline, until men bee better

The 4. Booke. Engl. Scottizing, for discipline by threatnings. 135 better instructed, in the knowledge of it. As though for the answering of Payne, they had said; that when by that means they had gotten, a sufficient number to assiste them, then his counsaile should be followed.

For you must vnderstand, that their chiefest trust is reposed in the people, as it may be further made more plain vnto you by the deposition of maister Edmonds, whose wordes I will set downe, as they remaine in record. I doe well remember (saith he) that after I had left that company, meaning the London assemblies, meeting with Masler Field, I talked with him, what harme was already done, by inueighing against the present state of the Church, and by their proceedings, in beating this their new reformation into the heades of the common people, because they were alreadie grown thereby amongst themselves, into great diuisions: very contemptuous, insolent, & intractable, &c. Whereunto hee answered, tush, holde your peace: seeing we cannot compassse these things, by suite nor dispute: it is the multitude and people, that must bring them so passe. But I will leaue their endeuours a while, how they may seduce the people, and enter into a discourse of their further proceedings.

CHAP. III.

They would haue the nobility and the inferior Magistrates to set up their discipline: & of their supplication with a 100000 hñds.

Tis here to be considered, what course they take, to bring the Nobility and inferior magistrates of England, to the before-said stiffness, (mentioned in the first Chapter) that was in them of Scotland: Maister Penry exhortheth the Lord President of Wales, by the examples of Mo-

Suppl. to the govern. of Wales. p. 15. 16 36. 37. 38. 39.

Hooker Page want hearers who hee "He will never see

136 Engl. Scottizing for Discipline, by threatnings. The 4. Book.
ses, Iehosuah, David, Salomon, Iehosophat, Hezechiah, Iosue, Nehemiah, &c. & to take in hād their pretended reformation, in that countrie: prouing that he hath authority therunto, because hee is a gouernour vnder God, and that if hee refused so to doe; he could haue no commission to rule there, in that therby Christ being reiected, he was become but the Lieutenant of Sathan. Here you haue Allobrogical, and Consistoriall stuffe, able of it selfe, (if it were receiued) to fill all Christian kingdomes, with all kinde of mutinies, sedition, and rebellion. They would make the inferior Magistrates, vnder their Soueraigne to beleue: that they had, (for their times, and within their limittes), as absolute authority, as if they themselues were fully Princes there: and were not manie waies restrayned, by the supreme Magistrate. Surely if they shall bee able, by these and such like perswasions, to draw vnto them the Iustices of Peace, the Shrifes or Lieutenants of euery Shire, (and so make them the executioners of their good pleasures and platformes, without any further Commission or warrant from her Maiestie:) they shall not neede to expect eyther Prince, or Parliament, but may throwe downe and set vp, as greate builders doe, whatsoeuer shall be most agreeable, to the mutabilitie of their owne affections.

And whereas an obiection might haue beene made, that if either the Noblemen, Gentlemen, or people shold take vpon them to cast downe the Bishops, and to reforme the church, according to their raigning frēzy, without her maiesties commandement, that in so doing they shold greatly disturbe the state of the Realme, and highly offēd her most excellent maiestie: these points are both of them passed ouer with a snuffe, & with great disdaine, as being no such impediments, as ought to hinder the valiant co-
rages

Goodman
with the consent of the Gencians
p. 214. 215

rages of Consistorian subiects. I tell you true, (saith one of their Captaines) I thinke it a greate blessing of God, that hath raised up Martin to hold tackling with the Bishops, that you may haue some time of breathing, or rather a time to gather courage and zeale, &c. to set vpon these ennemies, &c. For if, as hitherto you haue, you bee so loth, for disturbing of our state, for sooth and the offending of her Maiestie, not onelie to speak against but euen vterlic to reiect this Hierarchy of our Bishops, euen to haue no more to doe with it, then with the leate of the beast: you shall declare vnto our children, that God can set up, but a company of whitelinered souldiers &c. Forsooth if this exhortation be according to their Discipline: it ought no longer to be tearmed Christs, (as they tearme it) but the Diuels Discipline. And yet, because they would not haue her Maiestie altogether neglected, an other of their Lieutenants can be content, that (before their souldiers mentioned, shoulde beginne the skirmish) there might bee first, (as it were) for a parlee, some little ouerture of duetic signified: that, if (as yet) her Highnesse wolde bee ruled by them, they would desist. To this purpose hee moueth all the Puritanes, (as hee tearmeth them,) in England both Lordes, Knightes, Gentlemen, Ministers and people, to offer a supplication to her Maiestie: in effect, for the full obtayning of all their desires.

Martin sen

To this (saith he) an hundred thousand hands would be gotten &c. and then thou (speaking to his reader) may well thinke, what a stroke so many would strike together, &c. it should appeare, that they are not few, and of small reputation, but in a manner the strength of our land, and the sinow of her Maiesties royal gouernment, which our Bishops do falsely note with the names of Puritanes, The consideration whereof, I tell thee, euen in policie, would make, that this their suite should not bee ha-

138 Engl. Scottizing for Discipline by threatnings. The 4. Book.
stily reiected, especially in such a time, as wherein we now liue, in daunger of our enemies abroad, and therefore had need of no causes of discouragement at home. I like it well when men will deale plaineie, You see indeede their hearts. And is it not then eident, whereat they ayme? In such a time no pol-licy? Indeede the retuine of the Spaniard was then expect-
ted. No neede then of discouragement at home? Why?
wanting your desires, wold you haue taken no part, if the Spaniard had come? or purposed you, to haue made a more readie passage for him, by rebelling at home, before he should haue come? or would you haue ioyned with him, if he had come? or meant you thereby, (through terror) to haue enforced her Maiestie, to your purposes, least you should haue taken some of these courses? Chose which of them you list: the best is seditious.

---

CHAP. III.

Presuming upon some unlawful assistance, they vse very violent wordes.

Ow true it is, that they haue a hundredth thousand, ready at their direction, I know not: but they haue surely too many: if the companion of the brotherhood, that sent his humble motion abroad, may be herein beliee-ued. Thousands (he saith) do sigh for this discipline, and ten thousand haue sought it: and approued and worthy men of euery shire, haue consented vnto it.

But certaine it is such is their hope, to thrust the people, with the rest of their confederates, into some unlawfull execution, of their distempered designementes: that they are

are come to a wonderfull resolution and assurance, as hauing almost (in their own conceits,) obtained already, the verie scepter of their kingdome. The Eldershippe is at hande, (saith the humble motioner.) And againe: vsing reasons, why the state here in England shoulde present-lie embrace their gouernement, hee falleth vpon these two pointes, (iumping iustlie, with the Scottish ministers logique, mentioned before by Diotrephes, the pretended Bishop, Ivz. the people are inflamed with zeale, and (as it seemeth) the second reason dependeth vpon the first: that is, because it is harde, dangerous, and impossible to stand against it. In effect, the people crie for the Discipline, and therefore it must needs preuaile. Indecde they haue slaunderously set out supplications and complaints
in the name of the comminalltie: thereby to terrifie their withstanders. But I trust the people generally are not so madde, although there bee some that are straungely bewitched: vnto this conceipt of the peoples readines it seemeth to mee, that M. Snape had relation, when hee vsed these wordes following, as they are set down by the othes of some of them, to whom he spake them. How say you (quoth hee) if we meaning himselve and his fellow ministers, with their adherentes deuise a way, whereby to shake off all the Antichristian yoke, and gouernment of the Bishops: & will iointly together erect the discipline and gouernment all in one day: but peraduenture it wil not be yet, this yeare, & a halfe. An other, (of his more then superabundant charitie) foreseeing the mischiefes that are ready to fal by his brethrens procurement, vpon the Bishops of this realme:
giueth them warning to be gone in time. Bee packing Bishops, (saith he) you strue in vaine: you are laid open already.

*Friers and Monkes were not so bad. Looke to your selues:
for my sonnes will not see their father thus persecuted at your hands.*

Holmes,
Hawgar. &c.

Epistle to mart. epis
tome.

W.F.

140. Engl. Scottizing for Discipline, by threatenings. The 4 Book.
handes. We protest (say the authors of a certaine supplication, drawen to her Maiesty: and found in one of the brethrens studies: but he wil not confesse, by whose aduise it was penned:) We protest (say they) unto your Maiestie: that we will be no longer subiect unto the Bishops unlawfull and vsurped authority &c. Wherefore let them not looke for it at our handes. And another. The trueneth will preuaile (speaking of the discipline) in sight of your teeth (meaning the Bishops,) and all other aduersaries of it. Likewise an other dealeth as charitably with the common wealth, as his fellow did with the Bishops: that is: he warneth to take heede: saying, that it will be very dangerous to our state, to mayntaine two contrary factions: that the Magistrates are then bound, euen for the quieting of our state, to put downe the one: that those, that stande for the discipline, neither can nor will giue it ouer, (so as they will not bee put downe): and that the saide Magistrates cannot maintayne the corruption of our Church, namely Archbishops and Bishops, without the discontentment of their subiectes.

Epistle to the Demont.

Martin iun.
Thef, 98. 103.
104, 105.

And another: we haue sought to aduance this cause of God, by humble suite to the Parliament, by supplication to your Conuocation house, by wrighting in defence of it, and by challenging to dispute for it: seeing none of these meanes vsed by vs haue preuailed: if it come in by that meanes, which will make all your hearts to ake, blame your selues.

Martins protestation.

And to conclude. In this one point (saith another) the Bishops are of my minde: vz. that reformation cannot well come to our Church, without blood. Let the place be throughly considered. The wordes are ambiguously set downe: of purpose to couer (in some sort) the crueltie, which lurketh in their own heartes. For in my simple iudgement, his speeches can haue no other good & coherent sence, then this, vz. that as the Bishops do think (as he slanderously deemeth meth) that there can be no reformation of the Puritanes disordered proceedings, without the blood of some of their brotherhood, so he is of minde, that the reformatiō which he and his companions do seeke for, cannot be attained vnto, without the blood of some of those, that doe withstand their platformes. It is true that hee there onely profecuteth the cruel opinion, which hee ascribeth to the Bishops: saying that no blood can handsomly be spilt, vnlesse they be the butchers. But he passeth cunningly by his own mind, as very wel knowing his companions capacities. Indeed, if they do take vpon them to spil blood, they cannot (thanks be to God) as yet, do it handsomely. The Lord of his infinite mercy graunt that their opportunities, to such a mischief, do neuer serue them better, then hitherto they haue done.

---

C H A P. V.

Vpon Cartwrights committing to prison: some strange attempts were looked.

Besides, prayers to prevent such outrages (as are mentioned in former chapters) there must be other meanes diligently looked into. For out of question, it is high time. Euery one is acquainted with the execution of Hack, but few do vnderstand, the secretes of those attempts. They stretch much further then they are supposed.

You may remember, the Disciplinarie mens doctrine (before mentioned) vz. that when Princes grow to be tyrants; (whereof seditious spirites will be the iudges, (and that the inferiour Magistrates will not do their duties. the people then, (if any Ionathan will step forth, to be their captaine) are bound to ioyne themselves vnto him, and

Buch, de iure
regn. 57.
Goodman.
pag. 185.
Iunius Brus
tu s. 170.
Beza de au
thorit. magist.
insubd. p. 97

I. P. Of obedience.
Whittinghams preface
Goodman
pag. 196,
I. P. 121.

may vse the sword in their own right : or otherwise some priuate man, that is moued with zeale extra ordinem, may execute vengeance, vpon prince or Potentate, Idolater, wicked persons, &c. euen as the spirit shal moue him. The which doctrine (as I said) they take vpon them to cōfirm, out of the scriptures: by these examples v<sup>z</sup>. of Phineas, who in zeale killed the adulterers: of Abud, who in zeale killed king Eglon, in his priuate chamber: of Iaell, who in zeale killed Sifara: of Matathias, who in zeale killed a Iew, for committing idolatrie: and of the same Matathias, who in the same zeal killed likewise, at the same time, the kings commissioners, that commanded the people to conform themselues to the kings proceedings. &c.

To those that know these principles, how can it be eyther obscure or difficult, what they are both to thinke & iudge, when they shall heare of any extraordinary callings, and secret motions, in priuate men: whereby they shall take vpon them, (through the assistance of giddy & seduced malecontentes,) to correct and amend, to set vp and throw downe, to deliuer and restraine, to punish and execute; how, what, where, when and whom, &c. according to their own pleasures: and all vnder pretence of such directions, as they shall affirme that the holy Ghost doth minister vnto them.

Vpon the proceedings, held by course of law, against Vdall and some others: and likewise by reason, that certaine Preachers, but especiallie maister Cartwright, being called before her Maiesties commissioners in causes ecclesiastical, for their aforesaide vndutyfull proceedings, were (vpon iust occasions) committed to prison: the matter was greatly grudged at, & so taken to heart; amongst the reforming and zealous brotherhoode, as that many deuises and complots, were (as it seemeth) in deliberation not only

onely how the saide prisoners, might (for the present) bee defended and deliuered: but also how thereupon they might proceede, for the setting vp of their Discipline. To this purpose, in mine opinion these words of Wigginton are verie pertinent. Maister Cartwright is in the Fleete, for refusal of the othe (as I heare) and Maister Knewstubs is sent for, and sondry worthy ministers are disquieted, who haue been spared long. So that wee looke for some bickering ere long, and then a battel: which cannot long endure. How far these wordes may bee drawne, I leaue it to be considered of, by those that can discern of such like kind of phrascs. This I can assure you of, that (vppon what grounds I know not) through the course which was held by the magistrats here, against the said prisoners: there was great expectation, and as it were a hope conceiued by their fauorers, in another cuntry, of some bickering amongst vs, (about that time,) as Wigginton writeth of. Thus a man that hath been of especiall account in Scotland, did write vnto a friend of his in England. I attend your next answer, as well of the estate of your Church, as of all other affaires. For there is here great worde of sondry vprores, which I trust be false, or repressed in due season by her Maiestie.

Wigginton,
to Porter at Lancaster,
6. Nouemb.
1590.

P. A. 7. Dec.
ccmb. 1590.

But that passeth all (to this purpose,) which falleth out most apparantlie, by the view taken of such letters and papers, as were found vpon the apprehension of Hacket and his Prophets.

CHAP. VI.

One Edmond Copinger tooke vpon him to worke Cartwrightes &c. deliuerance: he pretendeth an extraordinary calling and acquainteth diuers with it: one Gibson a Scot: P. Wentworth, Cartwright, Wigginton, Charke, Trauers, Egerton, &c.

Whilcst

Hilest some were deuising of one way, and some of an other; for the good of the saide prisoners, &c. One Edmond Coppinger, with his familiars, could find no meanes to bee looked for, except it might please God, according to the foresaide positions, to stir vp some zealous brethren, by some extraordinary calling, to effect their desires. This cogitation (as it seemeth) no soner grew vpon thē, but that by and by they fealt, (as they thought) in themselues: some certaine slender instigations, to such a heauenly purpose. It appeareth that towards the latter end of December, 1590. Copinger, Arthington, and Iohn Bentley,<sup>a</sup> maister Knightlies man, did hold a fast, at one Thomas Lancasters house, a scholemaister in Shoe.lane. It began vpon the Saturday at night, and held till Sunday at night. In the time of this fast, v<sup>z</sup>. the Saterday<sup>b</sup> at night, Coppinger (as he said) found himself very extraordinarily exercised &c. with a wonderfull zeale, to set forth Gods glory any waies, which lawfully he might enter into. At that time also, (I mean at that last fast: Arthington had likewise his extraordinary calling. Thus Copinger did write of his matter to Lancaster: the letter was also subscribed vnto, by Arthington. In<sup>c</sup> your house, in your presence, and partly by your meanes; I had my first extraordinarie calling, and of the same minde is my brother Arthington. Copinger the next day after the saide fast, did ride into Kent: and vpon his returne, (which was with some speed) he signified vnto his fellow-fasters, how he had been extraordinarily called, both before his going, the said Saterday at night: & also in his iourney, since he departed from them: v<sup>z</sup>. how God had reuealed<sup>d</sup> vnto him, such a secreet mystery, as was wonderful. By the way (saith he) as I rid, I fantsied to my selfe, that there was leaue giuen mee, to speake to God

<sup>a</sup> Coppinger examined, 19 of Iuly. Arthing, discourse. <sup>b</sup> Coppinger to T.C.

<sup>c</sup> Coppinger and Arthing. to Lancaster, the 15. of Iuly 1591.

<sup>d</sup> Arthing, discourse.

Cop. to T.C.

God

God, in a more familiar manner, then at any time before: also I perswaded my self, that his spirite did giue me many straunge directions, wherein the Lord would vse me to doe seruice to his most glorious Maiestie, and to his Church. Concerning the substance of his said reuelation, hee also tolde, Arthington & Lancaster thus much: vz. that he knew a way, how to bring the Queene to repentance, and to cause all her Counsell and Nobles, to do the like, out of hand, or els detect them; to bee traytors that refused.

Arthingtons
discourc.

After the relation of these things, within a day or two, this Copinger and Arthington, held another fast by themselves. Whereupon (saith Copinger) I was againe stirred up, to such businesse of such importance, as in the eyes of flesh and blood, was likelie to bring much danger to my selfe, and vnlikelie to bring any good successe, to the Church of God.

Cop. to T. C.

Of these his instigations, or reuelations, hee writ to some preachers in the Realme: and to some without: as namely a letter the last day of December, 1590. to one Gibson, a kinde of preacher in Scotland. Wherein hee greatly complayneth of the present state of our Church: and desireth of him, to bee instructed from the brethren there, in diuers points, concerning an extraordinarie calling. Thee state of our Church (saith hee) groweth worse and worse: our zealous Ministerie and Magistracie are daylye disgraced and displaccd: the meanes of helpe is taken away, except, that God woulde eyther moue her Maiestie inwardly, shee being bereaued of those holy helpes, which Gods seruantes enioy in the publike exercise of religion: or else stirre vp, some faithfull Zorobabell or Nehemiah, to let her see how the Lordes house lyeth waste; and how vsurpers of Antichristian tyranny, doe keepe Christ Iesus from governing in his kingdome. And then hee addeth. My selfe am acquainted with some, who, to do seruice herein, would aduenture the losse of their lues, so that

Cop to T. C.

Copping to Giblon.

246 English Scottizing, for Discipline by force. The 4. Book.
they might haue warrant from the worde, for their so aing, and haue approbation by the Church. And to this end they fancy to themselues to haue receiued an extraordinary calling, wherein they feare to be abused by Sathan. Then followeth his petitiō. And therefore I, shogh most vnworthy, haue aduentured to write vnto you, to beseech you in the bowels of Christ Iesus, to haue conference with such, as are most able to aduise you on our behalfe, and to returne answer, how a man may examine himselfe in this matter, and what be the extraordinarie thinges, which must bee in him, that is so called; what course he is to take, to haue his extraordinarie calling knowne: first to himselfe, and then to the Church.

After hee had sent away this letter into Scotland hee began to draw his doubts into some Methode: and did propound them all in eight questions. The chiefe summe whereof, is this, whether in these dayes, and in this countrey, where there is but preaching heere and there, where the Discipline is not established, but oppugned, by the publike Magistrates, whether there bee place for any extraordinarie calling, immediately from God, of workers and helpers to his Church &c. These questions thus contriued hee sent them to his olde acquaintance Wigginton: who iustly according to Copingers humor, aunswered them all affirmatiuely: as his aunswers are to be shewed, vnder his owne hand, and as Copinger did also write vnto maister Cartwright; the effect of which Letter will follow in course.

Vpon Copingers receite of this aunswere, that there was high time, for such extraordinary callings: presently after, ther was an other fast procured by Copinger; for a better cō-
Cop. to T. C. formation of such his manner of calling, and to see, if any mo might be drawn thereby into the same conceipt. This fast was held vpon the Wednesday, in a Marchauntes house, where

The 4 Booke. English Scottizing, for discipline by force. 147

where Wigginton then lay, and Wigginton himselfe with three or fower others was present at it. But before this fast was held, meanes was used (saith Copinger) to haue some notice giuen to some of the Preachers in Prison, of the day of their humiliation, and of their desire to haue them commend vnto God in their prayers the holy purposes, which any fearing God, should in time attempt to take in hand, by seeking the glorie of God, and the good of the Church.

Cop. exam.
19. Iulic.

Cop. to T. C.

The effect of their prayers in this fast, was this, VZ.
They humbly beseech Almighty God, that if hee had appointed to use any of them, to doe any special seruice to him and his: and that to that end would extraordinarily call them, that he would seale up his or their so calling by some special manner, and by his holy spirite, and giue such extraordinarie graces and giftes, as were fite for so waightie an action.

Copin exam,
19. Iulic.

Cop to T. C.

How the rest of this company sped hereby, I finde it not: but Copinger (as hee sayth) was called againe the same night in a dreame. The manner whereof, he thus describeth. About the midde part of the night, I thought my selfe in my sleepe, to be carried into Heauen, and there being wonderfullie astonished with the Maieſtie of God, and brightnes of his glorie, I made a lowde and most strong noice &c. since which time, I finde euery day more & more comfort: and suppose, there is som-what in me &c. so worke (he meaneth some strange reformation.)

Copin, exam.

Cop. to T. C.

As before it hath bene partly touched, Copinger did not only craue the aduise of some ministers in these his great actions, (as oft he tearmed them): but also of such of the Laity, as he thought were most fite to ioine with him, or to aduise him: and I doubt not, but that he dealt as plainly with them, as he had done before with Dauison a Scotte and others. This doth appeare in some sort, by a Letter written vnto Copinger by Peter Wen: worth, the five and

P. W. to Cop.
 25. Jan, 1590.

twentieth of Januarie 1590. in answer of one sent vnto him before, from Copinger. It seemeth that Copinger hauing desired maister Wentworth to come vnto him to London, that they might conferre together, &c. for answer he excuseth himselfe in respect of his lamenes. &c. and of his debilitie and weakenes, to giue aduise in matters of importance, wherein I perceiue (saith hee) you are labouring. And further (saith hee,) I do assure my selfe, that the purpose tendeth vnto the true seruice of God, and of her Maiestie. I beseech you resort to the Lorde, to direct your labours both in matter and manner. For an ill manner may marre a good matter. You are in a plentiful soile, where you may vse the aduise of many godly wise. Vse the benefite thereof, and then as Iosuah saide, bee bolde; and of good courage: feare not to bee discouraged.

Cop. to L. 29,
 Iau. 15. 19.

Besides it appeareth by a Letter of Copingers to Thomas Lancaster, the scholemaister, dated the nine and twentieth of Januarie: that he had disclosed, (as it should seeme, all the premises, vnto diuerse of the Ministers of London, desiring to haue had some conference with them: and offering himselfe to be directed either to proceede, or draw backe, as the Church should aduise. But they supposing the matter to bee too harde to bee effected: and him an unfitte man to manage it, refused to admitte of any such conference. In the same letter, it is also euident, that Copinger had made the night before a rude discourse (as he tearmeth it) to Lancaster of these matters, which Lancaster disliked. And touching some speeches had with maister Egerton, thus he there writeth. Most true it is, that he refused to take triall of mee, and of my giftes: alledging, that he was a meane ordinarie man &c. and one that could not iudge of extraordinary giftes: and withall, most Christianly, wisely, and louinglie perswaded me, to be carefull & circumspect ouer my selfe: to take heede least I was deceiued by the subtil-

The 4. Booke. English. Scottizing. for discipline by force. 149
subtiltie of Sathan, and so misse-led: whereby I might endanger my selfe, both for my liberty, estate, and credit, and also bee an hinderance to the great cause, which I would seeme to be most desirous to further. But with all he concluded, that he would bee loath, to quench the spirite of God in mee, or to hinder my zeale.

In another letter also, to the said Lancaster from Copinger: concerning other his proceedings with Egerton, he saith: it cannot bee denied, but that the cause is good, which I desire to be an actor in: but it is saide by some, that it is impossible that I should be fit to meddle therein. He also desireth Lancaster, to deal with Egerton, that he might haue a sight of al the letters, which he (the said Copinger) had written vnto him about these matters.

About this time it also appeareth, that Copinger fell into some dealings with M. Cartwright, concerning the premises: and that he had sent vnto him, the questions before mentioned, for to know his resolution, whether it would be agreeable to Wigintons. He writ a letter vnto him, dated the 4. of February 1590. beginning thus.

Right reuerend Sir, your most wise and christian counsell, together with offer to take knowledge by writing (ro me, of such matters, as might induce me to suppose my selfe, to haue receiued some hope of speciall fauor from god, to some special use: doth moue me more and more to admire his mercies towards mee &c. In this letter, he signifieth to M. Cartwright (as before I haue noted,) the number of their fastes, his seuerall callings, his writinge to some preachers within the Realme, and to some without: and his confirmation by Wigintons said answeres, and maketh these petitions vnto him: vz. that the church (I meane, saith he, your selfe & such as you shal name vnto me:) would look narrowly into him, for the trial of his extraordinary calling. If (saith he) I be thought to be any wayes misse-led,

I crave sharpe censuring: If I be guided by Gods spirit to any good end, (as hereafter shall be adiudged,) I shall be ready to acquaint you and them, with generalities and particularities, so far-forth as you and they be desirous to looke into them. And his second petition was, vz. to haue (saith hee) your further answer to some questions, wherein I desire to be resolued: with your direction also, what hereafter I am to signifie to your selfe, concerning the matter it selfe.

After M. Cartwright had receaued this letter from Copinger, he sent vnto him a message, that he should attempt nothing but by aduise, and that he should be wise and circumspect. Besides it seemeth, that vpo Copingers so earnest sute made as hath bene specified, there was a time appointed, that he might be conferred withall. These things do appeare to be true, by a second letter of Coppingers to Cartwright, the 13. of February. Wherin he greatly complained that he had beene put backe from that seruice of god and his church, which he had in hand, (and that by his friends:) he desired M. Cartwright that the day appointed for conference might holde, and hee ad-deth this reason. The daunger which some stand in: for their liues, is not vnkowne: and if I had not beene letted, I durst haue ventured my life, so haue procured their release ere now.

And againe to the same effect. As I may, I command you in the name of God, that you aduise the preachers, to deale speedely and circumspectlie, least some bloode of the Saintes be shed. In the ende hee signifieth, that the next day, hee with some others, did meane to humble themselves in fasting, and that the prisoners did know of it.

Whilest Copinger was in expectation of the said conference: how it fel out I know not, but (as it seemeth) counsel was taken, & the matter ouer-ruled, that the ministers appointed, should vtterly refuse to haue any conference with

with him. Wherupon M. Cartwright, Trauers, Charke, and Egerton, sent him worde by M. Hockenull, that they would leaue him to himselfe: or rather to Sathan: and that they thought him unworthy, to bee conferred withall. And this appeareth by Coppingers letter to Charke, Trauers & Egerton beginning thus: Right reuerend fathers &c. About the deli- uery of this message, Copinger did after, (in some sort) chal- lenge M. Hockenull: and told him also, that seeing he had bene refused to bee conferred with—all, by those godly, wise, and zealous preachers, who hadde promised to haue had conference with him &c. occasion therby was offered vnto him, to approue himselfe.

Coppinger.to Charke, Tra-uers and Esgerton.

Cop to Hoc-kenh. 24. Feb
1590.

About this time or a little before, Coppinger receiued a letter in answere of his, from Gibson (the Scottish Mini- ster aboue mentioned: ) dated from Pententland in Scotland the sixt of Februarie 1590. concerning the pointes of Coppingers saide letter vnto him. Wherein hee writeth very cunningly, touching Coppingers que- stion, and shifteth it ouer (like his craftes-maister) with an indirect and vncertaine aunswere. But in these pointes hee is very plaine: vz. that hee had shewed Cop- pingers letter to sundrie: that hee had conferred of it with the best of their Ministerie: that their Church was not ser- geantful to do al good offices, for the weale of the brethren here: that there was a writing ready to send to Germany to Iunius, that he would trauaile with some of the good & wel affected professors there: that (of his knowledge) trauaile was to be made with some others, as namely the King of France and that their ministry would themselves trauaile with her Maiestie. No doubt if Iu- nius or any other, at their request shall take vpon them, to deale with her highnesse, for men of Coppingers humor or for any of those, whom he would haue deliuered, the sug- gestions (which either are, or must be made vnto them, )

152. English Scottizing, for Discipline, by force. The 4 Booke are like to containe many slaunders and vntruthes. But to goe forward.

C H A P. VII.

*How Coppinger and Arthington came acquainted with Hacket:
of their conference with Io. Throg. Coppingers letter to Io.
Throg. and his answere.*

Hacket to Wigginton 3.
march, 1590.

Hortly after this time, v<sup>z</sup>. the 3. of March 1590. William Hacket, an olde companion of Wiggintōs did write vnto him,
and doth comfort him then in prison,
with the exāples of Gideons empty pitch-ars, of the deliuerance by Moses through the red sea, and of Haman that was hanged vpon the same gibbet, he had prepared for an other. Hee vseth also these words.
Master Wigginton: I desire to communicate my spirite at large with you: but I know not your keeper &c. Good M. Wigginton, make my sound heart, knowen to M. Cartwright, M. Snape, M. Vdall, M. Lord.

Hackets disc
course.

In the Easter terme, this Hacket came vpto London, of likelyhood to communicate his spirite with Wigginton, & to grow into acquaintnace with the parties named: but his pretence was, partly to see what would become of Iob, Throgmorton, and partlie to reckon with Wigginton, about the making of malt betweene them together. He had not beene long in London, but hee came to Wigginton, who (amongst other discourses) tolde Hacket that there was a Gentleman (meaning M. Coppinger) in the Cittie, a very good man &c.
He describeth him vnto Hacket, and the matter also hee was entring into: signifiyng further, how Coppinger had beene wonderfully discouraged (in his purposes) by the Preachers in London

London: but that hee (for his part) had not so done. &c. Hee also commended Arthington to Hacket, to be an honest man. Then Wigginton sent for Coppinger, and by Gods providence he came soorthwith vnto him: and M. Wigginton willed Coppinger and Hacket, to take acquaintance one of the other: assuring Coppinger, that he knew Hacket to be a man truelie fearing God, and such a person, as God might minister some comfort to Coppinger by his conference: that Hacket had beene tormented, and that for the<sup>a</sup> credite of Hackets sufferings, a hundreth could witness. About this time also, Arthington by Wiggintons and Coppingers meanes (as hee sayth) fell into acquaintance with Hacket, meeting first with him at Mistris Lawsons house, M. Job Throgmorton also being the<sup>e</sup> at London, grew into some conference (as it should seeme) with these three companions, Coppinger, Arthington, and Hacket. And this is gathered by Coppingers letter to Job Throgmorton, after his departure from London, that tearme: and by the answer, returned from him vnder his owne hand, and sealed with his seale of armes. Both the letters are fit to be considered. Thus Coppinger writ vnto him, as it appeareth vnder his owne hand.

Arthing, ex
19. Iulie
1591.

Arthingt ex
30. of Iuly
1591.

Arthingt. ex
19. of Iuly
1591.

My owne deare brother: my selfe and my two brethren, who lately were together with you in Knight-rider street, do much desire conference with you, which will aske some time. The busines is the Lords owne, and he doth deale in it himselfe, in a strange and extraordinarse manner, in poore and simple creatures Much is done since you see vs, which you wil reioyce to heare of, when we shal meete: and therefore I beseech you, as soone as you receiue this letter, hasten an answer in writing, to my sister Randolphes house, at S. Peters hill foote, by Poules wharfe. Therin aduertise (I beseech you) when I may come to speake with you: for delayes are daungerous, and some of the great enemies begin to be so pursued by God, as they are at their wits end. The Lorde make vs thankefull for it, who keepe vs euer to himselfe, to do his will and not ours.

Where Hacket then lay by Coppingers appointment.

Your very louing brother in the
L. most assured to command.

This coppie remaineth thus endorsed. The coppie of a letter to M. Iob Throgmorton, from E. C. And now followeth Throgmortons letter, beeing an answer (as I take it) vnto Coppingers.

My good brother, &c. (I reioyce that you will vouchsafe so to account of mee.) Your godlie conference at anie time, when oportunitie shall serue, I will not refuse. And albeit our busines may hinder vs now to meet, yet there is no time ouerpast, but that it may be performed, when it please God. The next terme, (you heare) I must appeare here againe vpon my band: at which time you shall find, that I will be glad of your christian conference, or of any other brothers, by whom I may be enlightened. Lord deliuer mee, from that pride of heart, to reiect or refuse that while I liue. That course you speake of, intended by you, I was neuer (you know) in particular acquainted with. And therefore, for mee to like or dislike a matter, that I had no knowledge of, had beene (I take it) without ground or warrant. Onlie I confesse, I heard some buzzes abroad, of a sole and singular course, that either you, or some other had plotted in his head, which was greatly feared, and condemned of the brethren. What that was, as I know not, so had I small reason to speake of it with preiudice. Onlie I would wish you, and all that beare good will to the holie cause, in this perillous age of ours, to take both your eyes in your handes, (as they saie) and to be sure of your ground and warrant, before you strine to put in execucion. For as I like not of coldnes of Zeale, vnder colour of discretion: so on the other side, I think that this sentence of

The 4. Booke. English Scotizing, for Discipline by force. 155 of our sauour (be ye wise as serpents) was not written in vain neither, and had great neede to be practised of some in this age.
A sanctified cause, (you know) would alwayes haue a sanctified course. Our rule and square, must be the word of truth, which so long as we lay before vs, as our leuel, we shall not lightly swaue much from the marke. The Lord therefore direct vs, in these feareful and miserable daies, and let not our infirmities be a barre to his mercies. I know, (my good Brother,) that the greatest workes of the Lord: are wrought by the weakest instruments, least men should boast in the arme of flesh. And therefore, (were it not for my sinnes and unworthynes,) I could easilie perswade my selfe, in regarde of my weaknes, that the Lord might effect something by me, who am priuy to mine owne wants, and farre short of those good giftes, it pleaseth you (of your loue) to loade mee with.
But this worke, that you speake of, (howsoeuer the instrument bee compassed with weaknes,) must sure be wrought by a more san-ctified heart, then my selfe can yet without hypocrisie boast of. And therefore, though in affection and good will I icyne, yet I resigne the honor of the worke, to those, that the Lord hath more enabled.
The man you speake of, (if he be at Oundhell,) dwelleth hard by a Sister of mine, and thereupon I shall haue the better occasion to see him, when it please God. Forget me not in your holy prayers and meditations, and salute good Giles with many thanks, whose debtor I am in the Lord, Blessing vpon Syon: confusion vpon Ba-bell: hast this 18. of the 5. Moneth.

Euer yours in the Lord.

C H A P. VIII.

Copinger to Hacket of an appearance in the Starre-chamber: his letter to Vdall: why Cartwright, &c: refused to conferre with him: Cartwright resolved some questions of Coppingers: of eight preachers that did fast and pray for Coppingers successe.

After some few dayes, that Hacket had tained in London, the said Easter terme, he returned home againe to Oundle: hauing first promised Copinger, that he would come vp againe vnto him, whensoever he sent for him. Nowe Copinger, by his said conferences and acquaintance with Hacket, was grown (as he said) very bold and courageous. But yet shortly after, vz, (as I thinke) the seuenteenth of May, he liked so well of Hackets company, that he sent for him againe, to come vp vnto him: saying, If Gods spirit direct you to come, come: if not, stay. But write with all speed, and conuey your letter, and inclose it in a letter to him, who brought you and me acquainted: (that was Wigginton): put not too your name, for discouery, &c. And in the same letter, hee fendeth Hacket this newes. The zealous Preachers (as it is thought) are to be in the Star-chamber to morrow. (I thinke, he meaneth the last day of Easter tearme last.) The L: by his holy spirit be with them, and stay all euill that is intended against them. My selfe, if I can get in, am moued to be there: and I feare, if sentence with seueritie shall be giuen, I shall be forced in the name of the great and fearefull God of heauen and earth, to protest against it. About this time also, he writ a verie courageous letter to Vdall in prison: (for he confeseth it was written

Copinger to Hacket.

Copinger to Hacket. 17. of
May. 1591.

written about tenne weekes, before his examination: which was the nineteenth of July). In this letter he telleth him, that (notwithstanding some brethrens hard opinions of him, and other discouragements) yet now the Lord hath not onelic enabled him to fight, but at the length (in some sort, to vanquish and ouercome. He signifieth also vnto him, that the next day, there were some few, that purposed to ioyne together, in a holy fast, in regard of the afflicted Saimes in generall, &c. He greatly commendeth the Ministers cause and sufferings, that are in prison, assuring himselfe that God will blesse all the actions in it. He saith, there were diuerse out of prison, lying hid, that in this great worke were hammering their heads, bestowing their braines, and spending their spirites: who doe hope (in short tyme) to be brought forth into the sight of their and your enemies, to defend the cause you stand for: whose presence (God assisting them,) will daunt the enemies more then yours: for that they be men voyde of learning, wisdom, and gifts, such as can challenge nothing to themselues, but must giue all to God: who in all the greatest workes, that euer haue beene wrought, hath used the weakest meanes, least men should boast in the arme of flesh. And therefore (I beseeche you) cheare vp your selues in the Lord: for the day of our redemption is at hand: and pray, that the hand of the Lord, may be strengthened in them, whom he hath appointed to take part with you in this cause.

Here (you see) he was growne to a wonderfull resolution. But yet there is another letter of his, that wil make the same more euident, and likewise lay open more plainlie, some of the premises, then hitherto they haue beene. Hee sheweth therein, that hee could be still well contented, to haue some conference with Maister Charke, Maister Trauers, Maister Egerton, Maister Gardiner, Maister Philips, and Maister Cooper. But (sayth he) I make not this suite, for that I would seeke to haue approbation from them, or any other liuing

Copinger to Vdall.
May 1591.

Hacket and his fellowes.

The Copy of Cop. letter to a friend 21 May. 1591.

158 English Scottizing, for Discipline, by force. The 4. Booke. creature, but from God himselfe.

You haue heard before, how these Ministers haue refused to confer with Coppinger. And what shoulde a man thinke, the cause might be? Surelie a feare they had: least he shoulde (by entring into some particulars) bring them, within the compasse of his dangerous complots. This may be necessarily there also gathered, in that as shewing hee could be content, to conferre with the said parties, not because (he protesteth) that he would seeke any approbation from them: so doth he likewise remou that doubt, saying, that he purposed not to acquaint them with the courses, which he purposed, by Gods assistance, to take in hand, whereby great danger might growe to them, and little good to him: but that they might be witnesses of his humilitie, &c.

You haue heard also, of one of Copingers petitions to Maister Cartwright, for his aunswere to those questions mentioned, that he had before propounded to Wigginton. Whereunto it should seeme, that (although at the first he misliked that motion) yet in the end he yecled. My humble desire to you is (sayth Coppinger) that you (in my name) giue great thanks to good Maister Cartwright, for satisfying mee in some questions, which, at the first, he thought little use to be made of. Likewise it also appeareth, that Maister Hockenull did his aforesaid message vnto Copinger, from the preachers, in harder manner then he had Commision. For (sayth he) his counsaile, (that is Cartwrights) and cariage of himselfe, the Lord did direct and blesse it vnto mee: though the Messenger &c. in his cariage of himselfe, failed somewhat, both in that hee deliuered from him, and the rest of the Brethren. And where-as further more in like sort, notice being giuen to the Ministers in prison, of one of Copingers falls, it appeared not; what regard they had thereof: that point also is now cleared in the same Letter. I beseech you also giue thanks, on my behalfe,

Ibidem .

Ibidem .

The 4. Booke. English Scottizing, for Discipline by force. 159
 behalfe, to the other eight preachers: for upon notice giuen vnto them, by some of Gods children, that somewhat was intended to be don, wherein Gods Glory might appeare, and request made <sup>Ibidem.</sup> that the religious desires, and godly purposes of the faithful, might be strengthened by their holy praiers: they thereupon, (as it is credibly signified vnto me) humbled themselues in fasting and prayer: and such an extraordinary blessing came to me thereupon, as it is not fitte to be repeated.

---

C H A P. IX.

Of Hackets first comming to Wigginton: of his gadding vp and downe: and of the designement to haue beene executed in the Star chamber.

Edmond Copinger, hauing thus proceded in the course you haue heard of: at the length he did send againe for Hacket: the spirite (as it seemeth) mouing Hacket: before, to stay at home. Marry now, he straightly <sup>Cop. to Hack,</sup> vrgeth him to be at London, thre or foure daies, before the beginning of Trinity Terme: which hee could not be: but came vp the first day of the Terme which was the fourth of Iune 1591 and lodged at Islington. <sup>Hackets discourse written by Copinger.</sup>
 The day following, he went to the Counter, and there dined with Wigginton: and after dinner, he beganne his Pageant, vz. <sup>4 Iune, 1591.</sup> to crie out against certaine of her Maiesties most honorable priuy Councill, and to vtter against them most villa-nous speches. The next day being Sunday, he wēt to haue heard maister Phillippes preach: but hee preached not that day there: as the Sexton informed him. Then hee went to

160 English Scottizing for Discipline by force. The 4. Booke.
 to haue heard Maister Cooper: but seeing a Surples lie there, he departed thence, and went to Maister Egertons Sermon. At night, not knowing where to lie, hee went to Wigginton: where he mette with Coppinger, and by Wiggintons appointment, hee lodged at Maister Lawsons. The next morning, viz. the seuenth of Iune, he proceeded with his slanderous outcries against the said honorable Councillors: and so continued two dayes after. In the one of which two dayes, hee was commaunded, (as is sette downe) to goe out of Paules by London gate, and say: by your leaue London: because hee knew, he was shortlie to remoue his dwelling. The same day also, in the forenoone, he went to the Fleete, to haue spoken with Maister Cartwright: but missing of his purpose, hee left his message with the porter, vz. that maister Cartwright should deale faithfullie in the Lords busines &c. Of his afternoones worke, thus it is also in the same place recorded.
 He was commaunded to sit that afternoone at maister Lawsons shoppe: but the purpose of the Lord in that, and what some of the Citizens themselues knew, (he saith) I forbear to speake. These courtes held by Hacket, in the streets, of exclaiming against such persons &c. did proceede (as it seemeth) by the ad-uise, or at least by the allowance of Wigginton. For it appeareth vnder his owne hand, that he approued (after his fashion) such outcries in the streetes to be lawfull, by two examples: one out of Iosephus, and another of a Yorkeshire man, that heretofore had vsed the like in London, as Wigginton recordeth.

About this tyme, vz. in Iune, (as I gesse,) one John Bo-man, a seruant, in Oundell, did write thus to maister Wigginton: I desire you to send me a Coppie of a writing, which you had from Maister Cartwright, vpon the Court matters, when Goodman Hacket was with you the first time.

Also, shortlie after the afore said outcries were finished,
 and Ibidem.

Boman to Wigginton.
 Iune, 1591.

The 4. Booke. English Scottizing, for Discipline by force. 161
 and many other things thought vpon amongst them :
 (you may be sure to such seditious purposes :) the end of Trinity Tearme drew neare : when it was commonly expected, that Cartwright and the other ministers in prison, should haue come to their answer openly in the Starre- chamber. Whereupon a Letter was written, by Copinger to his most deare friend Thomas Lancaſter, the Schoole-maister, from whom he could keepe nothing, that Lanca- ſter in pollicy would suffer to be tould him. Which Letter Lancaſter saith : he did teare in peeces, but confesseth vnder his hād, that in the same these words were contained:
 vz. If our Preachers in prison do appeare to morrow in the Star- chamber, and our great men deale with them so, as it is thought 24. Iune. 1591
they will : if God doe not throw some fearefull iudgement a- mongest them, so as some of the chiefe of them goe not aliuie out of the place then neuer giue credite to me, in any thing, whilest you liue. But maister Cartwright and the rest appeared not this day : and so the parties threatned, escaped this iudge-ment.

CHAP. X.

Apreparation towards the intended disloialtie: two of Copingers Letters to Maister Charke: and to another: Cartwright and Wiggintons commendation of Penues being then in London.

Not long after this time, (if not before) maister Wiginton and Copinger, were Wigg. ex.
 very busy, for the better preparing of the peoples mindes, to the readier acceptation of their further purposes, to publishe in print
 two pamphlettes of Wiggintons
 * Y pen-

penning, as he himselfe confesseth. The one was of Predestination, as though (by the abuse of that doctrine) they meant to haue had the blame of all the wicked and intended mischieses, both of themselues and of their partakers, remoued from themselues, and layde vpon the Lordes shoulders: as though he should haue moued them to such lewd attemptes. The other was a kinde of Ballade, directed for aduice, to a yong courtier, wherein they make waye (as it seemeth) for their friend Hacket, and that with wonderfull quotation of Scriptures. I will trouble you onely with fowre of the verses.

*A Christian true, although he be a clowne
May teach a King to weare Scepter and Crowne.*

And after.

*For God will sure confound such, as deuise
His ordinance or church to tirannise.*

To these rimes, both for manner and matter, I may well resemble those, made (I doubt not) by the same spirit.

*Either from countrey or Court,
Martin Mar-Prelate will do you hurt.*

Epist. to Mart.
Epitome.

Hack. decla.

Now that Copinger was a dealer in these thinges, with Wigginton before they were printed, it appeareth by these wordes of Hackets in his last declaration to maister Young: Wiggintons boy can declare all his Maisters writings: for the boy and Maister Copinger, sate writing halfe a night, by this examines bedde side, but what they writte, he cannot tell: but one word he heard: that the Countrey Clowne, can teach the king to weare the Crowne.

After

Afterwardes (as I take it) \z, the 9. of July, being fryday M. Charke preached at the blacke Fryers, at which Sermō Copinger was present : who misliking (as it seemeth) some wordes then vttered, did write a letter presently to M. Charke : wherein amongst other pointes, he sayth. Right reuerend Sir &c. I do not denie (good Sir) but I haue new a long time taken a strange and extraordinary course, but such as hath offered occasion of suspicion, of my not onely doing hurt to my selfe, but also to the best sort of men now in question, and to the cause it selfe. But by what warrant I haue done this, that is all. For if the holy Ghost hath beene my warrant, and carieth mee into such actions, as are differing from other mens &c. What flesh and blood dare speake against it, &c. Forbeare to censure me and such other, as should deale extraordinarily with mee, in the Lordes busines, committed to our charge; and iudge of vs, by the effectes which follow: which if you heare after see to bee wonderfull great, then let all ordinary men call themselues to an examination &c. And after. The waste of the Church cannot be denied to be greate, so that there is a place for extraordinary men, &c. Againe, my desire heretofore hath beene to haue hadde counsaile and direction: but now by comfortable experience, I finde, that the action which the Lorde hath drawn me into is his owne: and he will direct it himselfe by the holy Ghost &c. To conclude, I beseech you (saith he) to shew this letter to M. Trauers and M Egerton.

Cop. to Charke
9. July .1591.

M. Charke, vpon the receipt of this letter, preaching againe the Sunday after, in the same place, vttered in his sermon, these wordes, which (Copinger saith) were ment of him, in respect of his foresaide letter: there are some persons so desperate, that they would willingly thrust themselues vpon the rockes of the land. This also appeareth by an other letter, cōcerning this second sermon, written about the 13. or 14. of Iulie, to an other preacher in London, but hee is not na-

Copin. to a preacher the 13. or 14. of July.

164. English Scottizing, for Discipline, by force. The 4. Booke.
med. it had beene to good purpose, if hee had beene named. For it seemeth hee was as thoroughly acquainted with Coppinger, and his fellowes designements, as it may be well supposed, that Wigginton was.

In my letter (vnto Charke) I manifested my selfe to haue an extraordinarie calling, and signified, that the Lord had so called others besides my selfe, who would approue our selues, to bee the seruantes of the Lorde, in a high calling. Againe the ship (that is the Church) had perished, if the Lord had not immediately called three of vs, to helpe to recouer it &c. My calling is especially to deale with Magistrates: another hath to doe with Ministers, who hath written a letter to you of the Citie &c. The thirde is the chiefe, who can neither write nor reade, so that hee is the executioner of the Lords most holy wil. He further offereth to acquaint this Minister, with their whole course, and willet him to shew this letter to his breithren, and to publish it, where euer hee should goe.

Hack. last ext.

Hacket confessed, that being about this time, (as I take it) with Wigginton, the saide Wigginton affirmed, in the presence of two gentlemen and others, that if the Magistrates did not gouerne well, the people might draw themselues together and to see a reformation.

Vpon the 15. day of Iuly, Copinger and Arthington did write a iointe letter of purpose to haue drawne Lancaster vnto them, for the making vp of a quaternion. And this was one perswasion. If I Ed. Coppinger, do not prefer you, before any one man in the land, who soeuer, for your wise, holy, louing, and religious course, both in the generall calling of a Christian, and in your particular calling, the Lord confound me.

After Lancaster had receiued this letter, notwithstanding he writ vnto him, of some mislike he had of their proceedings, yet (as Hacket saith,) he came vnto them all three,
the

The 4. Booke. English Scottizing, for discipline by force. 165.

the same night, to one Walkers house at Broken wharfe, where they conferred together about an hower after supper. Of what great account this Lancaster and some others were, with these companions, it doth further appeare by that which followeth. The same day in the morning that Copinger and Arthington made their seditious Proclamation in Cheapside: they two together first, and afterwaide Hacket, came vnto Wigginton, & amongst many things, (as Wigginton himselfe cōfesseth) they told him; that M. Cartwright had done more against Antichrist then any in the worlde before him, since the Apostles times; and that Wigginton, was comparable vnto him, and that M. Lancaster was aboue them both, in the estate of heauenlie glorie, because he had kept himselfe vndefiled from the common corruptions of these times, and had a most simple hart to God. Likewise also they saide to Wigginton, at the same time, that Reformation and the Lordes discipline should now forthwith bee established: and therefore charged Wigginton in the Lordes name to put all Christians in comfort, that they should see a ioyfull alteration, in the state of Church gouernment, shortly.

Hack. ex. 21
of Iuly-

16, of Iuly

Arthington, after being examined said, that Penry had sent him word by a letter out of Scotland, that reformation must shortly be erected in England: and that he tooke him (in so writing) to bee a true Prophet. It is not also vnlikely, but that Penry was a Prouoker of these men to such their outrages: hoping, that vpon their outcries & proclamations the people would haue risen. For he was then in London to haue played his part if their attempts had found the good successe, they looked for. Marry when he saw Hacket executed: he presentlie (the same day) posted backe againe towards Scotland.

1enk. Ioh. ex 3

C H A P. X I.

Of the trayterous intendments which were towardes the Court.

Arthingtons
prophetic.

Vdall.&c.

Efore this their intended insurrection, it is to be further remembred vnto you what was disclosed amongst themselves in their owne discourses and propheties, (as since it appeareth,) concerning the meanes, whereby they thought to haue preuailed, for their discipline, &c. by those their most lewde, seditious, and trayterous attempts. Her Maiesties course helde, for the maintenance of the present gouernement of the Church: was their chiefe grief, (which course they tearmed the defence of abomination: the bearing of the beasts marke, the thrusting of Iesus Christ out of his own rule & gouernment) and the arraignment of some, with the imprisonment of Cartwright & others.

If the Starre chamber day (before mentioned) had held, some of her Maiesties most honourable priuy Counsaile, (whom they supposed to stand most in their light) should neuer haue departed thence aliuie. After that plot sayling they deuised how by their imprecations and cursing of themselves they might perswade the people, that certaine of the Lordes of the saide most honourable Counsaile, were traytors. Wherein how they preuailed I know not: but this I find, that they had not onely determined to haue removed them all from her Maiestie: & to haue placed others in their rooms, (whom they had already named particularly,) but likewise to haue proceeded against their LL<sup>s</sup>. with very hard censures. The Lord pardon their soules, (saith Copinger) for in their

Coppinger in
a letter.

The 4. Booke. English Scottizing, for discipline by force. 167 their outward man, they must be punished, though they repent.
Nay in their own conceits: they had likewise already deprived some of the chiefe of their LL<sup>s</sup> from their greate places of honor: so as when they tooke occasion, to speake seditiously of them, they vsed their bare names, without any of the honourable titles, belonging vnto them: as [such a man lately such an officer, Chancellor or Treasurer, &c.

Besides (when the time of their said intended insurrection grew nigh,) they sent to haue her Maiestie moued for the committing of her saide Councillors: least in the vprotes, which they meant to stir, their LL<sup>s</sup>. might haue beene violently surprised &c. they hauing peradventure some purpose, to bring them afterwarde to some of their own more publike courtes of iustice. I do aduise (saith Cop-<sup>ibid.</sup> pinge,) that euery one of her Councell, be commanded, to keepe their house or chamber for feare of stir & danger: and that such and such, &c. be appointed to waite vpon her: and that maister Wigginton, (in more fauour with God then any man of his cal- ling, wbo soeuer, ) be commanded to be neare her highnesse, to pray to God, and to preach priuately, &c.

But that which is especially most horrible, (although they might seem, by this last prouision, for her Maiesty, to haue indeede some good regard of her safety) yet is it cōfessed to haue bin affirmed amongst them: that her highnes
was worthy to be deprived, for giuing credite and countenance to the Bishops and such other wicked persons: and for misusing her good subiectes, I think they ment the imprisonment of Cart- wright and the rest.

Arth. exami
19. of Iuly

It is also further confessed by Arthington, that his fellowes refused to pray for her Maiestie: and in his second examination, he acknowledgeth, that hee verily thinketh, that Hacket meant her Maiestie should haue beene deprived: and in his long Apologie vnto the LL<sup>s</sup>. th us: In my conscience Hac-
ket

ket meant to murder those noble men, that hindered his purpose, one way or other, &c. and asier, &c, to haue done that, which my heart and hand for trembling cannot expresse.

Hack, on the torture.
Hacket examined. 24. Iuly

Hacket to M. Yong in presence of diuerse.

Agreeable hereunto, are Hackets wordes, both before he was condemned, and after. If (saith he) Copinger, one Catiline late of Oundell, & Wigginton were straitly examined: they could utter and declare matters of treason. And at another time: If these fellows (meaning Copinger and Wigginton, &c) were wel sifted, they could declare al the treasons. And the morning before his death. It was a gracious and an happy turne, that these treasons were in time reuealed: for otherwise it would haue cost a number of innocent men their bloud: but now (I trust in God,) that they will reueale their treasons. And thus you see the end and drift of the foresaid extraordinary callings, for the setting vp and establishing of the pretended holy discipline.

C H A P. X I I.

That of long time, some such attemptes as Hacket made for Discipline: were of greate likelyhood purposed.

Conspiracy for Discipline

Y purpose was not, from the beginninge, eyther to set downe, or to prosecute, the full hystorie of these desperate reformers, (which is most effectually performed already by another), otherwise then they doe concerne some other persons, and especially those, not of the meanest of our Disciplinarian Ministers, and are therby verie pertinent (in my opinion) to shew the point, I haue in hand, of the brethrens imitation of the Scottish ministers reformation. For I trust (as I said, in the entrance to this part,) it wil not now be denied but that great & many threatning speeches are published:

One

One telleth vs, that great troubles will come of it, if the brethren may not be suffered to do what they list: another, that they can no longer endure to be used as they are: another in effect: that our Bishops shalbe used, as they were in Scotland: and that there are moe of this confederacy, then can be suppressed: another, that it is more then time, for the hottest brethren to set up the Discipline themselues, without any further staying for Parliaments: a Synode, that the people, being first instructed, are then to be thrust into the publike practise of the Discipline: another man, that seeing the brethren cannot obtain their wils, by sute nor dispute, the multitude and people must worke the feat: another, that inferior Magistrates of their owne authority, within their limits, are to make this new reformation: another, that it is a shame for all the fauorers of this faction, in that for feare of disturbing of our state, (forsooth,) and offending of her Maiestie, they had not before this time cast out our Bishops: another, that there are a hundred thousand of this brotherhoode in England, who if they come with a petition for the discipline to her Maiestie, cannot in pollicie be reiected, without danger: another that approoued and worthy men of euerie shire haue already consented to this Discipline: that the Eldership is at hande: that the people are inflamed with zeale, & that it is impossible to stand against it: another, that there is a deuise amongst them, how to obtaine their desires all in one day: another, that Bishops are to be packing after the Fryers and Monkes: another, that they will haue their Discipline in spight of all the aduersaries of it: another, that it is dangerous to the state, if they haue not their willes, in regard of the discontentment, which wil ensue thereby, in the heartes of her Maiesties subiectes: another in effect, that the Discipline is like to come into our Church, by such a meanes, as will make all the Bishoppes heartes to ake: and another, that he is of this minde, that reformation wil not be had without bloud.

Now if any man, to extenuate these things, shal say: let euery man beare his own burthen, & be charged with his own particular actions: what some in the heate of their zeale haue published, it ought to haue a charitable construction, & cannot wel be further extended, to touch any other: as if al the factioners had entred into such a seditious conspiracie, as the said threatning speeches do import, I answere, that some indeede there be, that do cast these & such like colours ouer this matter, to bleare mens eyes withall. Some commends their zeale, but not their discretion: some allow their matter, but not their manner: and some will take vpon them to excuse both: but as yet I neuer heard any of that crue, but hee would eyther in one respect or other, find some occasion to commend the worst of them.

Besides where so many of any one sect do concurre in their writings, about any new point: it is commonly taken to be the iudgement of them all. And who knoweth not, that if Cartwright and the rest, had not secretly clapped such fellowes on the backs for their zeale, and laughed in their sleues to see them go so forward, but had disliked them: his earnest reproofe of the first (being their Apostle and worthy) would haue preuented all the others that followed, being his Disciples. But if it be true, (that I haue heard reported) that vpon the comming forth of Martins Epistle: Maister Cartwright should say: seeing the Bishops would take no warning: it is no matter that they are thus handled: Surely those words, from him were enough to set these men agogge: So as, that which is commonly reported of great robberies: may fitly serue to satiffie the bowlsterers of such lewdnesse.

There are (say they) in such attemptes not onely executioners, but also setters, receiuers, and fauourers: and in matters.

The 4. Booke. English Scottizing, for discipline by force. 172
matters of treason concealers : who are all of them within the daunger & compasse of law. How this may be applied, I leaue it, to any reasonable mans consideration, that shall be pleased to weigh the premisses, atwell concerning the said threatening speeches & great braggés : as also the course which was helde, by the ministers in prison, and those of the London-fraternitie, together with some others, touching the attemptes, which Coppinger and his fellowes tooke vpon them to effect.

---

CHA. XIII.

Briefe collections : whereby it may summarily appeare: that certaine Ministers in London did know, what Coppinger intended.

Wigginton (as you haue heard) vpon Cartwrightes commitment, &c. writeth of a bickering, and then a battell to be looked for. Coppinger with his companions fasteth, & so dreameth of a way, howe to worke wonders. He sendeth into Scotland concerning an extraordinary calling, signifying that some did fancy to themselues such a manner of calling, who would hazard their liues, that Christ himselfe, by the abolishing of the Antichristian tyranny, (which he affirmed did raigne in our Church,) might gouerne in his owne kingdome. Wigginton afterwarde proueth the lawfulnessse of such a calling, in these dayes, our Churches lying wast &c. Coppinger and Wigginton with some others, do thereupon fast againe, to know which of them should be so called. The lot (forfooth) falling vpon Coppinger chiefly he is not silent : but maister Wentworth (amongst others)

172 English Scottizing, for Discipline by force. The 4. Booke.
must be of his priuy Council. He also disclosed himselfe, (after a fort) as you haue heard, to certaine of the Ministers in London before mentioned: and namely to Maister Cartwright, imparting vnto him his seuerall callings to an extraordinary course for the discipline, &c. His said writings into Scotland, and Wiggintons said approbation of an extraordinary calling. He sent Maister Cartwright the same propositions, that Wigginton had allowed: whereof maister Cartwright, asierwardes thought, there might bee good vse: hee signified vnto him, that by his calling, he was to take in hand such busines, as in the eyes of flesh and bloud, was likely to bring great danger to himselſe, and vnlkely to bring any good successe to the Church:
he told him, that if he had not beene discouraged, he had before that day procured the release of some, that stood then in daunger of their liues, meaning (as I suppose) Vdall, and Newman, &c.

As he dealt with Cartwright, so did he with the other Ministers, and with some of them more plainly, desiring still of them all, both Cartwright and the rest, and that most instantlie, that he might be conferred withall, offering himselfe to be altogether ruled by them, either to proceede (if they thought meete) in his saide so dangerous businesse, or otherwise wholly to desist and leaue it off. He also offered to imparte vnto them all his designements, as to M. Cartwright, not onely in generality what he intended, but also the particular meanes, whereby he purposed to bring the same to passe. Afterwardes when through his acquaintance with Hacket, by Wiggintons meanes, & other encouragements giuen him by an other of his lay friends: and by Wigginton &c, that he grew to be more resolute: hee signified the same to M. Charke, (not past six days before their furie brake forth,) stil yet desiring conference with him, Trauers, Egerton, Gardiner, Cooper and Philips.

CHAP. XII II.

The cunning dealing of certaine ministers in London, how notwithstanding they wished Coppingers plot to goe forward: yet they might be (if it were possible) without the compasse of law.

Consider I pray you the policy, which the saide ministers (mentioned in the end of the former Chap.) vsed. They at the beginning, no sooner heard of Coppingers conceit of an extraordinary calling, to worke such great matters: but by & by, (as mé acquainted with the fore-saide Geneva positions,) they very well knewe, wherunto that matter tended. And therefore wher-as the poore misse-led gentleman, would haue imparted vnto them, al his secretes: they started from that point, and refused wholly to take from him any knowledge of them.

They sent him some cold messages, of their dislike of his proceedings, (which they after qualified, as it hath been shewed,) not so much to withdraw him from his lewdenesse, as that therby if thinges fell out amisse, they might haue some meanes to cleare themselues, by the testimonies of such their messengers, as Hockenbull and others. And touching conference that was also by them denied, and surely vpon good and prouident reasons. For if therby, they should haue yielded in opinion vnto him, they knewe it might haue brought them into apparant danger. Besides, they were not vnlike by sufficient arguments to haue dissuaded him, from such a fantasie: which (as it seemeth) was very farre from their meaning. And lastly, it was almost impossible, but that in their debating bating with him of his pretended calling, he must needs haue made some mention of such particulars, as with their own safety they durst not haue concealed: & so that way also his platforme would haue beene dashed. The safest way therefore, for them was, not to haue any conference at all with him: and that course (for ought I finde) they tooke: to the hardning of Coppingers hart, and his fellows: and to the greate aduenturing of all the mischiefes, that were intended.

It was not denied amongst them, (as Coppinger sayth,) but that the cause was good, which he desired to be an actor in: but the thing that stucke in their teeth, was this: vz. they thought it impossible that he should be fit to intermeddle in it, without the endaungering both of himselfe (as Egerton saide,) and of the greate cause which hee would seeme to be most desirous so further. Howbeit though Egerton would not take vpon him, to approue his extraordinary calling, (for feare of him-selfe:) yet (for all the saide daunger) hee thought it no pollicy greatly to discourage him, when he qualified his speeches after this sort: vz. hee would be loth to quench the spirite of God in Coppinger, or to hinder his zeale.

Numb. 27.
Deut. 31

Iosuah. 1.9.

Iosuah was called extraordinarily by God him-selfe, to cast the enemies of the Israelites out of the land of Canaan, that they might possesse it. Which example M. Wentworth applying to Coppinger, and encouraging him, vpon aduice taken, as the Lord did Iosuah: vz. be bold & of a good courage, feare not to be discouraged &c. he shewed no greate mislike of Copingers purposes. Likewise, though M. Throgmorton, notwithstanding his conference, (as it seemeth) with Coppinger, Arthington and Hacket, was not acquainted (as he saide,) with Copingers particular platformes: yet in that he confesseth, he had heard some buzzes abroade of a sole

sole and singular course intended, & doth not only advise him to imitate the serpent's wisdom, but saith also, that in affection and good will he is joynd with him: it could not otherwise be, but that Coppinger was thereby greatly animated.

When Copinger tolde Vdall that certaine unlearned men, then lying hid, would shortly take upon them the defence of the cause, which hee and his brethren in prison stood for, and would thereby daunt all their enemies, more then they could, willinge both him and the rest, ther-upon to cheare up themselves, (for the day of their redemption was at hand: I doe greatly maruaile, what Vdall thought to be Copingers meaning.

It might well haue stood with M. Charles duety, (seeing Coppingers full resolution to enter into some desperate attempt, by vertue of his extraordinarie calling,) to haue disclosed the same to the state. When he preached in the Blacke Friars, to the brotherhood there, about two days after his said intelligence of Copingers resolution, and but five or six daies before their proclamation that there were some persons, so desperate that they would willingly thrust themselves upon the rockes of the Land, thereby to haue dissuaded Copinger, (who then was present,) or for what other purpose, I know not: hee should forth with haue acquainted the saide rockes also, what boisterous tempestes and violēt stormes had beene ready to assault them.

In this brieue summary, I omitt the rest of Wiggintons actions, referring you to his fellow Hackets iudgement, both of him and them. They are so apparant, by that which hath been sayd, as they seeme to me, to be past conjectures. And I would withal my hart, that all which hath bene herherto saide of the other ministets, touching this point, did onely depende vpon probabilities. For then charity would binde vs to iudge the best. But men may not

176. English Scottizing, for discipline by force. The. 4 Booke.
not cal goodewill, nor darkenesse light, nor treasonable conspiracies, ecclesiasticall pollicies. Marke them (if it please you) for disciplinarian practises: and then bearing that brande, owne them, who liste, and tearme them as you fancy.

C H A P. X V.

If Hackets treasons had preuailed for the pretended discipline, how they might haue beene defended by the disciplinarie doctrine.

Am not ignorant, that now, if any of the saide ministers or their fauorers were asked, how they like of Coppingers and his companions proceedings: no men will more eagerlie exclaime against them. When Hacket with his adherents, found themselues preuented, and that they were cut of in the beginning of their race, then (to saue their liues) they could confes, their extraordinary purposes, pretended before with teares, with fasting, (with grones and imprecations, to haue proceeded from the spirit of God,) to be nothing else, but illusions of Sa-thã, cruel, bloody, & trayterous designements. But if they had preuailed, what would haue been said of them then?
Surely it is no hard matter to gesse. If Coppinger, Hacket, and Arthington, had murdered two or three of the Lords in the Star-chamber, the last day of the said Trinity Terme, the Consistorian doctrine would easily haue defended it:
especially if their further intents for the discipline, had thereby succeeded. I will tell you a notable historie to this purpose.

About the yeare 1545. (M. Caluin then raiging in the Con-

Consistorie at Geneva,) one Norman Lesly son to the Earle of Rothsey, fell at some iarre with the Archbishop of S. Andrewes, then a Cardinall: for a priuate cause (saith our Chronicle & Buchanans) betwixt them two, for his dealing, concerning the burning of one George Wisehart, (saith the history of the Church of Scotland.) Whereupon the said Norman, with some of his partakers conspired the Cardinals death, they being the rather animated therunto, through the Council of some greate men of the Realme, that had conceived some deadly hatred against him. The effecting of which conspiracie, proceeded after this sort, as is set downe in the saide Ecclesiasticall history. The 29. of Maie 1546, the saide Norman, with 16, or 17. moe, entred by a wile into the Castle of S. Andrewes, (where the Cardinal dwelt) early in the morning: and after some course taken for possessing themselves of the castle, Norman Lesly, James Meluin, and Peter Carmichael, got into the Cardinals chamber, where finding him set in his chayre, and crying vnto them: I am a Priest, yee will not slay mee? the saide Lesly stroke him first, once or twice, and so did the saide Peter. But James Meluin (a man, you may be sure, of nature most gentle and most modest,) perceiuing them both in choller, withdrew them, and saide: This worke and iudgement of God, (although it be secrete,) ought to be done with greater grauitie. And presenting vnto him the point of the sworde, saide. Repent thee of thy former wicked life, but especially of the shedding of the blood, of that notable instrument of God, M. George Wisehart, which albeit the flame of fire consumed before men, yet cries it a vengeance vpon thee, and we from God are sent to reuenge it. For here before my God, I protest that neither the hatred of thy person, the loue of thy riches, nor the feare of any trouble, thou couldest haue done to mee in particular, moued, or moueth me to strike thee: but onely because thou hast bene and remainest an obstinate enimie against

The hist. of the church of Scotland. pa. 143. 144. 145.

F. Thyn. an d Buchanan.

Hist. of the church of Scotland.

The godly fact and wordes of Iam. Meluin.

178. English Scottizing, for discipline by force. The. 4 Booke
Christ Iesus and his holy Gospell. And so hee stroke him, twise or thrise through, with a stog-sworde : and so he fell. The Cardinall being thus murdered, they seized upon the Artill- lerie and munition, wherewith that fortresse was plentifully fur- nished, and likewise upon the rich hangings, householde stuffe, of all sortes, apparell, Copes, iewels, ornamentes of Churches, greate store of gold and siluer plate, besides no small quantitie of trea- sure in ready coine.

F. Thin. and Buchanan.

Some amongst vs in Englande, haue laboured very ear-nestlie to qualifie Copingers words, where he said, that God would throw some fearefull iudgement amongst the Lordes, so as some the chiefe of them should not goe alieue out of the place : as though there had beene no violent course intended by him & his associates, but that (in his fond conceit) he had imagined, that God himselfe from heauen, should haue shewed that iudgement, for the deliuerance of Cartwright and the rest. And in my conscience, one gentelman of good credit, not acquainted at all with the Consistorian doctrine, in these & such like matters thought so in his hart.
But here this maske is pluckt from such faces as could not be ignorant, what was ment, in that the same spirit which was in Copinger, speaking before in Iames Meluin, or rather (as I thinke) in Knox, and his fellow-ministers, (according to whose humor he penned that history,) doe tearme the saide cruell murder of the Cardinall, to bee the worke and iudgement of God, & that for the manner of the executiō of it. Besides in the margent of the Booke: ouer against the Stabbers blasphemous wordes, this note is set downe, vz.
the godly fact and wordes of Iames Meluin. But that, which moueth me most, and for the which I haue troubled you with this historie, is this : that men are animated to commit the like murders, and the doctrine thereof is stoutely iustified according to the heathenish conceit, of a certaine tyrant tyrant, whom Cicero also (a heathen man, but yet of better judgement) doth confute.

Dionysius, hauing spoiled the temple of Proserpina, at Locris, of Iupiter in Peloponnesus, of Aesculapius at Epidaurus, because Proserpina drowned him not, as he sayled to Syracuse nor Iupiter stroke him in peeces with his thunderboltes, nor Aesculapius made an ende of him by some long & miserable consumption, both he himselfe, and many others, accounted such his sacrilege, to be both iust and lawfull. And euen so it falleth out, for the murther I speake of. He that hath eyes to see let him see.

Cicer. de naz. turra deorum lib. 3.

After the foresaid Castel was surprised, and the Cardinall was murdered, Lesly with his company, Knox and the rest kept the same Castel by force against the Governour. But at the last they were compelled to yeeld it vp: and being thereupon sent (as prisoners) into Fraunce, they were (by directions there) committed some of thē to the Gallies, and some to other prisons. Howbeit in the ende they all escaped with their liues, by one meanes or other, sauing the saide James Meluin, who dyed in prison, wherevpon commeth in this notable Consistorian doctrine, borrowed of the said heathenish conclusions.

The hist. of the church of Scotland.

This we write, vz. (how all but Meluin escaped) to let the posterities to come vnderstand, (saith Knox and his fellowes) how potently God wrought, in preseruing and deliuering of these that had but a smal knowledge of his truth, & for the loue of the same hazarded all. That if that, eyther we (now in our dayes,) hauing greater light, or our posterities, (that shall follow vs) shall see a fearefull dispersion of such as oppone themselues to impiety, or take vpon them to punish the same, otherwise then lawes of men will permit: if (wee say) we or they shall see such left of men yea as it were despised and punished of God, yet let vs not damme the persons that punish vice, (and that for iust cause:) nor yet de- spaire, but that the same God, that deiects (for causes unknown to vs) will raise up againe the persons deiected to his glorie, and their comfort.

A gaine if our said seditious persons had preuailed with the multitude, (in their other plot) concerning their purposes of remouing some of her maiesties most honorable Priny Councell, from her seruice in that place : and in appointing others to succede them, (whom they fancied to be fauourers of their Discipline) : you should haue heard ( I warrant you ) no cries of the brotherhood, nor complaints in your streets, of any of that faction. It would haue beene saide, as Goodman taught at Geneua, that seeing the saide Councillors were enemies to Christes kingdome, and did seduce her Maiestie now, that God had raised them up, an Othniel or a Ionathan to assist them, why should they not haue ioyned themselues vnto him? Oh (would some haue said) the holy discipline, the holy discipline, the holy discipline: what Prince or Potentate may resist the holy discipline and prosper? Others. See the hand of the Lorde : when men do faile what God can doe. Others, the greatest workes, that euer were done in the behalfe of the Church, haue beene brought to passe by the basest meanes. Others, this is the worke of God, and it is admirable in our eyes. Others, thus Iosuah being extraordinarily strengthened by God, threw thirty kings out of the land of Canaan. Others, sufficient warning was giuen, & what would they haue had men to haue done? Then should you haue had such a declaration, or proclamation, as you haue before heard of: penned (no doubt) by some of the Consistorian ministers in Scotland: vz. of the iust and necessary causes, mouing them and their assistantes her Maiesties faithfull subiects, to repaire to her Maiesty: for resisting of the present daungers, appearing to Gods true religion and professors thereof, &c. and to seeke redres and reformation of abuses, remouing from her Maiesty, the chiefe authors ther-

Declaration 1582, before
mentioned.

The 4. Booke. English Scottizing for Discipline by force. 181
of &c. that with common consent, redresse and remedy might bee provided: Or termed. The repairing towards Greenwich to the
Q. Maiesty, as else where such attempts haue been colored.

Proclamation
at Sterling.
1585.
F. Thin.

Likewise, if yet things had not squared to their likings, and that they had gone further with good successe in any violent course against her maiesty, (as it is confessed they purposed to haue done,) then also the Geneua-diuinity must haue borne the brunt, for the iustification of such extraordinary iudgements of God. And thus you should haue had these matters smoothed ouer, as partly it may appeare by the assault mentioned at Sterling, wherein the king was present in person: and partly by the Consistorian propositions, (before set down) touching this point, with many other things, both to be noted in the premises, and also in those bookes, out of the which the saide propositions, are drawen.

I will not trouble you any further with Iffs, although I could adde, that if the said traitors had proceeded on forward, with their confessed purposes, to haue touched her maisties estate: there wanteth no lesse defence, by Disciplinarian learning, for such a matter, then for the premises.
You may remember the seditious & intollerable propositions before mentioned, as they are truely collected out of our own countrey mens books, infected at Geneua with that pestilent doctrine. Many examples also would haue beene brought, for that purpose, out of Buchanan, Beza, Knox and the rest of that humor: especially the graue resolution giuen by Knox and Wollocke, generally against all Princes, but particularly then vrged and effected, by the deposing of the king of Scots grandmother, from her ciuil gouernment of that land. And peradventure a part of the said Knox his exhortation to England written from Geneua
the twelfth of January 1559. (as soone as he hearde of her

Histo. of the Church of Scotland, p. 2.
372 373.

Exhort pag.
91. 92.

182. English Scottizing, for Discipline by force. The 4. Booke.
maiesties possession of the royall Crown of this Realme,) would haue bene iustified: where he saith, that no power, nor liberty, ought to be permitted to any state, degree, or authority, (whatsoever they bee: ) to liue without the yoke of Discipline, &c: and that if Prince, King or Emperour, would enterprise to change or disannull the same, he ought to be reputed an ennemie to God, and therefore unworthy to raigne about his people.

And thus you see how all these treasons, if they had happened, with what Consistorian zeale they might haue been defended afterward, by the Disciplinarian doctrine, which hath bene sent abroad into this Island from Geneua: and meetely well practised already, in some partes thereof, by men of that stampe. Whereupon I do collect, (the premises considered) by Cartwrights & other the ministers intelligence, with Copingers desperate purposes, that they cared not what mischiefs had ensued, so they themselves might haue bene safe. For (as it is most euident, by the threatening speeches before mentioned,) there is nothing more laboured for, amongst that sect, then to thrust their many thousandes, or some of them into some mutiny or bloudy attempt. Their hope was, that vpon any such occasion, their chiefe fauourers would not cease to solicit her maiesty, (for feare of further trouble) to graunt their desires, or (at the least) to take some other course, for their contentment, then hitherto (in their opinions) there hath bene taken. They knew, that whatsoever either could or should fall out, vnder the pretence of seeking for Christs kingdome, and for the extirpation of the present government of our Church (tearmed by them to bee so abominable & Antichristian), if it had good successe for their deuised platformes, yet the said Consistorian examples, with their Allobrogicall new learning, would haue borne it out sufficiently, and maintained it. I pray God deliuer Englad from

from these and such like points of Discipline.

For mine own part, I would not haue, vrged matters in this sort, were it not, that I thinke (in my conscience) it is more then high time, that her maiesties faithfull [subiectes should learne to know these practises, and withall to beware of such sectaries, as (vnder their many, both godly and goodly pretences) do thus seditiously endeouour to disturbe the land. And the rather also, I did it, because I see there are diuerse, that will needes hood-winke themselves, and stop their eares, with the Serpent in the Psalme of purpose, because they would gladly haue these things smothered vp. For hereby it will be apparant to our posterity, that if any such mischiefes, (which God forbid) shal happen hereafter, they were sufficiently warned, that both should and might (in good time) haue preuented them, and withall it would then be found true which Li- uie saith: urgentibus rempublicam fatis, Dei & hominum salutares admonitiones spernuntur. When the Lorde for the finnes of the people, is purposed to punish any Countrey: he blindeth the eyes of the wise, so as they shall either neglect, or not perceiue those ordinary meanes, for the safety thereof, which very simple men, (or babes in a manner) did easily foresee. Which iudgement I pray God turne far away, and long from this and all other true Christian lands and kingdomes. Amen.

Lib. 5 dec. 1

FINIS.

CBP

Leo X, prophesied, as Caiaphas, etc. ?

"The multitude" — 135+

Abaz's Syrian altar 48+

Handwritten text in a cursive script, likely a list or ledger, with entries such as "for", "to", and "of".

Large, mostly blank area of aged, stained paper with some faint, illegible markings.

22

